JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

A PLEA FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS.—Don't expect too much of them; it has taken forty years, it may be, to make you what you are with all you lessons of experience; and I will dare say you are a faulty being at best. Above all, don't exp ct judgment in a child, or patience under trials. Sympathize in their mistakes and troubles; don't ridicule them. Remember not to measure a child's trials by you standard. "As one whom his mother comforteth," says the inspired writer; and beautifully does he convey to us the deep, faithful love that ought to be found in every woman's heart, the unfailing sympathy with all her children's griefs When I see children going to their father for comfort, I am sure there is something wrong with their mother.

Let the memories of their childhood be as bright as you can make them. Grant them every innocent pleasure in your power. We have often felt our temper rise to see how carelessly their little plans were thwarted by older persons, when a little trouble on their part would have given the child pleasure, the memory of which would last a life-time. Lastly, don't think a child hopeless because it betrays some very bad habits. We have known children that seemed to have been born thieves and liars, so early did they display these undeniable traits, yet we have lived to see those same children become noble men and women, and ornaments to society. We must confess they had wise, affectionate parents. And whatever else you may be compelled to deny your child by your circumstances in life, give it what it most values, plenty of love.

"POOR CHARLOTTE."—The unfortunate empress of Mexico, the widow of Maximilian—"Poor Charlotte"—is yet residing in Tervueren Castle, and has still but very few light moments. She is strictly watched, and her keepers hardly venture to allow her the former long promenades in the park, as she has more than once endeavored to elude their vigilance. Even a short time ago, they had the greatest difficulty in preventing her from galloping off on the horse of a soldier who had just brought a dispatch to the castle. She was always passionately fond of riding, and Oberst Van de Velde, one of her attendants was compelled to use all his authority, to hinder her from carrying out her intentions. In Tervueren is a telegraphic bureau. There the unhappy empress spends a great part of her time in sending messages to all the European sovereigns, to whom she bitterly complains of her close imprisonment. These telegrams are always forwarded to the court at Brussels, and Charlotte never quits the bureau until she has received answer. One of the strangest symptoms of her derangement is, that she will never sit a table to take any meal. She has her dinner served on a small night table, and the officer on guard must eat by the fireplace. She still holds fast to the idea that some one intends to poison her, and each dish has to be tasted of in her presence before she will consent to touch it. Her nights are very restless; only toward morning she enjoys a few hours sleep. The physicians have given up all hopes of ever being able to restore her to reason.

STEAM TO BE SUPERSEDED BY ELECTRICITY.—The New York correspondent of the Boston Journal describes a new invention for displacing steam by electricity, and says that lathes, planing machines, and other mechanical arrangements are driven by this power. To run an engine of twenty-horse power by this invention would require only a space of three feet long, two feet wide, and two feet high. The cost per day would be thirty five cents. On a steamship no coal would be required, and the space now used for coal and machinery could be used for cargo. The stubborn resistance of electricity to mechanical use heretofore has, it is believed, been overcome. A continued battery has been secured and other difficulties removed principally through the coil of the magnet. It the invention works as well on a large scale as it does on the machinery to which it is now applied, steamships will soon ply the ocean under the new propelling power. A machine of great capacity is being constructed, and will soon be on exhibition in New York. The whole thing, mighty enough to carry a Cunarder to Liverpool, can be secured in a small trunk.

THE REPUBLIC OF LIBERIA.—A report was read before the American Colonization Society in New York on Sunday, March 20, showing that from the first departure of colored men from this country for Liberia, who were shipped at New York in 1820, the tide of emigration increased every year until up to the present date the number of colonists landed on its shores amounted to 20,000 freedmen and unfortunates rescued from the captured slave-traders by our war vessels. During the last four years 2,400 persons have been sent thither, and nearly twice as many applications were made by those desirous of returning to the land of their fathers. The population of Liberia amounts to nearly 600,000, all doing well, enjoying the rights and privileges of a republic, whose constitution is framed after that of the United States. Three colored people have a college with thirty-three students at present, and there are fifty churches in the country. Now the society holds 900 applications for passage to the new land, and although it owns a ship and a building in Washington, yet needs $50,000 to carry on the good work of colonizing Africa with intelligent negroes

NEWSPAPERS.—Wherever I have wandered in my missionary labors, whether in the East, West, North, or South, I have always observed that where the newspaper was taken by the family, there thrift, morality, and general intelligence were to be found. In the log cabins of the West, as soon as my eye caught sight of the newspaper, I thought to myself "Here, at least, I will find morality, intelligence, courtesy, and welcome as a garden ripe to receive the gospel seed!" and I was seldom mistaken. On the contrary, where neither newspapers nor good books were to be seen, there ignorance, bigotry, superstition and grossness were to be found in all their forms. Yes, I have often thought that the newspaper was the pioneer of civilization, and the match to make the way easy for the successful labors of the home missionary.

The New Orleans Navigator still advises Southern planters to sell their cotton only for gold.
