The Union Must and Shall be Preserved.

RALEIGH, N. C.: SATURDAY, JULY 30, 1870.

REGISTER! REGISTER!!

There is but little over a week to the day of election. Don't neglect it a day, but, register, and then go quietly to the polls and vote against the corruptions and oppressions of the military bummers and their tyrannical tools that are prowling about the north and west, seeking whom they may devour.

Col. L. C. [illegible] date for the Senate, will address the people of Pittsboro, Chatham C. H. on the 27th inst., and Hillsboro on the 29th inst., and at Roxboro on the 30th.

New Ads.—M. de Bathey, soaps, candles, &c., Lynn Adams.

Notice to contractors, Jno. C. Winder, Chief Engineer W. C. & A. Railroad.

Cool and airy, cool and airy, goods to suit each [illegible] at W. H. Jones & Co.'s.

That old brandy [illegible] was French instead of apple, at W. H. Jones & Co.'s, where may be found genuine London Porter and old Sherry wine.

Cotton Gin and wagon harness, Upchurch & Dodd.

Fat beef and mutton, Bob Kirkham, stall No. 3, market house, to-morrow.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—About 4 o'clock this afternoon, Tom Parker, colored, was shot and almost instantly killed by Henry Allen, a youth sixteen years old, clerk for Mr. S. D. Harrison.

The shooting was accidental. Young Allen [illegible] while the muzzle pointed towards the deceased, when the hammer fell, and the gun went off, the lead taking effect in the breast of McKee. He staggered back, and soon fell dead.

[illegible] we hastily gathered [illegible] Coroner Magett summoned a jury of inquest, but we [illegible] their verdict.

MECHANICS FIRE COMPANY.—As we mentioned yesterday, this well appointed and fine looking company [illegible] yesterday afternoon, with their engine in holiday trim, and attracted as much attention as the extremely warm weather would permit.

We congratulate the Company on its fine organization and discipline. The No. 2 would prove a valuable adjunct, should its services be required, and we hope our citizens will properly foster, not only this, but all the [illegible] the city.—We have a very efficient fire department now, and it behooves the people especially the property owners of the city, to see to it that they do not [illegible] way for want of proper encouragement and assistance.

GOOD!—The Standard says the Emperor of the Ku Klux has gone, and says it all right. Now, if the President of the League will follow his example, the State will be rid of two of its worst [illegible] and we may then have peace.

B. P. E., Smithfield—the article you desired to be sent you has been placed in the hands of a citizen of your county, and will be [illegible] one, as this is only one of four, all differing, but [illegible] quotation.

There will be no privateering in the war between France and Prussia. It is forbidden by the "Paris Declaration" of 1856, which was signed by the Plenipotentiaries of England, France, Prussia, Austria, Russia, Sardinia, and Turkey. The agreed language of the four points then agreed upon is as follows:

1. Privateering is and remains abolished.
2. The neutral flag covers enemy's goods, with the exception of contraband of war.
3. Neutral goods, with the exception of contraband of war, are not liable to capture under enemy's flag.
4. Blockades, in order to be binding must be effective; that is to say, maintained by a force sufficient really to prevent access to the coast of the enemy.

The American Government, it will be remembered, refused to become a party to the above declaration.—N. Y. Tribune.

Phalon's "Vitalia" for the Hair will be [illegible] sediment. This wonderful preparation is Phalon's Vitalia, or Salvation for the Hair. Poured on the hand, it does not stain, but nevertheless, the most delicate tint of the skin is [illegible] over advertised.

Sold by all druggists and fancy goods dealers.

The Life Sustaining Principle.

The vital and the muscular systems are entirely distinct from each other. A man may have the brawn of a Hercules, but if he is deficient in vital force he will [illegible] as well as he could if he had but one-half as much muscle. He will not live as long or be as healthy the happy while he does last, as the man [illegible] of slender build, who possesses a larger share of this all-important principle. Quinine and [illegible] counteractions of that pure vegetable invigorant, Hostetter's [illegible] Bitters, will increase the vital force of the system. No medicine can [illegible] the organs of a man's system, or [illegible] them [illegible] that the power, of which these and [illegible] are merely the instruments, is building the same relation to it as [illegible] does to power. Let the stock and apparently [illegible] be [illegible] strength, there is [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] they regard with envy. To restore [illegible] to [illegible] this standard principle of life, is the object of the [illegible] Bitters, which [illegible] all [illegible] cases over advertised.

Sold by all druggists and fancy goods dealers.

"Will it be said, this denial of justice is necessary for the good of the public to prevent desertion? God forbid! Let justice, real justice, be done, let justice be done without regard to consequences."

Since this, Judge Pearson said in [illegible] that he has said in [illegible]

In [illegible] we give a little excerpt from the North Carolina Standard, of January 30th 1864, then as now, the organ of W. W. Holden. It is as follows:

[illegible]

In the House of Representatives, on the 19th inst., Mr. Gartrell, of Ga., from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill to authorize the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, which was read a first and second time and placed on the calendar.—The following is a copy of the bill:

The Congress of the Confederate States of America do enact, That during the present invasion of the Confederate States, the President shall be and he is hereby authorized to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus in any city, town, or military district, whenever, in his judgment, the public safety may require it, but such suspension shall apply only to arrests made by the authority of the Confederate government or for offenses against the same.

SEC. 2. That the President shall cause proper officers to investigate the cases of all persons so arrested, in order that they may be discharged, if improperly detained, or that they can be speedily tried in due course of law.

SEC. 3. This act shall continue in force for thirty days after the next meeting of Congress and no longer.

If this bill should become a law it will make the President, if he chooses to be so, a dictator. It will silence our Judiciary, the press and close the mouths of our people, with the exception of those who may love the administration. God save the Confederacy from such madness.

"LAWLESSNESS IN THE SOUTH."

We copy the following sensible remarks from the New York Times (Republican) of the 20th inst., for the benefit of those who may not yet be convinced of Holden's motive in his present military movements:

The sea-serpent and the monster gooseberry reader periodical service to a certain class of newspapers. There are others and these, we are sorry to say, of the Republican faith, which, with marvelous regularity, descant upon "the reign of lawlessness in the South." The heading appeals periodically. We accept it as a sign, when Congress is in session, that some extravagant measure is in contemplation. At other times the stale story is intended to [illegible] some political purpose, or to [illegible] a semblance of justification for some extraordinary exemption of authority [illegible] which Gov. Holden has [illegible] North Carolina and startling the country. Whatever the end to be served, we are quite sure that usually this is the avowed purpose, the accomplishment of which seems to render expedient the awakening of popular indignation against the South. Everybody knows what "firing the Southern heart" meant in days before the war. The reign of lawlessness in the South" is a stereotyped expression, which is used to fire the Radical heart when the tendency in matters political is to indifference and stagnation.

READ IT.

The only decent thing that has appeared in the Standard lately, is its endorsement, yesterday, of ex-Gov. David S. Reid. By a remarkable co-incidence, about the time the Governor was penning this endorsement of Gov. Reid, Gov. Reid was penning a most sensible, timely and moderate address to the people of North Carolina, which we publish in another column, and we ask everybody to read it, and practice it, especially that part of it which speaks of the duty of every good citizen at the approaching election.

(From the Sunday World.)

France possesses several special or extra corps entirely distinct from the regular army, the Mobilized Guard, or the Marines. One of these, and perhaps the most picturesque and eccentric, are the Zouaves. There are two kinds of Zouaves, the African or original Zouaves, who, in time of peace, are always stationed in Africa, and whose strength there is about 12,000 men, and the Zouaves proper, or imitation Zouaves, who are armed, equipped, and drilled like the original corps, but do not possess the same perfection in maneuvering, &c. These latter are only stationed a part of the time in Africa; the greater part they are stationed in various parts of France. In there armaments the Zouaves differ materially from the other infantry, particularly in their bayonets, which have the shape of scythes, and [illegible] arm, which is the Algerian yatagban—that is, the peculiar short-sword of the Kabyles; also, in so far that they prefer to use their own private revolvers.

One of their eccentricities is their love for cats, and they prefer to [illegible] the large grey and black cat of Algeria. The training of these cats is admirable. They know not only all the soldiers, but also their four-footed comrades belonging to the same battalion, and easily pick out their own [illegible] on all occasions. They are very [illegible] to them, and not only on the march, but also in battle, take up their positions by their keepers—from which position they participate in the fight according to their own peculiar style, by jumping into the face of the enemy, and scratching and biting in furious anger. During the Crimean War, the wounds in the faces of the Russian soldiers from these cats were so serious and numerous that they had to establish at Odessa a separate ward in the hospital for the better healing of same.

In storming up and attacking a rocky height the Zouaves command their cats to the front to lead the way, and carefully watching the way the cats take, they follow them closely, and take advantage of every foothold pointed out by their trusty and agile comrades.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Revenue to-day $710 [illegible]

Colonel Forney is [illegible] sick.

In [illegible] conditions of the [illegible] go by special messengers. These messengers have been discharged. The [illegible] carried away. It is said, an extraordinary [illegible].

The Pensacola [illegible] that he will not sail as [illegible] Commerce without [illegible] necessary. He goes to St. Louis [illegible]

[illegible] Department has received from the Consul General to the Hongkong, dated Hong Kong, February 9th, and says the [illegible] of the Chinese emigrants and passengers for New Orleans. This is probably the first consignment after which has sailed from China to the [illegible] of the United States. Other people are sent by the Arkansas River Valley Emigration Company, to be colonized in the [illegible] north of the Valley of the Arkansas River. They have been selected by one to a very severe and rigid examination as to their knowledge of the country they were going to, their means, &c. Each individual was personally examined by the Colonial Surgeon as to his health and fitness to undergo the voyage. The provisions were generally inspected by the Harbor master, in fact all the requirements of the national authorities were fully complied with. They left one port free and voluntary emigration, and were not only willing, but anxious to go.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, July 28.—The Times commenting on the secret treaty says, 'tis clear that both parties are involved in the consequences, touching which both should make a clean breast. The North German Confederation will exhibit other similar overtures from Napoleon.

The people at St. Petersburg are [illegible] because Prussia intercepts Russian and Irish journals.

The Times says that Belgium's good feeling standing with Prussia is due to her hatred of Prussia.

The war premium on Prussian bottoms is one half of one per cent.

A French Cruiser off the Isle of Wight is boarding merchantmen.

PARIS, July 28.—Prussia complains that England furnishes arms and coal to the French.

The Emperor in a letter to the commander of the National Guard says: "Dear General, I declare you to expect me, on my part, to the Guard. Mayors of Paris, how much I count on the devotion and devotion which I am about to [illegible] for the army. I have to testify to the [illegible] which I suppose in the will and ability to maintain order in Paris and to contribute to the security of the Empire."

The Journal Officiel, [illegible] correspondence from St Petersburg. Russia does not agree with Prussia. Prussia wishes to make a Prussian lake of the Baltic, and threatens the independence of half of Germany.

LONDON, July 28.—Pro-German demonstrations in favor of Prussia are [illegible] in London.

Friday Evening Dispatches.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The yacht "Dauntless" lost three hour in the vain attempt to save two men that were washed overboard.

FOREIGN.

BERLIN, July 29.—Some American agents are buying arms for France at Liege.

The French lost one officer and eight men in the skirmish at Valle' gunt. One Prussian was wounded.

LONDON, July 29.—The people of the Danubian Provinces are preparing to take advantage of the war to strike for independence, hence the preparation on the part of Turkey.

Everything indicates a battle within three days.

The Hungarians have four hundred thousand men on the River Raab, between Lenver and Mensig. Opposing the French have about hundred thousand.

The "Warrior" is commissioned to bring the crown Princess of Prussia to Dover.

Count Von Bismarck in his dispatch to the North German Ambassador to England, confirms the authenticity of the secret treaty, published in the London "Times." He says since 1866 France has incessantly tempted Prussia with offers of territorial aggrandizement at the expense of Belgium and South Germany. He is confident that France will not obtain any extension of territory, even by fighting for it, and says the disclosures made by the "Times" had been withheld, France though fully aware would have repeated her offer of peace at the cost of an extension of the kingdom of Belgium.

The floor, galleries and lobbies of the House of Lords are crowded with privileged visitors and other spectators, anxious to hear the statement of Government's position in the present war. The Earl of Granville said the Government was not [illegible] by the explosive material lying around it with matches ready to be lighted; efforts to extinguish which had been useless, though Lord Lyons had been able to hold back a declaration of war for five days. The [illegible] at Ems between Benedetti and the King of Prussia was reported [illegible] no insult was intended. All other questions [illegible] the Paris [illegible] which provides for the settlement of disputes by mediation, [illegible] both parties. Before the presence of this war England had but one duty to observe, namely, strict neutrality.

The Lords [illegible] Mr. Russell [illegible] of the attitude assumed by the Government. War was wholly [illegible] and [illegible]. The Parliament [illegible] the [illegible] in its policy of neutrality, and await an opportunity for intervention.

PARIS, July 29.—The Siècle, in the proclamation of the Emperor to the army on assuming command in person [illegible]

Soldiers:—I come to take my place at your head to defend the honor of the soil of our country. You go to combat against one of the best armed of the European nations, but victory promises us valiant as this have not been able to resist [illegible] it will be [illegible] Every [illegible] which your commanders will be [illegible] and bravely executed for its object will be [illegible] hedged with discipline and [illegible] forbearance, but nothing is beyond the [illegible] efforts of the soldiers of Africa, [illegible] and Marine. You will prove once more what the French element is able to accomplish when animated by a sentiment of duty [illegible] by discipline and influenced by love of country. Whatever [illegible] may take several days [illegible], we will find upon it glorious traces of our fathers, and we will show ourselves worthy of them. All France follows you with confident prayers, and the eyes of the universe are upon you. Upon our success depends the future of liberty and civilization. Soldiers [illegible] can do his duty, so [illegible] the God of battles will be with us.

(Signed,) NAPOLEON.
