(From the Pine Knot (La.) Age, Nov. 27.)

THE FORTY THIEVES—A MISSION-ARY DAUGHTER THERE OUTDONE.

Of all times there is a period [illegible] arrests of Mansfield, charged [illegible] to that predatory band known as the Forty Thieves. [illegible] amending to somewhat [illegible] committed. One of them, [illegible] by name, protested he was guilty of no criminal conduct, and yet when he was searched it was found that he had on four entire coats, three pair of pants and an equal number of shirts.

This gang had a [illegible] and to warmly yesterday that her arrest was wanted. She is a young woman, [illegible] name as Emma Wood Danfield. Herage is twenty-one years, she is rather pretty and exceedingly plain in appearance. She states that she is the daughter of a [illegible] living in Gainesville, who [illegible] as a missionary to India. For more than two years she has been one of the moving spirits of the Forty Thieves. Against the interested of her parents, against all the petitions of her friends to return to her home and stay there, she refused. She [illegible]. Whenever the gang [illegible] to [illegible], there she would go, and remain for weeks at a time, doing the cooking for the vagabonds who [illegible] the [illegible] hollow, made by the intersection of the Junction Railway embankment with that of the Norristown Railway, the members generally congregated. Old rails and boards were leaning against one of the steep embankments, and this formed a rude shelter under which the gang slept. A pile of old railroad ties, [illegible], was used to cover up the booty that was secured in the city, by robberies of every description. The stump of a tree was pulled out, and made quite a stove by making the "Queen" cook the food for the thieves. This girl has been often an inmate of the station house. She is cunning in her speech, and conversation in one moment, all she had said relative to the operations of the gang.

[From the Oil City Times.]

SKELETON OF A GIANT IN THE OIL REGIONS.

Tuesday last, while Mr. W. Thompson and others were engaged in making an excavation, they exhumed an enormous helmet of iron, which was corroded with rust. Further digging brought to light a sword which measured nine feet in length. Curiosity incited them to enlarge the hole, and after some little time they discovered the bones of two enormous men. Following up the "find" they had so unexpectedly struck in a few hours' time they had unearthed a well preserved skeleton of an enormous giant, belonging to a species of the human family which probably inhabited this and other parts of the world at that time of which the Bible speaks, when it says, "And there were giants in those days." The helmet is said to be of the shape of those found among the ruins of Nineveh. The bones of the skeleton are remarkably white. The teeth are all in their places, and all of them are double, and of extraordinary size. These relics have been taken to Tionesta, where they are visited by large numbers of people daily. When his [illegible] was in the dish, he must have stood 18 feet in his stockings. These remarkable relics will be forwarded to New York.

CUBAN AFFAIRS.—The following, is an extract from late dispatches received by Mr. Morales Lemas. They were dated at the Republican Headquarters of Libanico: "According to all appearances, the Spanish Government is now about making a last desperate effort during the winter towards suppressing the rebellion, and to that end is will send from the Peninsula other regiments, and it is further intended to put into the field the large part of the eighty thousand volunteers who are now under arms in the Island. We are not, however, frightened. We are calmly awaiting the attack, although, our arms are far inferior to those of the Spaniards, both in number and quality. We lack many things that are indispensable. Our powder is nearly exhausted, and we have been compelled to remain stationary in a time when the enemy was weakest, to the great prejudice of our cause. Efforts are now being made to manufacture this article here among us, but the first ingredient, saltpetre, [illegible] We have made but a small quantity. We have, however, six or eight tons more on hand, and [illegible] to say that all the efforts of Spain will not be able to drive us backward."

Louis Riel, the Commander-in-chief of the Winnipeg insurgents, is twenty-four years old, is five feet and a half high, quite [illegible] and of light complexion. His father was a native of Canada, and his mother of Canadian descent. Since he came out of college he served some time as a dry goods store at Minneapolis. He is a young man of good behavior, polished [illegible] and refined manners. His moral character stands without a blemish. Mr. John Bruce, President of the "insurgents," is a Scotch half-breed. He is a farmer, and was a special constable under the government of the Hudson Bay Company. He is intelligent and of good standing in his community.—Mr. Donohue, who with the President and Secretary, forms the rebel Executive Committee of three, and who is also a member of the Council, is a young man of extensive education, and a polished, genial gentleman. He is twenty-eight years of age, of tall figure, light hair and complexion. He was born in the United States, and it is said that his Irish courage and activity add valuable assistance to the patriot cause in Rupert's Land.

A NEW SWINDLE.—A new device for getting money from the country has been hit upon by some one, and [illegible] New York city. A lithographed letter [illegible] been sent throughout the West, which [illegible] it has been issued by the Fourth National Bank of that city. The circular represents that it is probable that the institution will fail in the spring, and [illegible] to collect a large amount of [illegible] the first of May. In order to [illegible] it is proposed to sell them at fifty cents on the dollar. After the word "Fourth" the circular has the letters "th" in very small type, so as to make it read "Fourth Street National Banking House of New York City." Correspondents are requested to forward the sum of [illegible] which, on receipt, [illegible] will [illegible] further from the institution.
