JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

From the Baltimore Sun, July 25th.

MARTIAL LAW IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Chief Justice Pearson gave his decision on Saturday in the habeas corpus cases growing out of the arrests made by Colonel Kirk, acting under orders issued by Governor Holden. The Chief Justice decided that the writ was not suspended and must be obeyed, and ordered it to issue in the cases of Adolphus G. Moore, one of the petitioners and eighteen others, directed to the marshal of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, who is ordered to bring the bodies of the persons named before the chief justice, wherever found. According to the meagre statement given of Judge Pearson's opinion in the telegraphic dispatch, while declaring that the writ had not been suspended, he at the same time justified Kirk's refusal to obey it, upon the ground that he was acting under the orders of his superior, the Governor.

If the writ is not suspended, and the Governor had no power to suspend it, or to authorize its suspension by Kirk, it is difficult to see what justification the latter can find in the illegal orders of his superior. Can the Chief Justice mean that if Governor Holden were to order Kirk to commit murder, the order would be his justification? There was a time in this country when the liberty of a citizen was considered as sacred as his life, and the violation of the one scarcely less heinous than the unlawful taking of the other. We can hardly conceive that so eminent a jurist as Judge Pearson has promulgated a doctrine at variance with the decisions of the highest courts both of this country and of England, and with every principle of constitutional liberty. Only under an absolute despotism can the orders of the superior be pleaded in justification of any crime the inferior may commit. The next thing to be seen is whether the writ will be obeyed. The return made by the marshal to whom the writs are addressed will be looked to with interest.

In the meantime some clue to the probable course of events may be had from the following paragraph, which appeared in yesterday's (Sunday) Washington Chronicle, and the dispatch given from Governor Holden to the editor of that paper. It will be seen that Holden claims Judge Pearson's decision as a substantial victory, and the Chronicle considers that the Governor, backed "by the President of the United States and the Chief Justice of his own State, has command of the position." The paragraph is as follows:

"NORTH CAROLINA.—The following dispatch explains itself. Governor Holden has command of the position in North Carolina, and is now sustained by the President of the United States and by the Chief Justice of his own State:

"Raleigh, N. C., July 23, 1870.—To John W. Forney, editor of the Chronicle: Habeas corpus case just decided. Chief Justice Pearson substantially sustains the State government and refuses to interfere.

W. W. HOLDEN.
"Chairman State Republican Ex. Com."

A JUDICIAL DOGBERRY.

We have read the opinion of Chief Justice Pearson, of North Carolina, in the habeas corpus cases which have been brought before him as a consequence of Holden's high-handed measures. It is easy to see that the Judge is one of Holden's sympathizers. He excuses Holden, excuses Kirk, who is Holden's tool, and then excuses himself for excusing them. Nevertheless, with a great show of independence, he decides that whilst Governor Holden is the sole judge as to whether the counties declared by him to be in insurrection are in that condition, the Governor has no power to suspend the writ of habeas corpus. Naturally, the reader will suppose that such being the law, Kirk was fined and imprisoned for refusing to obey Judge Pearson's writ. But not so. The Judge says Kirk was equally bound to obey both his and Holden's orders, and as he elected to obey Holden's, Kirk is excusable! Next the reader will infer that he ordered out the posse comitatus to enforce his writ. Not at all. He says the posse comitatus and the militia are one and the same thing—that the only posse comitatus which he has the power to call out in these cases is that of the very counties which Holden declares to be in insurrection, and that it would never do to summon a posse of such men, all of whom are already, as militiamen, under the orders of the Governor, if they would only obey these orders! Finally, he concludes as follows:

"The writ will be directed to the marshal of the Supreme Court, with instructions to exhibit it and a copy of this opinion to his Excellency the Governor. If he orders the petitioner to be delivered to the marshal, well; if not, following the example of Chief Justice Taney, in Merriman's case (Annual Cyclopedia for the year 1861, page 535,) I have discharged my duty, the power of the judiciary is exhausted, and the responsibility must rest on the Executive."

See, now, Dogberry's instructions to his watch:

"Dogberry: You shall comprehend all vagrom men. You are to bid any man stand in the prince's name.

"Second Watch: How if we will not stand?

"Dogberry: Why, then, take no note of him, but let him go; and presently call the rest of the watch together, and thank God you are rid of a knave."—Rich. Dispatch.

Doc Platt on the colored cadet: "If he remains, West Point will be so tarnished that who can hope for a reform. If he resigns, on the contrary, the country will be convulsed. Henry Wilson will stand on his head, which will not at all affect his intellect. Senator Chandler will shriek and swear, and that will not damage his morals. Bingham will invoke "the gathered wisdom of a thousand years," and speak his speech for the hundredth time with more emphasis than ever; and in the end the little school will be tipped into the Hudson, and this infernal nonsense of making an officer, instead of creating an army, will end forever."

An old hotel keeper in Washington, once posted on his dining room door the following notice: "Members of Congress will go to the table first, and then the gentlemen. Rowdies and blackguards must not mix with the Congressmen, as it is hard to tell one from the other."
