THE DAILY EVENING TELEGRAPH.

PHILADELPHIA, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1869.

Local Matters.

Last Night's Weather.—It was cool and pleasant last night, with a fresh breeze from the northwest.

Wood Alley.

Wood by all druggists and fancy goods dealers.

sep25-tf

Wood Alley.

Wood by all druggists and fancy goods dealers.

sep25-tf

It is a sad fate to pass through life the only half understood. Misunderstood are those whose motives are misrepresented and misconstrued by their fellows.

We are glad to see that the excitement prevailing in the battered portion of the city is being rapidly forward to completion. When finished this building will be a credit to the neighborhood and a decided ornament to its neighborhood.

Another Epidemic Paradox.—In addition to the special previous paradoxes noticed, we see that the Philadelphia Sanitary Bureau has a new one. Here it is: Trees, crops, Republican tickets and whiskey are all very healthy this year.

Wars and Rumors of Wars.—Is a sample of the battered portion of the city, is being pushed rapidly forward to completion. When finished this building will be a decided ornament to its neighborhood and a credit to the city.

It is one of the ideas of Lemuel Gulliver, that a man who can make two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, is a benefactor to his race. We are not sure but he is one also who can make two blades grow where only one grew before.

Wear and Tear.—Persons who are under the impression that they are wearing out their clothes by constant use, are mistaken. They are only wearing out their friends.

Wars and Rumors of Wars.—Is a sample of the battered portion of the city, is being pushed rapidly forward to completion. When finished this building will be a decided ornament to its neighborhood and a credit to the city