JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

National Intelligence and Progress.

FIDELITY TO PRINCIPLE AND ITS ASSURED REWARD.

It has always been the unswerving and firm belief of Democrats, reflected upon and boldly avowed when the prospects before them looked the darkest, and when the Radical party, made insolent by their triumphs, stood upon the highest height of their power, that the day would inevitably come when the eyes of the people would be opened, when the spell of their strange infatuation which led them to maintain that party would be broken, and when the party, made to appear in their true colors by the flood of light which must sooner or later be let in upon their record, would be toppled down from the bad preeminence to which in troubled times they had been lifted. For maintaining this faith, as they did through evil and through good report, founded as it is in convictions of public policy which cannot be shaken and arguments against the Radical party which its ablest men have never been able to answer, and which faith can only be surrendered with the deeper faith in the fundamentals of our institutions and form of Government, the Democrats of the country have been the object of more sneers, have suffered more insult, more malignant misrepresentation, and had more undeserved odium poured upon them than ever fell to the lot of any body of men before. Strong indeed, must have been their political convictions, firm their principles, great their faith in the people, who, however far they go astray, must eventually return to their right mind, to have borne up against the tremendous pressure and the flood of obloquy brought to bear against them. But they felt themselves to be right and were not to be seduced. Though overpowered with numbers, though their principles were unpopular, though the temptations thrown in their way to abandon their sentinelship on the watchtowers of a nation's liberties were great, they scorned all proffered allurements to forsake the stronghold they occupied in defence of the Constitution, the laws, and the vital principles that lie at the foundation of our life as a people, stood firm, maintained their ground, and defied calumny. They saw the rapid downward, destructive tendency of things under the guidance of the Radical party. They saw precedent after precedent kicked aside, law after law annulled, right after right trampled under foot, and might made the supreme arbiter of the land. To entire policy of the Radical party, the whole force of its numbers, the burthen of its meetings, they saw were on the side of the wild, the reckless, the revolutionary, and the disorganizing. It was their duty, then, to oppose firmly so ruinous a course; and if the Democrats, through all these years, had not breasted bravely, as they did, the tide of Radicalism, which they did much to check though powerless to overcome, we should have had very little left at this time that would be worth saving, nor would it be to-day, as we do, a light ahead which promises to lead us safely through.

By persevering in well doing; by persevering in relentless hostility to the usurpations and crimes of the Radical party; by counteracting at all times and everywhere to the utmost of their power the dangerous spirit which that party were instilling into the popular mind; and by holding up to the people in a spirit of candor and good faith those sound political truths on the preservation of which their safety and happiness depended, the Democrats felt that though the country ran a ruinous career rapidly under the universal pumgency that Radicalism had wrought, the time must come, or free institutions fail, when fanaticism would be checked, when the mind of a misguided and deceived people would be cleared, and they should see, with the same eyes with which Democrats saw, that the course pursued by Radicalism was full of danger, and that the ship of State, its helm torn away and its crew steeped to the eyes in drunkenness, was being driven over dangerous seas. It is therefore with gratification and with much reason for self-gratulation that Democrats witness the evidences around them that a wholesome reaction is in progress and daily augmenting in force in the minds of the people, and that the convictions of the people are shaping themselves into unyielding resistance to those in which the Democratic party believe, and never have ceased to promulgate, during the long and dreary years of vicissitude and peril through which we have been passing. No one capable of independent and unprejudiced thought can look around him now without seeing clearly that a very great change has taken place in the public mind, especially in the last year or so, and that the principles of Radicalism are rapidly sinking from its most supremacy into one for the time by the force spirit of conservatism. From being extolled and supported they are fast coming to be despised and rejected.—From being accepted and bowed to to a degree of incomprehensible infatuation by a people with the sagacity of ours, they are being cast aside and sunk into common reprobation. What has brought on is bringing this change about but the patriotic firmness of the Democrats in the position which they took at the onset against innovations of every kind, the indestructibility of the political principles which they held, and the solid, unanswerable arguments which they never ceased to advance in their support? The Radical party proved themselves a lamentable failure long ago.—They have outraged by their lawlessness, oppression, prodigacy, debauchery, and corruption the better portion of the country, and driven from their own ranks all those men who gave character to the party in the early years of its existence, and served it from motives of honor. What crime is now the chief feature of the party of the day? What is the chief feature of its public policy, such as it is, for it has an exceedingly poor one? The chief feature of it is the open disregard for rights of other men, and the bold plundering of the public Treasury, and an oppressed people, by the millions. WHO IS TO BE HEAD? A desperate, wicked adventurer, void of brain, and of self-respect; incapable of governing aught to the good of any creditable kind, with no more knowledge of statesmanship than a school girl. Is it strange that with such a head as this a party remorseless of guilt, the chief of an administration which long ago sank into the contempt of even those who political support they should hail them, if they cared to or had, to respect and sustain it,—is it strange that the Radical party should be gliding down a steep declivity to permanent degradation? Nothing would be so strange as that such a party should survive. Let Democrats and all conservative men continue their efforts, without swerving and without relaxing, and the time is not far distant when they will see themselves rewarded by a certain triumph for all the obloquy they have borne for the country's sake by the reckless disintegration and destruction of the country's greatest glory. The Radical party is.

DOTY'S WASHING MACHINE,

LATEST MODE IMPROVED,

AND THE NEW

UNIVERSAL CLOTHES WRINGER.

Improved with Rowell's Patent Double Cogwheels, and the Patent Stop, are now unquestionably far superior to any Apparatus for washing clothes ever invented, and will save their cost twice a year, by saving labor and clothes.

Those who have used them give testimony as follows:

"We like our machine much; could not be persuaded to do without it, and with the aid of Doty, we feel that we are masters of the position."—Rev. L. Scott, Bishop M. E. Church.

"It is worth one dollar a week to any family."—N. Y. Tribune.

"In the laundry of my house there is a perpetual thanksgiving on Mondays for the invention."—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler.

"I heartily commend it to economists of time, money, and contentment."—Rev. Dr. Bellows.

"Every week has given it a stronger hold upon the affections of the inmates of the laundry."—N. Y. Observer.

"Friend Doty.—Your last improvement of your Washing Machine is a complete success. I assure you 'our machine,' after a year's use, is thought more of to-day than ever, and would not be parted with under any circumstances."—Solon Robinson.

"Your Washing Machine has been in daily use in our laundry and the housekeeper expresses herself as highly pleased with it. It certainly accomplishes a greater amount of work, with less labor, and does not wear the clothes near so much as the old fashioned washe-board. By using it one laundress is dispensed with."—Wm. M. F. Round, Superintendent of Infant Department of St. Catharine's Nursery, N. Y. City.

PRICES.—A Fair Offer.

Send the retail price, Washer $14, Extra Wringer $7 and we will forward either or both machines, free of freight, to places where no one is selling; and so sure are we they will be liked, that we agree to refund the money if any one wishes to return the machines, free of freight, after a month's trial, according to directions.

No husband, father or brother should permit the drudgery of washing with the hands, Monday after Monday in the year, when it can be done better, more expeditiously, with less labor, and no injury to the garments, by a Doty Clothes Washer, and a Universal Wringer.

Canvassers with exclusive right of sale make money fast selling them.
