The Daily Sentinel.

JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

A correspondent of the Chicago Times, writing from the City of Berlin, Prussia, gives the following interesting description of the magnificent Aquarium in that city:

"It is of vast proportions, very interesting and complete, has been fitted up and arranged at immense expense; and, on the whole, is one of the finest things I have seen in Europe; and, as well as my poor abilities will permit me, I will try and give you a brief description of what I saw.

The interior is made to represent vast caverns, and when inside you can easily imagine you are deep down in the bowels of the earth. Yet this is all imagination; all has been built and so arranged that the deception is complete, and instead of seeming, as you really are, about on a level with the street, you are apparently many, many feet below; and though it looks like one of nature's roughest handiwork, it is alone the cunning work of man. Yet, to all appearance, one would suppose it was only the glass and iron that man had supplied which prevents and keeps within their allotted and natural elements the inhabitants which are here on exhibition.

It reminds one of our Kentucky and other caves; and as you pass from chamber to chamber you can hardly, in your own mind, believe that it is made from any plan of the architect, for it is one mass of rugged and immense blocks of natural stone, piled so apparently carelessly upon each other—forming, as they do, the pillars and the support of the wondrous ceilings of their vast and numerous chambers.

The steps as you ascend and descend from one apartment to the other are also of the same uncouth, uncut, rugged, and natural appearance, and let me close this part by saying it is perfect, wonderful, and deserving of all praise.

Now for its inhabitants, the birds, the fishes, and the serpents. The collection is very large, is beautifully arranged, and all in perfect keeping with the place. As you enter, the first are the serpents, a great number indeed of them, from the "boa constrictor" to the tiny "garter snake," each in a nice apartment of his own, in which are rocks, and sand, and trees, etc., all things in order to make his snakeship comfortable and feel at home. As you pass on, you come upon the aviaries, very large and varied. In them are collections of birds, great and small, from almost every clime, and their German homes are also so arranged that, next to being in their own, they should feel quite contented with the provision that the kind managers have made for them.

But now come the fishes, the most interesting of them all, for most all Americans have seen snakes and birds in their native land, and their habits are well known almost to all. But the fish of the sea—but few have seen them as they gambol in their native element. Of them here you can see an immense variety, from the tiny minnow to the large sea fish, and all their departments so well arranged, the glass through which you see them and the water in which they live so clear and transparent, that they all really seem to be floating in the air, instead, as they are really, swimming in their native element. It is one of the most interesting sights to see them gamboling around, and also to watch them as they gradually approach the bottom, to the sand and little pebbles of reservoirs it is composed, and there, as calmly and quietly as a little child when tired, do they lay down, shut their eyes and take a peaceable nap upon this stony bed of theirs, which looks so clean and pure as to almost tempt the outsiders to follow their example. The water is all artificial, or, in other words, manufactured daily for their use, in this way: When the fish are brought, some of their own native element is also brought. This is then analyzed, and by this analysation is duly made the different kinds required, which only would keep them alive and furnish them with food. A fresh supply is constantly reaching them, conveyed by tubes from large reservoirs above, in which the many different kinds of water are kept. I am credibly informed that the manufacture of these waters keeps constantly at work one very large laboratory to supply these finny creatures with the means to breathe, to eat, and keep alive.

Thermometers are in nearly all these fishy apartments. They are watched very closely to see that the warmth is adapted for their health and comfort, so they shall feel happy and gay, to make their best appearance before the children of men who come to see them and their antics; and I can only add that if any of our American friends should visit Berlin, I do not think they will find a day more pleasantly spent than one among the shoals of the birds and fishes. The servants are most polite, attentive, and amiable, and the visitors are composed mostly of the first citizens of the city, with their families and children. The admission fee is moderate, only one-third of a dollar.

IMPOSING UPON WALKER NEGROES.—We learn from a prominent citizen of one of our largest counties that all of the negroes of that county who voted for Walker or declined voting in the election were recently summoned in court fashion to attend at the office of one of the defeated candidates to answer for their conduct. The negroes have been in the habit of obeying promptly all orders emanating from the officers of the Freedmen's Bureau, and as the notice referred to either emanated from or was served by a former officer of that bureau, the negroes on whom it was served did not feel at liberty to disregard it. They thought it a writ of summons from the government. We understand that on arriving at the office named they were informed that they had committed a great crime, and were liable to imprisonment in the penitentiary for twenty years or to be confined at work for the same period on a government farm. They were next advised that they would be relieved from punishment and fines if they would make affidavits to the fact that they had been subjected to force or intimidation. Then the poor, ignorant creatures were re-conducted into the jury. Such is the evidence that is to be submitted to Congress to induce that body to set aside our election. Comment is unnecessary.—Richmond Enquirer.

The amount of business transacted in the postoffice in New York may be judged by the fact that two windows are open for the sale of stamps, in none but these one dollar. The receipts at each of these windows average $1,000 per day. The daily consumption of stamps at the office must be to all about $30,000.

A SOLILOQUY.—American Girls—French Vices and Virtues—Male Fashions.

In America, a girl may form a friendly intimacy with any young man she fancies, and though she may not be free from little jests and good-humored joking, there is no injury to her from such intimacy. It is her acknowledged right to enjoy herself after that fashion, and to have what she calls a good time with young men. A dozen such intimacies do not stand in her way when there comes some real adorer who means to marry her, and is quite ready to do so. She rides with these friends, walks with them, and corresponds with them. She goes out to balls and picnics with them, and afterwards hits herself in with a latch-key, while her papa and mamma are abed asleep, with perfect security. If there be much to be said against the practice, there is something also to be said for it. Girls on the continent of Europe, on the other hand, do not dream of making friendship with any man. A cousin with them is as much out of the question as the most perfect stranger.—In very strict families, a girl is but seldom allowed to go out with her brother. And I have heard of mothers who thought it indecent that a father should be seen alone with his daughter at a theatre. All friendships between the sexes must, under such a social code, be looked forward to as post-nuptial joys. Here in England there is a something betwixt the two. The intercourse between young men and girls is free enough to enable the latter to feel how pleasant it is to be able to forget for a while conventional restraints, and to acknowledge how joyous a thing it is to indulge social intercourse in which the ample delight of equal mind meeting equal mind in equal talk, is just enhanced by the unconscious remembrance that boys and girls, when they meet, may learn to love.—There is nothing more sweet in youth than this—nothing more natural, nothing more fitting—nothing, indeed, more essentially necessary for God's purposes with his creatures. Nevertheless, here with us, that is the restriction, and it is seldom that a girl can allow herself the free flow of friendship with a man who is not old enough to be her father, unless he is her lover as well as her friend.—Anthony Trollope.

MAKING IT PLAIN.—The preacher at the African church at Frankfort was recently telling his congregation about Moses crossing the Red sea, and to make his description quite plain illustrated it as follows:

"S'pose you is de chillen ob Israel, and I'se Moses, Jarsey is the wilderness and Bridesburg is de Promised Land. Well, I brings you down to de ribber and waves my hand up towards Tacony, and de waters roll backward towards Philadelphy, and we all goes over without gittin wet. When de last pickaninny gits over I waves my hand towards Tacony—and dey was fishin' for shad dere de next mornin'!"

Admiral Prince Menschikoff, who died a short time since at St. Petersburg, was conversing one day with Prince O——, when the latter said:

"There is no God."

The Admiral retorted: "You utter a blasphemy."

"Very well," rejoined the Prince; "but what if the Emperor should repeat to you the very same thing?"

"That would alter the case," replied Menschikoff; "his Majesty knows more about it than I do."

ÆTNA

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,

JANUARY 1ST., 1869.

Assets $10,462,531,75.

Amount of Income 6,227,071.

SURPLUS OVER LIABILITIES 2,675,999,48.

THE Ætna is the LEADING LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY in North Carolina.

Largest amount of Losses to Widows and Orphans!

The Largest Revenue to the States. And has by far the largest number when compared with 58 Companies reported officially by the Commissioners of New York and Massachusetts it will be seen that the Ætna ranks as one of the first Companies of the Continent. But two of the fifty-eight Companies permitted to do business in New York and Massachusetts had so large an income for the year 1868; but two had so large a number of Policies in force, but one among all those incorporated under the laws of the State of New York had so small a per centage of Expense to Income during the year 1868.

Its expenses are lower than most Companies', and consequently its ability to make and pay liberal dividends to the insured is greater than that of most other Companies. It is one of the great Companies of the land in Income, in Assets, in Number of Policies, in Amount Insured, in Solidity and Strength, in Soundness, Cheapness, Promptness, and Success. Persons contemplating this mode of investment in the future as in the past would do well to examine the claims of all and take a policy accordingly.
