THE BOY HERO.

The following is a verse from "Whittier's Poems," an Incomplete memorial poem, by E. P. Perkins.

A youth arose in early June,
Mounted his steed and rode away
Through forest shade and open plain,
Where Indian warriors lurked in ambush.
The young hunter's mark of fame,
The boy's neighbors praised the feat,
For skill and power in the chase,
His breath there [illegible] Indian
Through forest and [illegible] wood
Went south, and [illegible] and [illegible]
Many passed [illegible] [illegible]
Of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
Along the [illegible] [illegible]
There was a pause, a [illegible]
And [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
Close to the earth, then [illegible]
Deep as [illegible] [illegible]
Few moments pass [illegible]
Bring all the [illegible]
A minute more and [illegible]
They bid the [illegible]
And for and [illegible]
Dash through the [illegible]
As [illegible]
'Twas like the coming of the gale
Then [illegible]
That fills the air and [illegible]
The [illegible]
And mounting speed along the vale,
To join the [illegible]
The shouting men and [illegible]
Produce a roar of [illegible]
The horses move with rapid [illegible]
With panting sides and [illegible]
They seem to feel the wild delight
That both their [illegible]
All eager in the chase, each [illegible]
Wishes to use the victim [illegible]

There was a pause—a painful pause,
For every face [illegible]
The [illegible] [illegible]
A dodging foe [illegible]
Horses and men [illegible]
Wild [illegible]
Hark! Gowin [illegible]
The fox has turned, is going back!
'Tis [illegible]
Tis mine again all must return in
Cheering and shouting on they sped,
Our [illegible]
How [illegible]
Now and then a sight [illegible]
More frequent yells, more frequent shouts
Assure the race will soon be [illegible]

Another pause—they gather round
A plot of bush and briary ground;
The game is here! the youth exclaims,
Concealed amid the tangled vines;
The hounds in circles scour the ground,
Resolved the victim shall be found.
Horses and men surround the place
To see the death and end the race.
Hark! there's a cry—the like a child
Wilder and with sudden terror mild;
All rush together at the place,
The fox is dead—here ends the race.

RESUSCITATION OF KRIEL, THE WIFE MURDERER.

It is well known that the unfortunate Kriel, who suffered death—or was supposed to have died—last Friday, in Louisville, Ky., went to his doom, grim, [illegible] and unnaturally firm. The papers of that city say:

When the rope that held the trap was severed and the body fell, it was the subject of remark that the closed hands and position of the legs and feet remained entirely unchanged, showing a tremendous exercise of will and control of nerve. The neck was not broken, neither was the rope drawn so closely about the man's neck that its mark could be distinguished, nor was the skin chafed a particle.

Gen. Whittaker, who was present at the execution by request of the prisoner, and who examined the body as it hung, declared in the hearing of those in the vicinity of the scaffold that pulsation in the carotid arteries of the neck was discernible after the fall ceased, and his sentiments declared, life existed. No one can question the General's judgment and discretion, and when he placed his fingers on the arteries and declared there was circulation still discernible, in opposition to the opinion of the medical practitioners beside him, many felt that there might be grounds for the apprehension that the criminal would evade death.

The circumstances favoring this remarkable story are strong and closely connected. After hanging some minutes, Kriel's body was placed in the coffin. The limbs remained flexible, the hands opened with the least persuasion, and were crossed on his breast. The eyes that stared half open when black cap was withdrawn, remained closed after the slight touch upon them, and the face assumed an appearance of mobility and rest.

The red flushing in the cheeks came back to a certain extent, and the dark coloring on the neck, under the knotted rope, partially disappeared. The short time that elapsed between his being placed in the coffin and being driven away was also a subject of remark.

No one seemed to have any theory of the body, and it was driven away in a [illegible] hearse to the vault at the cemetery. At night the body was carried off by a resolute class of students and an eager experimentalist.

The peculiar history does not end here. At least fifteen minutes [illegible] commenced to course through the chilled body, and at last the eyes opened. The students stood appalled and spell-bound; they realize the extent of the consummation before them. One of them spoke to Kriel, asking him, "Are you sensible?" The eyes answered expressively, and the lips opened ineffectually, for no speech came forth. Stimulants were poured down the throat of the revived criminal, and [illegible] hour after he had been placed in the surgery, Kriel sat up and asked them, "What have you done? Ah, I [illegible]!"

The consternation and yet the professional delight of the spectators was loudly expressed.

The experiment of a restless class of students and an able experimentalist had resulted in the resuscitation of a man who had been hung a short time. Pulsation—Stops were immediately taken to save the life of the wretched man. Justice had been satisfied by the public execution, through his returnless. Why should they deliver up what had so providentially and wonderfully been restored.

None of Kriel's personal friends were notified. Strangers dispensed him, furnished him with means and by degrees a man, weak and tottering, but firm and resolvable in his demeanor, was last seen by a watchful silent friend, who kept near him on the train leaving Seymour, Ind., on his way to an unknown, but is to be hoped better future.

People have [illegible] each other when they meet on the street, "How is your health?" or "How do you do?" The new salutation is, "What are you running for?"

KEROSENE LIGHTS PERFECTED!

DANFORD'S

Atmospheric

KEROSENE LAMP.

THE ONLY PERFECTLY SAFE LAMP IN USE.

Artificial Light, of some sort, is a universal necessity; a safe, cheap, and brilliant one is a luxury; a luxury, too, only enjoyed heretofore by those living in large towns or cities where Gas is used. Years of [illegible] and thousands of dollars annually have been spent by experimenters of different kinds, in trying to invent and perfect a Burner or Lamp by which Coal Oil or Kerosene could be burned practically without the expense and insecurity of [illegible]; this long looked for and much desired object has at last been obtained, and is styled the ATMOSPHERIC KEROSENE LAMP!

Its adaptation to Dwellings, Churches, Ballrooms, Steamboats, Hotels, Stores, and in short, in all places where a safe, cheap, and brilliant Gas light within the reach of all, whether in the City or Country, is required, the light of a six-foot Gas Burner, for less than one cent per hour, or double the quantity of light, of the ordinary chimney-lamp with one third less oil; will burn, when turned down to a taper light ten hours for one cent; is free from smoke or smell; can be carried from room to room; the wind will not blow it out.

The Lamp is destined to supersede all portable artificial light or chimney lamps now in use and needs only to be seen to be appreciated; thousands of them will find purchasers in every county, so family that uses this light for one evening will [illegible] thousands of them will be used in cities, as this light is one half cheaper than Coal Gas, and much more pleasant to the eye.

The sole right for the sale of this Lamp can be had for the entire State or the same will be sold by Counties.

Parties purchasing will be supplied, at wholesale, with the lamp and fixtures at reasonable rates.

Immediate application should be made to secure the choice of Counties.

The Lamp can be seen in full operation during the day and evening at the Yarborough House.

Call and witness the wonderful "Lit-o-the" and full explanation of the Lamp given.
