ONE OF THE TEXAS PRISONERS.

We find in the Harrington Flag, published at Marshall, Texas, a letter from the intelligent and accomplished wife of Mr. C. L. Pitcher, one of the Jefferson prisoners who have been confined in the stockade at that place for many months. Mrs. Pitcher's statement is well calculated to create indignation in the heart of every honest man at the shameful tyranny practiced by the Federal military officers. The exercise of such tyranny is a crime, as distinctly wrong as robbery or murder, and it should, like them, be punished as a crime.

Mrs. Pitcher writes from Jefferson. She explains so far as she knows, why her husband, with no accusation against him, was consigned to prison. She says that on the 2d of last February she discharged, as a matter of necessity, two of her negro servants, a man and his wife. They were very angry at being discharged, and uttered threats as to what they would do. On the evening of the same day a Federal officer entered Mr. Pitcher's store, on pretense of purchasing some article, and asked, as it casually, which of the persons present was Mr. Pitcher. On being answered, he walked up to Mr. P., arrested him, and compelled him to go before the commander of the post, by whom he was sent to the stockade, not a single word being deigned by either of the officers as to the cause of the treatment. Having been in the stockade for months, his confinement became so irksome and intolerable, his health so bad, and his pecuniary loss so great, that, in his impatience and suffering, he wrote letters of complaint, which, on account of the exact truth, exasperated the Commander. As a consequence, on the 30th ultimo, on his return from the court-room, where he was undergoing his trial, he was shut up in a cell six feet by eight, the walls being three plank deep and almost air-tight. He was kept in that horrid and stifling den for 12 hours, when, in consequence of the surgeon's giving a written opinion that he would die if he remained there longer, small aperture were made in the cell, but he was not removed from it. Up to the date of his wife's letter, he was kept in close confinement, allowed, notwithstanding the extreme delicacy of his health, only the rations of a common soldier, debarred from seeing his wife, denied the privilege of reading, and even a light at night, and forbidden to see a minister of the gospel or to have a copy of the Bible.

Mrs. Pitcher says that she shall appeal in her husband's behalf to Gen. Reynolds and to the President of the United States, but evidently all her appeals and those of others can do no good. There can be no hope that the high functionaries, who have so long practiced or tolerated the most cruel persecutions with a full knowledge of their existence, will correct them now. The relations between Texas and the United States, according to Grant's & Anderson's General, are the relations of war, the latter, when Mr. Pitcher is a prisoner of war, and, when he shall have been sentenced by the Military Commission and executed, he and his fellow-prisoners will probably be handed into the ground and marine guards stationed over their dust who never shall be a Federal apprehension that flowers may be thrown by the hand of affection upon their graves.

MORMON ASSASSINS.
The Salt Lake Reporter gives the following account of Brigham Young's cut throat:

A certain number, said to be 12, of the most desperate characters in the church, were selected from among the Danites to commit such assassinations as might be found necessary by the prophet for the welfare and advancement of his holy cause. The murder of Gov. Boggs fortunately failed, and at least one of the would-be murderers is now known to live in Utah. Both of these secret societies now exist in Salt Lake City.

The discipline is more perfect under Brigham Young than under Joe Smith, and consequently the aims more sure, the objects more certainly accomplished. No sooner does a Gentile enter Salt Lake City than he is placed under the surveillance of the secret police. A member of the Danite organization is deputed to watch him from the time he comes until he leaves. His habits, words and carriage, expressions of opinion are noted and reported, that the Mormon authorities may determine whether he is a friend, a secret enemy, or an open and avowed opposer of Mormon inquiry. The day has been when expressions of opinions identical with the Mormon leaders would result in assassination to the bold defender, and sometimes even the mere suspicion that a Gentile was opposed to Mormon rule would produce such a result.

The true secret of Brigham's great success is controlling the discordant elements of which his church is composed, is due to the Danites. The Mormons know that certain death by assassination awaits a violation of their oath, and that it is safe to come with the opportunity. It is true that many apostates have escaped assassination, but this was owing to the fact that they used subterfuge to place themselves beyond Brigham's power; but even in instances are not wanting of Danites having followed apostates into different cities of the United States, hoping for a favorable opportunity to assassinate. Others escape because for the time it is deemed inexpedient to kill them. Recent mysterious deaths of Gentiles near Salt Lake City have for a short time excited comment, but finally they have been forgotten. No cartridges, no gunboats have investigated facts and circumstances, and no inquiry has been made by the authorities into the cause of their deaths. But such a system cannot be perpetuated. The government must, sooner or later, throw her protecting banner over her citizens in Utah, and not allow it to be said it is cut up by a vile and lecherous priesthood.

Globe's new organ, "The Imperialist," praises the Grand Army of the Republic, and tells precisely the number of fighting men it can bring into the field at an hour's notice. It says: "It is a disciplined army of ten thousand, hard and strong. This silent, unarm'd army garrison the entire North." This advocate of monarchy is the confidential organ of the "Grand Army of the Republic," drilling to overthrow the Republic and establish a monarch, would be a fitting finale to the reign of despotism inaugurated by the election of Lincoln.
