JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

From the New York Herald of September 29

VIRULENT ATTACK ON MR. GRANT.

The President Charged by Two of his Party Organs with Being Implicated in the Late Financial Panic—$125,000 Alleged to Have Been Given to a Member of his Family.

In conversation with a prominent Wall street man yesterday—a gentleman who is fully conversant with every move of finance, and who is interested to the extent of millions of dollars—the following astounding queries, which he stated pointed the way to a clear expose of the whole transaction of the panic of last week, were propounded: In an editorial article published in one of our morning cotemporaries of September 24, this paragraph occurs. After alluding to the advent of the irrepressible Fisk in the Gold Room they say:

They not only bulled gold with a will, but talked freely of the warrant which they had from Washington that the government would not interfere with them.—The highest official in the land was quoted as being with them, and he, of course, controls the action of the Secretary of the Treasury, and the New York Assistant Treasurer. Mr. Corbin's name is also mentioned in connection with the clique, who, by the way, is brother in law of the President.

Now, who really composes the ring that made up this tremendous combination to put up gold and ruin thousands for gratify their insane lust for greed? Who is directly responsible for the paralysis in trade, the fall in stocks, the general distrust exhibited in almost all mercantile transactions, and the clouds which have obscured the whole financial sky? If this crusade against the street, this unheard-of-audacity in grappling with iron fingers the whole, aye, and five times more gold than lies in the governmental and bank coffers of the whole country were the work of any one man, the country might well tremble and say, Who and what is the power that in forty eight hours can work such a tremendous revolution? The solution of the problem can only be given in one way. The government hold in their vaults say $70,000,000 coin, and the banks about $15,000,000, in all less than $100,000,000. What individual or clique of men who have the brains and the money to undertake such a gigantic movement would do so unless they had the most undoubted assurance from the government that no gold should be thrown on to the street to defeat their plans, and incur losses of millions to themselves?—How long has this scheme been in progress and who were the originators? The ruling bankers of New York demand to know it. An indignant country demands it, and asks why the cartilage of the cool-headed, sharp, keen President of the Erie road has been seen morning and night in West Twenty-seventh street, at the residence of the brother-in-law of the President. Perhaps the confidential agent of the shrewd prince of Erie, who has in the last two weeks, made so many midnight journeys to Washington, Pennsylvania, might explain something about the matter. The frequent interviews of the admiral with General Grant at New York, Saratoga, Long Island Sound, and elsewhere are very significant. Whose influence was it that appointed the present Sub Treasurer of New York after another man's commission had been made out? and what kind of a bargain was made. How much money has been sent to Washington that was not used in furnishing the White House in the last week or two? Who cashed the $100,000 check and the $25,000 check handed to a member of the President's family? Now, what shall we say in the face of all this, and at whose door lies the blame of all this terrible evil?

[From the New York Sun, October 2]

It is sheer nonsense for any one to imagine that men like James Fisk, Jr., Jay Gould, Belden, Martin, Heath and others of great shrewdness and foresight, men who had handled millions, would launch all and more than they really owned into a speculation that was wholly blind, and which could be bursted to their utter ruin by government's interfering with their plans. They made no reckless venture, as the sequel will show. They found in Mr. A. R. Corbin, the brother-in-law of the President of the United States, one who would answer as a cat's paw between the bull clique of Wall street and Washington. The clique believed themselves secured from all danger of ruin and loss by assurances from Washington that their plans should not be interfered with. This was arranged by Mr. Corbin, who, as the clique believed, made sundry visits to different places, to consult with the President. When the arrangements were perfected the clique began heavy operations, and purchased gold at 32, 33, 33½, 34, 34½, 34¾, 35, 36, until last Thursday, when they held one hundred and ten millions gold. And Mr. Corbin purchased very heavily. He was visited from three to five times a day by Mr. Fisk, Jr., who was the only person with whom Mr. Corbin came in contact during the gigantic operations of last Thursday and Friday.—When the highest rates had reached the climax which the leaders anticipated, they sold heavy at 150 to 155, and large amounts among the 40s, while they were keeping up the plan of deceit on by buying small sums at 155 to 160. While Fisk, Jr., was coolly unloading his millions and reaping immense fortunes for the clique, Mr. Corbin unfortunately held for higher rates, and was caught with millions on his hands when the wild day of last Friday ended. Fearing that Boutwell might have determined to follow up the sale of $4,000,000 with other sales, the clique importuned Mr. Corbin to go to Washington and prevent it. Fair, it could, as the brother-in-law of the President, have done at the latter's private residence in law's brown stone mansion at an early hour last Saturday morning. It was then an hour again at noon, and again from 3 to 5 p. m. Mr. James Fisk, Jr., was with Mr. Corbin during all those hours, and at 9 p. m. Mr. Corbin hastened to Jersey City and took cars for Washington. With him, the Herald has stated, he took a certified and indorsed check for $100,000 in gold. Mr. Abel R. Corbin and Mr. James Fisk, Jr., have manipulated a scheme at once so gigantic that the whole web and woof of our commercial and financial structures have been nearly ruined. Business has been prostrated, homes made desolate, and hundreds have gone down in the terrible vortex which, but for Secretary Boutwell, would have engulphed the whole country. Well might Mr. Corbin endeavor to hide his hand in the affair. Well might he tell our representatives that the Prince of Erie and the King of the gold clique had been at his house for three months, when his coach had hardly left his doors for days! Fisk, Jr., had watched him, hung guard over him, decided him to his will, while the conspirers turned the thumb screws upon the Wall Street victims. The mystery is solved.
