

THE PENTINEL.

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 18, 1870.

Mr. T. H. BAXTER, as Budget Secy., is authorized to make contracts and give receipts, &c., &c.

THE WEATHER—Rains of the Thermometer at Pink C. Hardie's Cigar Store: Aug. 18th, 1870.

6 A. M. 50
9 " 54
12 M. 50
2 P. M. 51
4 " 51

Lost—A small bell from the lot of the jail, a red and white cow, with crippled horns, one of which is unsound in appearance, and a yanking of the same color, the property of Sherif Lee. A liberal reward will be given for their recovery.

On Tuesday evening last at the Express train of the Seaboard R. R., bound for Norfolk, we passing Stockhorn station, one of the brakemen, a young white man by the name of Thos. Carter, was thrown from the platform between two cars and instantly crushed to pieces. He was in the act of putting on the brakes when the chain attachment snapped in twain, causing him to fall.

THE JOHNSTON COUNTY RIOT CASE.—The Commissioner, this morning, announced his decision in the Johnston County riot case, examined before him yesterday, holding Henry and Alexander Thain esq., to answer at the next term of the U. S. Circuit Court, in the sum of $1,000, and releasing the other parties.

More Fresh Peaches.—We are indebted to our young friend, Mr. David Forte, residing 8 miles from Raleigh, for a basket of fine peaches of the kind generally known as the Georgia peach, large, fine, red, luscious, like they are, that would make one's mouth water to look at them. Mr. Forte has also laid on our table one specimen of the "North Carolina Conservative," a fine juicy yellow plum, weighing 11 oz., and measuring twelve inches in diameter. Mr. Forte will please accept our thanks for his kind remembrance of us this hot weather, when a nice, juicy peach is both cooling and refreshing.

Get up the INJUNCTION.—We have reason to believe that Holden will in a few days demand his State troops and send them home. A large sum of money, has already been illegally paid out of the Public Treasury, to sustain this inequitable outrage upon the people. This must be stopped and the sooner the better. Let the injunction against Holden and the Public Treasurer be issued at once. Scotch the snake and let him die.

FRANK LEDDIE'S ILLUSTRATED PAPER.—We have from Mr. Jones A. Jones, Book Seller, Fayetteville street, Frank Leddie's Illustrated Newspaper, dated August 20th, accompanied by a map on tinted paper, of the seat of War in Europe, in convenient form for framing or posting up for reference. Mr. Jones has a large number of the paper for sale, to each purchaser of which one of the maps is given. It is the best of any of the maps of the seat of war in Europe we have yet seen.

ANOTHER DIABOLICAL OUTRAGE.—We learn that a worthy white woman was seized, last night, on the outskirts of the city, by a negro by the throat and carried into the woods and cruelly violated. The perpetrator of the crime has not yet been identified, but the city authorities are on the alert. Holden and Toussaint would call this another Ku Klux outrage. We hope the wife will be discovered and punished at the end of the law.

COLORED REPUBLICANS.—Though the Democratic Conservatives made a perfect onslaught upon the carpet layers at the late election, we observe that a large number of colored Republicans have been returned to the lower Legislature than in the last. A few of these have been heretics exceedingly bitter and violent in their support of Radicals. Led by carpet layers and other bad men, they have heretofore been strongly partisan. A number, however, of those recently elected are of a different stripe, true friends of the State, and as far as they know their duty will do. We hope they will be ready to co-operate with those whose sole aim shall be to raise the State from her degraded condition and will labor to promote the welfare of all our people without regard to party.

Sound Logic for the Sick.

The invalid has much good reason to complain, "are you fit for me?" As a general rule, each of them will have a different medicine to propose, and if he knows all their prescriptions in turn, their well-meant advice may be the death of him. The only sensible course, in any case of sickness, is to resort promptly to a specialist who has had the test of a long and widely extended practical experience, and obtained on solid and sufficient grounds the reputation of a skillful practitioner. The same rule applies to the practice of law, and to that of right, and beyond all dispute to that of仁慈. Messrs. Pitts, and those others called in at this difficulting session as an interlocutor, have no one whom they have ever used in question, except a physician over every other medical man, can any person of billion dollar, who has ever taken it for liver complaint doubt his skill? And when now, in case of emergency, there is no other alternative, and moreover, no one can be found who would examine it for any other practitioner in the blessed world. For it is the most unscrupulous, unscrupulous, unscrupulous, and all complexion, when you come to think of it, the only article which can be used in such a case, is a physician over every other medical man.

A Radical Conservative—Money man and woman in the land, whose locks have been touched with silver by time, or prematurely whitened, has reason to rejoice that Peacock's Verazzano, or whatever was his name, is no longer among the unscrupulous practices of some of his society. It is not so bad, and more honest, than those who are prompted by any other agent, and so forth.

A Radical Conservative—Money man and woman in the land, whose locks have been touched with silver by time, or prematurely whitened, has reason to rejoice that Peacock's Verazzano, or whatever was his name, is no longer among the unscrupulous practices of some of his society. It is not so bad, and more honest, than those who are prompted by any other agent, and so forth.

From the Oldest and Best of August 1870.

MORE ABOUT THE VILLAINS OF SPRING NORTH CAROLINA.

We took occasion a day or two ago, to make a dispatch to the Gazette, announcing that Grant had sent additional troops to North Carolina, and that he sustained Holden, the Governor of that State, the subject of some sharp criticism. The Gazette did not like our making it up in the circumstances, and took up to task for our all due justice to him. We submit, and repeat, that he had no idea of making it up, or seeking censure, except so far as it seemed to justify Grant and Holden. An article of yesterday satisfies us that we did it no injustice whatever. It gives its full sanction to the scandalous of Holden, and sustains the President in sending troops to be used by soldiers as slaves proper. It also abhors the Democratic press for denouncing Holden and his troops as unfounded villains.

What did the Gazette do in the premises? It did not quote a word of testimony from a Democratic source; it was all from a Republican source. We gave prominence to an extract from a letter published in the Gazette and written to it by its well known correspondent, Mr. Boynton. We again reproduced the extract, and invite especial attention to what Mr. Boynton says:

"It seems strange that so little should be known here concerning the real condition of affairs in North Carolina. There is more than a suspicion that but little cause exists for the extraordinary course taken by Governor Holden. One fact, however, to most of the press, has done more than any of the stories from either side on the field of action to throw suspicion upon Holden's movements and create a belief that he has acted only to further the interests of local political factions. And that fact is this: A few weeks before adjournment, Senator Pool came to the reporters' gallery and called out a gentleman he supposed to be connected with the Washington Chronicle. He then showed him a North Carolina newspaper in which there was a collection of Ku Klux outrages, murders and robberies, drawn out at great length.—The Senator went on to say, quite confidently, that it was desirable the Chronicle should at once begin the publication of this collection, and keep it up until the statements made should be well disseminated in the North. He further explained the need of this, by saying that to carry the State next Fall it would be necessary to use the militia extensively, and if this collection of outrages could be well circulated beforehand, it would justify the step of the North Carolina Republicans. Mr. Pool made the mistake of communicating all this to the wrong man. However, he must have ascertained his mistake afterward and remedied it, as the accounts of dire outrage in North Carolina began to appear the second day after this conversation, and in due time the State militia has appeared upon the scene."

That letter was dated July 23, 1870, not so long ago, we are sure, that the Senate should not remember it. It appears from this statement of Mr. Boynton that the publication, at the North, of the collection of Ku Klux outrages, murders and robberies, drawn out at great length, which was to justify Holden in the eyes of Northern Republicans for the outrages they intended to perpetrate to carry the State election. Two days after Holden's emissary, Pool, made his request to the person he supposed to be the Washington Chronicle, and disclosed the base motives for imposing such monstrous falsehoods on the public, that paper commenced the publication of the manufactured Ku Klux outrages; and then, in due time, the other part of the diabolical programme was produced—the State militia appeared upon the scene. Here was a put up piece of villainy unslightly disclosed by Pool, the emissary of Holden, and published to the world in the columns of the Gazette, as written out by his own correspondents. No Democrat had any hand in getting up that piece of testimony. It first appeared in the New York Tribune, and subsequently in the Gazette. We used it as we found it in these two Radical journals.

This put up piece of villainy was to be made to appear to Northern Republicans as an honest effort, on the part of Holden, to preserve the public peace and secure a fair election. But Pool let the cat out of the bag. He said that, "to carry the State election next fall, it would be necessary to use the militia extensively; and this collection of outrages could be well circulated beforehand, it would justify the step of the Northern Republicans." Mr. Pool made the mistake of communicating all this to the wrong man. However, he must have ascertained his mistake afterward and remedied it, as the accounts of dire outrage in North Carolina began to appear the second day after this conversation, and in due time the State militia has appeared upon the scene.

That letter was dated July 23, 1870, not so long ago, we are sure, that the Senate should not remember it. It appears from this statement of Mr. Boynton that the publication, at the North, of the collection of Ku Klux outrages, murders and robberies, drawn out at great length, which was to justify Holden in the eyes of Northern Republicans for the outrages they intended to perpetrate to carry the State election. Two days after Holden's emissary, Pool, made his request to the person he supposed to be the Washington Chronicle, and disclosed the base motives for imposing such monstrous falsehoods on the public, that paper commenced the publication of the manufactured Ku Klux outrages; and then, in due time, the other part of the diabolical programme was produced—the State militia appeared upon the scene. Here was a put up piece of villainy unslightly disclosed by Pool, the emissary of Holden, and published to the world in the columns of the Gazette, as written out by his own correspondents. No Democrat had any hand in getting up that piece of testimony. It first appeared in the New York Tribune, and subsequently in the Gazette. We used it as we found it in these two Radical journals.

This put up piece of villainy was to be made to appear to Northern Republicans as an honest effort, on the part of Holden, to preserve the public peace and secure a fair election. But Pool let the cat out of the bag. He said that, "to carry the State election next fall, it would be necessary to use the militia extensively; and this collection of outrages could be well circulated beforehand, it would justify the step of the Northern Republicans." The base motive was then disclosed for manufacturing and publishing Ku Klux outrages, murders and robberies. It was to deceive Northern Republicans, and enable Pool & Co. to use "military power to carry the State election." The Advertiser has used no other in exposing and denouncing the sacerdotalism of Holden, Grant and the Secretary of War.

The Gazette (innocent soul!) wants to know why the Advertiser don't publish what it calls the statements of James Borden and others about the atrocious purposes and acts of the Ku Klux? These pretended outrages made their appearance a day or two before the election, the election which was last Thursday, and there is every reason to believe they were manufactured—gotten up for the occasion—by Holden and his fellow-sacerdotes to influence the election. The Advertiser could manufacture Ku Klux outrages, murders and robberies, and send an emissary into the Northern States to have such outrages, murders and robberies published at length, under the smoke of which they might impunity prevail the people and carry the election by using military force, would they hesitate, think you, innocent Gazette, to manufacture a dozen such statements as that of Boyd?

The villainy, by order of the Governor, hangs citizens by the thumbs and neck to compel them to confess to what would seem to justify them in their outrages, would they hesitate to force confessions? The original malice is too enormous to allow any scruples about such minor considerations as giving up before confessions. The confession of Pool shows what unscrupulous rascals he and his co. are. The fact that such unscrupulous villains as Holden and Kirk have not shot shot is pretty strong evidence that the Ku Klux, if they exist, are exceedingly mild-mannered men, and not given to bloody deeds.

ROMANCE IN BEAL LANE.—Joseph M. Miller, a soldier stationed at Willot's Point, was arrested for robbery on Thursday. Three years ago he eloped with an heiress, left her, married a lady of New York, with whom he lived while on furlough, till a short time since when his first wife made her appearance in full possession of over $100,000. This sum at once restored the Gazette's affection for his first wife, who is a beauty, and highly accomplished, as well as very wealthy, and they set up housekeeping near the fort. Their mansion has been the resort of the most fashionable society, for he is a highly educated man, though only a private, and the fashionable circles in Beaufort and Long Island are much interested in him. His second wife, his first wife's son, and his first wife's son, succeeded in getting the trial postponed.

A Radical Conservative—Money man and woman in the land, whose locks have been touched with silver by time, or prematurely whitened, has reason to rejoice that Peacock's Verazzano, or whatever was his name, is no longer among the unscrupulous practices of some of his society. It is not so bad, and more honest, than those who are prompted by any other agent, and so forth.

A Radical Conservative—Money man and woman in the land, whose locks have been touched with silver by time, or prematurely whitened, has reason to rejoice that Peacock's Verazzano, or whatever was his name, is no longer among the unscrupulous practices of some of his society. It is not so bad, and more honest, than those who are prompted by any other agent, and so forth.

A Radical Conservative—Money man and woman in the land, whose locks have been touched with silver by time, or prematurely whitened, has reason to rejoice that Peacock's Verazzano, or whatever was his name, is no longer among the unscrupulous practices of some of his society. It is not so bad, and more honest, than those who are prompted by any other agent, and so forth.

A Radical Conservative—Money man and woman in the land, whose locks have been touched with silver by time, or prematurely whitened, has reason to rejoice that Peacock's Verazzano, or whatever was his name, is no longer among the unscrupulous practices of some of his society. It is not so bad, and more honest, than those who are prompted by any other agent, and so forth.

A Radical Conservative—Money man and woman in the land, whose locks have been touched with silver by time, or prematurely whitened, has reason to rejoice that Peacock's Verazzano, or whatever was his name, is no longer among the unscrupulous practices of some of his society. It is not so bad, and more honest, than those who are prompted by any other agent, and so forth.

MARRIED.

At the Court of the Navy Boarders in New Haven, N. C., on Wednesday August 10th, 1870, by the Rev. Wm. R. Pittenger, Col. Robert Brown of Wilmington, N. C., to Mrs. Anna A. Lane, of Henderson, N. C.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

MURDER AND MYSTERY!

The Advertiser of the Life and Death of JOHN W. STRONG, of the State of Connecticut, County, by A. J. Strong, Esq., Price 25 cents per copy.

To be sold at 15-16 J. A. Jones' Bookstore.

THIRD STOCK

PARIS, CORSES AND SLICES.

Just arrived at 15-16 J. A. Jones' Bookstore.

Price $2.00.
Aug. 18-19

J. A. JONES' Bookstore.

1840-1870

G. T. STRONG.

</div