This language signifies nothing more nor less than that we are to have at least one regiment of regular troops, equipped, uniformed, and paid as a regular standing army. In addition to which all the militia of the State are to be enrolled...

But where, in all the Constitution or the statutes of the State, does the Governor get his authority for organizing, equipping, uniforming and paying a standing army? It seems to us there is some limitation on these proceedings in the Constitution...

As some of the radical journals, says an exchange, are commending General Grant for his efforts to protect the Jews of the old world from insult and outrage...

When President Lincoln was applied to by leading Jews of the country to revoke this tyrannical and unjust order he complied. General Grant, however, was not induced to do so.

We are not bound to announce Judge Ship's name now, because he has very eloquently and ably protested against the nomination...

By what law is he authorized to draw on the Treasury, (and if there were any money in it) to pay for the uniforms of his standing army, or to meet the monthly payment of their wages?

THE ST. THOMAS TRUSTY.—Denmark, it appears, has approved at the disastrous conference with which our Senate has treated the negotiations for the purchase of St. Thomas.
