

THE SENTINEL.

TUESDAY, JULY 20, 1870.

for Term. It is now, as Business class, so entitled to make contracts and give receipts, etc., etc.

The Westerner—Based on the Daily Westerner—
at Pink C. Hardie's Office, July 18, 1870.

10 M. 62
12 M. 60
3 P.M. 58
5 P.M. 54
Notice of election of two hours.

On the 20th, the conservative candidate for the Senate, will address the people of Person County at Huddleston, on the 22d inst., at Woodstock, on the 24th, and at Roanoke, on the 26th, etc.

REGULAR REGISTER.

There is no more work in the day of darkness. Every thing in the community seems to be silent. What go quietly to the polls, and cast your vote against the南部的和保守派。 The military humbug and high taxation that are grinding you to the death and eat into the soul of every man.

REFUSERS.

Just as we go to press this time Gov. Holden refuses to obey the writ of habeas corpus, and declines an audience to hold the sessions and George W. Pearson.

Now, George W. Pearson, Mayor H. Adams, Committee Merchant of this city, are here upon the form of Col. W. W. Johnson, of Johnston county, a cotton limb, containing three bolls, the largest nearly mature and ready to open. We suppose it would have been two weeks if left on our hands.

Don't be OFFENDED.—The crowded state of our columns forces us to forego the publication of many communications sent us. We trust the liberal writers to understand it when they do not appear.

We have some communications on hand written on both sides of the paper—these we cannot publish—we have given notice and again that we could not publish such. We have some also without the writer's name, who are the same.

It is a short communication with Holden's negro or white troops, and we will have none.

Replied, That since the appearance of his troops we are more determined to vote than ever, and with the ballot and public sentiment put down this enemy of civil liberty, we are satisfied.

For the Sentinel.

THOMASVILLE, N. C., July 20, 1870.

Editor Sentinel—Yesterday was an auspicious day for conservatism in this part of the vineyard.

Notwithstanding the extreme heat, our learned community was out in force, not only from this town, but from other towns and neighboring cities, etc., etc.

As soon as they had gathered together, they talked determined, and they are determined to throw off and come from under the yoke of military rule and dynasty.

All seemed to manifest a spirit of rooting and contempt for his ex-hall boy and his military attire.

The candidates of both parties which involve the interests and welfare of the state, and as each Radical concluded his remarks by being asked by some voter if he could not, in any circumstances, support Holden for the U. S. Senate, the Convention, and himself, answered positively no.

But when the candidate for the Senate, Mr. Allen, was interrogated on the same subject he answered rather evasively, that he very little interest or appreciation had he in the heated while the Radical candidates were speaking, but when our Conservative advocates began to pour volly after volly of hot shot into their rotten, vicious and crumbling fortifications driven by the powerful force of truth, the broad, honest and low mothered chuckle of sun-brown-faced swallowing plainly who was most enlisted, in their opinion, to their suffrage on the 2d of August, 1870, Capt. F. G. Robbins, Conservative candidate for the Senate occupied the stand for nearly an hour during which time he so completely unloosed and disclosed to his attentive hearers the numerous vacillations and high handed villainies of Radicalism, that all seemed thankful that the event was as near at hand, when an opportunity would favor them in ridding the country of all so dangerous to their interests and destructive to liberty.

Finally,

Mr. J. L. McVicker, Dr. D. Hall, distinguished pulpit orator will deliver a sermon this morning, before the Young Men's City Mission of the Methodist Episcopal Church, on Monday night he will address the young people, on the subject of "Collegiate Education" in the Department of THE UNIVERSITY.

Editor, Young Men's City Mission.—We have been using this for two or three weeks, and find it especially light material we have for sale. Mr. Julius Lewis is the Agent here, and will take care of our business. Prof. Kerr, State Geologist, who reports on it as follows:

BRONX, N. Y., July 18, 1870.

Geological Room, July 18, 1870.

Mr. JULIUS LEWIS, Dear Sir—I have submitted the following Report, and will be pleased to meet, and find that it not only helps the usual test of 110 degrees, but does not heat below 120 degrees, nor have I yet found, that I can get it perfectly dry.

Yours truly,

DR. KERR.

REDACTOR CHAS. T. A. Shewell, Esq., has sold out the "North Carolina Citizen" to Mr. W. H. Davis, who will become publisher, same as editor and proprietor. It will still advocate Conservative principles, and, according to the management of its new editor, and oppose the present administration, and oppose the present administration.

New Paper.—We understand a new weekly paper will be started in Battleboro, on about the 1st of September. It will be published by a local stock Company and edited by Chas. W. Harris, Esq., formerly of the Henderson Advertiser.

Colonel Johnstone, a German merchant, owner of the Wilson Bros. Building, where the plaza of King's Hotel, and was induced so badly that he sold out.

The dimensions were registered at the time of the accident.

The New Orleans Advertiser, continues—The number of vessels with the exception of the Mississippi River, in navigation, all the way from New Orleans to Mobile, and others, so as to be ready for all contingencies. There is a provision, so that when the river is open, to cover the entire amount of 10,000 to 15,000 additional men, the result of all the vessels now owned and built, and the number of ships now under construction, and the number of ships now building, and the number of ships now under construction, and the number of ships now