JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

[From the Chicago Times, Jan. 18.]

MORMONISM—THE MORMON QUESTION IN CONGRESS AND A PROBABLE FIGHT OVER IT—THE SAINTS MARSHALING THEIR FORCES—ELDER BURTON TO THE RESCUE—WHAT THE SAINTS PROPOSE TO DO.

Elder Robert T. Burton, the leader of the bloody crusade against the Morrisites, and who rejoices in the possession of multifarious offices in Utah, departed last week for the national capital. It is said by those who ought to know that the visit of Mr. Burton to Washington has in it some connection with the six bills upon the Mormon question now awaiting the action of Congress.

Brigham Young and his delegate, Mr. Hooper, although anticipating some action on the part of Congress, did not expect the numerous and overwhelming efforts which have been made by members to bring about a speedy solution of the Mormon question. Perhaps Mr. Hooper and his chief rested secure in the memory of past victories which they had achieved over Congress, and expected to gain future triumphs by virtue of past operations. Events have demonstrated, however, that if they entertained any such hopes they have been grievously disappointed. The failing health of Mr. Hooper has rendered him incapable of successfully combating, unaided and alone, the powerful influence against him. Hence the necessity of an efficient ally and the presence of Mr. Burton in Washington.

Mr. Burton is a man of considerable shrewdness and tact. As a major general in the Nauvoo legion he is well versed in a great many tactics, and members of foreign legations may probably have an opportunity afforded them for taking lessons in diplomatic movements of a high order, if they will make early application to the Mormon envoy from the harem court of Brigham Young.

Mr. Burton held the office of collector of internal revenue for the territory of Utah under the administration of President Lincoln, and he relies upon that circumstance to create a favorable impression upon the minds of friends of the deceased president in his favor. He is also a man who has been tried and trusted by Brigham Young, who, as a reward for his fidelity, has advanced him to the high offices which he now holds in the Mormon church. Such a man is never sent upon an ordinary mission. His services are too valuable at home, especially during the existence of a schism which is shaking Brigham's power to its foundation. The man who led on the hosts of Zion with rifle and artillery to imbrue their hands in the blood of a little handful of Mormanite dissenters cannot be very well spared in such a momentous crisis as that which threatens the fate of his superior. To be sure, a crisis is also pending at Washington; but the distinguished abilities of Maj Gen. Burton would appear to better advantage and be called into more useful requisition at home, where he could appear at the head of his legion, with a cross in one hand and a sword in the other, to put down the vile heretics who dare dispute the infallibility of Brigham Young.—Whether he can sustain the role which he has assumed at Washington equally as well, yet remains to be seen. What effect the efforts of himself and Mr. Hooper may have upon the members can probably be better ascertained when the bills upon the Mormon question are called up in committee of the whole.

Of the Mormon missionaries who arrived here from Salt Lake City, Henry McEwan and Samuel D. Sirrine still remain to edify and instruct the saints. A general feeling of discouragement is felt by the missionaries at the poor success which they meet with in making converts. Much of this they attribute to the newspaper correspondence and reports. They are particularly bitter against the Sun, which they claim has grossly misrepresented them in many respects. They say that it is not their fault if, through poverty, they are compelled to meet in the third story of a building with a liquor and oyster saloon below.

The baskets of oyster shells they regard as a very good substitute for railings to prevent people from going off the steps sideways on a dark and stormy night. But few strangers attend their meetings, and they are drawn thither by a curiosity excited by the newspaper reports, to see how the Mormons look, act, and worship, without having to take a journey to Utah for that purpose. The elders have not yet been able to present a well authenticated case of conversion on the part of these visitors. It is stated that on account of the extreme poverty of many saints here a collection must be taken up every Sunday to defray expenses and support the poor. It seems rather curious to talk about the poverty of the Mormons, when their leaders are rolling in wealth and luxury in Utah, through the means drawn from these poor saints in the shape of tithing. As, however, every one will be governed by his own notions in this respect, it will be useless to comment upon the subject further. The elders also deny that they are about to make any extra efforts to propagate their doctrines by building places of worship.

They expect to accomplish more in a quiet unobstrusive way, through conversations, and standard Mormon works, than by preaching in public. In this there is wisdom; for the sermons of many of them are quite unintelligible. They ramble from one subject to another, never explaining any one thing so that a person of even ordinary comprehension can understand it. They never attempt to reason without falling short of the point which they wish to make; and logical deductions are a thing unknown to them. The attention of many may have been excited by their preaching to investigate their claims, but no conversions ever followed as the results of their so-called sermons.

A young lady once married a man by the name of Dust, against the wishes of her parents. After a short time they lived unhappily together, and she returned to her father's house; but he refused to receive her, saying, "Dust thou art, unto Dust thou shalt return."

An ill-matched couple were always quarrelling. One day the wife pointed to a cat and dog that lay together by the stove, and said:

"Look at them; they don't quarrel!"

"Ah," growled the husband, "tie them together and then see."

SAW MILLS.

I AM PREPARED TO PUT UP DOUBLE CIRcle Saw Mills to work on the same manner for those desiring them.

There are now 440 of these Mills in operation, and in no case have they failed to give entire satisfaction. One advantage of this Mill is, that the sawyer, without changing his position, gives the backward and forward motion to the carriage, with a single lever; and set the log at both ends at the same time, this is a saving of one hand to the mill. This is no humbug. I am responsible for what I say. My residence is 27 miles South of Raleigh, on Neal's Creek. For further particulars address me at Raleigh, N. C.

F. J. WRAY.

I will be at Lynn Adams' store on the 2nd & the 5th of February, where persons desiring to see me will please call.

READ THE FOLLOWING.

Mr. F. J. Wray, Dear Sir:—I am much pleased with my double Circular Saw Mill, built by you. I can cut a log 14 inches deep, 22 feet long, in 45 seconds, with my 12 feet overshot wheel. We have 50 days cut 3,000 feet without hooping, flooring, and sum board, in eight hours.

Dec 23rd 1869. AL. JUDGE PARTIN.

Mr. F. J. Wray:—We are well pleased with our new Double Circular Saw Mill, that you put up for us. We can cut into the amount of lumber this we could with the old Mill of 48 inch saw and same water wheel.
