CIRCUMSTANCES ATTENDING THE CAPTURE OF PRESIDENT DAYIS.

LETTER FROM BOX, J. H. REAGAN

PALE-VINE, TEXAS, Aug. 10, 1869. I find the following passages in what purports to be a speech delivered in the convention of Texas, on the 6th of January, 1869, by Judge L. D. Evans, under the heading, in large letters, "THEY WAST AS EMPIRE." "On the fall of Richmond, Jefferson Davis started the Confederate Treasury westward, bluding himself with the dream of a trans-

"I saked his Postmaster G peral, Mr. esgan, how it was that the President of heir Contederacy should be caught with his begrages wagons in the awkard plight of being mader his wife's cloak. He in-termed me that Davis had left his trains and struck for the sesboard, when after a day's ride, hearing that the Confed-had Magrader been able to keep his army together, a nucleus for the material of war had Magrader been able to keep his army together, a nucleus for the material of war together, a nucleus for the material of war would have embled him to continue the struggle."

The speech containing these passages was extensively circulated through Texas last spring, and was sent to myself and others here. I then intended to call attonate the several members of his Cabinet, the subject of their finances was mentioned, and their have only to say that on the fall of Richmond President Davis did not start "deluding himself with the dream of a transMisvissippi empire." He left Richmond with the hope of uniting the armies of Generals Lee and Johnaton, and with the further hope, after this should be dose, of inecting and defeating the armies of Generals Sherman and Grant before they could form a junction; or, if this could not be done, of occupying the first good defensive line which might be chosen after the junction of the forces of Generals Lee and Johnston. D aperase as the furtures of war then were for the Coafederacy, he had not aliandoned the hope of carrying on the stringle east of the Misissippi.

On the second paragraph I have to say that Mr. Davis and his onlinest and seat offices left their baggage, except such as each took for himself in his saudle bags, at Ableville, South Carolina. The train which carried such supplies as were taken from that to Washington, Georgia, and what lunds still remained in the Confederate Tressury, were under the escort of the few remaining cavalry troops. And this train went no further than the latter place.
Some days after leaving Washington, Mr.
Davis was captured in the Southern part of tat State.

While at Danyille, Virginia, he learned.

Davis was captured in the Boutlers part of the at State.

While at Danyille, Virginia, he learned of the envender of Gen. Lee, and shortly after he left Charlotte, North Cacolina, he learned of the surrender of General Johnston. So it is seen he was not "caught with his baggage wagens;" that he had long before known of the surrender of the armies in that part of the Confederacy; that he had no twins to return to; and that he did not then, for the first time, learn of the disbanding of the Confederate lorges of the disbanding of the Confederate lorges. as the inducement to his return to his the United States.

I have not seen Judge Evans since November, 1865, and do not remember or bebeye that he ever asked me the question he puts in this paragraph. I am sure I could not have made him the answer he puts in my mouth, for it would have been North Carolina. natrue in fact.

matrue in fact.

Mr. Davis' family left Richmond in March, perhaps in the early part of that month. Richmond was exacusted on the 2d of April. He did not see his family atter they left Richmond until a little before daylight on the 7th of May, when he hap pening to hear of them, and that they were a second for the finest Cotton Farms in North Carolina. in serious danger, accompanied by a few faithful friends had gone to their relief. He and these friends traveled with his fam ily that day, and camped with them that might. The next morning they separated, but, from inaccurate information as to reach, were again by accident threwn together in the evening and camped together that night, traveled together the next day, and were captured at daylight the next day, and were captured at daylight the next morning, the 10th of May. As he had not previously seen his Lamiy after they left licitmend, there was no returning to them. On the third paragraph I have to say that Judge Evans' suspicious that Mr Davis is are discussed.

and of his respect for the intelligence of the body he was addressing, and of the people to whom this speech is sent?

In this connection I think it right for me PORTSMOUTH, Va., to make a statement in justice to Mr. Davis, which has not beret-fore been made public, PROPRIETOR. as lar as I know, and a part of which is only known to him and myselt: In coming through South Carolins, he and myself riding about of our company: passed a calan on the roadside, when he asked a woman who was standing in the

but in my hurry of business, neglected to do so. A new latch of these speeches is now being circulated through the State, and I am favored with a second copy.

On the first paragraph of the above, I
