THE RESIGNATION AND RESIGNATION.

THE PEARSON.

The Standard of day before yesterday, makes a very feeble attempt to be facetious and gravo at the same time, in a lugubrious effort to answer the editorial organ of Chief Justice Pearson's conduct in the matters of habeas corpus before him, just before and after the elections, in our paper of Tuesday last. What is said by the Standard in no way affects the grossness of our editorial; indeed, the labor bestowed, and what is said is only an additional empty and futile effort to apologize for a great crime, seldom if ever perpetrated by a Judge in this country or England. We sincerely trust that no Judge will ever repeat it in this country. It was a wilful, deliberate and dangerous blow at the liberty of the citizen, made too under circumstances of great aggravation and in aid of a conspiracy to carry the late election in this State by lawless armed force.

We repeat the charge. It is that Chief Justice Pearson wilfully and wickedly refused to give efficiency to the writ of habeas corpus in a great number of cases, by refusing to exercise the means provided by law for that purpose. This offence was aggravated by the fact, that it was done at a time of imminent peril to the parties seeking relief, and in aid of an extensive, bold and dangerous conspiracy of the Executive of the State and many others, to subvert the Constitution of the State by force of arms and to destroy, for a special purpose, public and personal liberty.

We mean no bullet's play. We are in dead earnest. This charge we well understand, and can make good by the records of the Court, by the sworn testimony of scores of witnesses present [illegible] by affidavits, by facts and circumstances alike [illegible] by eight men, and many of them shocking to law abiding and liberty-loving people of all parties.

We repeat, that the Chief Justice ought to be impeached, not one month with the view to punish him, so to set a high example for all future time, and to give the world to understand that no Judge, however high his official position, dealt with impunity, trifle, shirk from duty, or wilfully refuse to discharge one so vital to the highest, most sacred, as well as the dearest rights of every freeman.

If the apologists of the Chief Justice suppose that we are afraid to demand his impeachment, they are sadly mistaken. The popular demand for his impeachment is greater and more determined than for that of Gov. Holden. The people did not expect much from the latter; they knew, always distrusted, his patriotism and integrity, and he got into the office by fair and legitimate by effective means and methods; but they did expect more from the Chief Justice. His former record in favor of civil liberty was bold and [illegible] (which was very justly be said of him,) and [illegible] he was its peculiar guardian. He [illegible] himself and he not only deserted his post of honor and duty in the hour of peril, but threw aside the gown of the former to a band of rapparees, [illegible] organization, which, under the circumstances and character of the transaction, [illegible] federal power alone could restore. The people, justly and sorely [illegible] the impeachment of the Chief Justice, and he and his apologists may [illegible] and even [illegible] and misrepresent motives as they will, but the damning stain and crime remains indelible. We have no personality or gratuity in this great matter, but our motives, wishes and likes or dislikes and those of any other citizen are things of trifling moment. The grave question is, has the crime been committed? That is fact, is beyond serious controversy.

We are not inclined to differ to other grounds of impeachment now; these can be considered at a proper time. We only add, that the Legislature [illegible] to this matter promptly, it will fall short of its duty, and will fail to respond to the [illegible] expectation of its constituents.

LOUISIANA.

A telegram from New Orleans states that there are 500 persons supposed to be counting the city vote, who receive $8 per day. The Times thinks, that the official return will, therefore, be in about Christmas, and as they are chiefly Radicals, no one apprehends that the delay will lie on their majorities.

A special to the Picayune, says that Baton Rogue is in the hands of Federal troops who are arresting white citizens on the affidavits of negroes rioters. On the night of the 7th negroes, with arms in hand uttering threats of violence, were sent home quietly, while whites, found without arms, were arrested and placed in close confinement. On the 8th and 9th further arrests were made of persons who were not present at the riot. Martial law is partially in operation.

It is said that Marshal Packard, of New Orleans, received a telegram on Monday night from Baton Rogue, stating that the supervisors and counters of the ballots were attacked by an armed mob. The ballots were saved, but four were killed and two wounded, Marshal Schoonmaker, who was wounded, official candidates for legislation were killed. More trouble anticipated.—About 30 leaders arrested. Later accounts indicate considerable trouble. More troops are ordered.

GOV. HOLDEN'S PROCLAMATION.

It will be seen that Gov. Holden has today proclaimed that the Counties of Alamance and Caswell are no longer in insurrection. He ought to have added, that they never were. He has delayed almost to the point of the meeting of the General Assembly, to do what he ought to have done months ago. What he says about the general quiet and peace prevailing at present, could with as much truth have been proclaimed before he declared those Counties in insurrection, with the single exception of the County of Robeson, where his myrmidons have kept the people in constant alarm.

Every citizen of the State will endorse the hope expressed by the Governor, that peace and good order may continue; that partisan bitterness and rancour may abate &c. The difficulty however is, that when Gov. Holden expresses himself thus, to believe that he is sincere, since none labored so hard as he has done to promote discord and strife, and partisan bitterness and rancour, and none have contributed so much to destroy the credit and prosperity of the State, as he and his party. Now that the Conservatives have the control, will he and his party aid in promoting the prosperity of the State by curtailing the public expenditures?

LIFE OF GEN. LEE.

The family and friends of Gen. Lee have selected Col. Charles Marshall of Baltimore, who was his private Secretary during the war, to write the life of that great man—Col. Marshall's literary reputation and general ability authorize the expectation of a volume of great merit and permanent value.

The price of gas in Wilmington, after December 1st, will be $3 per thousand feet. This is a reduction of 20 per cent.

Wilson had his meetings last night.

On Tuesday last at Arcola, Warren county, Richard Shearin had his hand and arm badly torn by being caught in a steam cotton gin.

Wilson county has 230,000 rows of land, upon which are assessed personal estate to the value of $617,615. The debt of the county is $100,000.

A colored man named Jim Reading alias Chas. Jones, who stole $650 from Mrs. Armistead of Hampton sometime ago, was arrested in Wilmington on Tuesday and sent back to Hagerstown.

THE ELECTION AND THE CONSTITUTION.

We have given all the important news from all sections which have come to hand, but the returns are meagre and backward. The result is fully ascertained, still we are satisfied [illegible] personally unfriendly, when we consider the large odds arrayed against it, the last struggle of chivalry.

The Democracy of Alamance and Caswell counties held a meeting in Graham on Saturday last, and appointed Col. R. F. Gulbric of Orange and made Chairman and J. A. Moore of Granville, white, and Wm. Cawthorn, colored, of Warren, were appointed Secretaries.

Resolutions, one of order and general thanks to the hons. Jos. W. Holden and Willie D. Jones of Wake, T. L. Hargrove of Granville and Madison Hawkins of Franklin were put in nomination. Strong feeling was evinced by many of the speakers. Not a single colored man was brought forward for the position, although the colored Republicans of the District are about ten to one of the white. The defeat of Jim Harris, will be a sufficient plea with the white Radicals to rule out the negroes for all time to come.

After a very full expression of sentiment on the part of the delegates, Joseph W. Holden received the nomination, which, as usual, was afterwards made unanimous.

We consider the nomination about the best that could have been made for the interest of the Conservatives of the District. It will not be difficult, we judge, to beat "my son John" by a strong majority.—Joseph must not only bear the burden of his own sins, which are enough to sink a seventy-four gun ship, but those of his father besides.

PUBLIC EXECUTIONS.

There has been much said, especially in the North, against the practice of the public execution of criminals condemned to be hung, because of the bad influence, it is alleged, of such executions.

There are two sides to this question. There is something positively revolting to our sensibilities to witness the hanging of any human being, and we have been surprised at the vulgar taste which prompts so many persons, and especially females, to go in crowds to witness so horrible a spectacle. But the design of the law is to correct society by its harsh discipline and its harsher punishments. If so, it strikes us, that the infliction of the punishments of the law, ought generally to be public. How else can the vicious be restrained by the punishment of offenders?

These thoughts have occurred to us, since the private hanging in this city of the negro, Gilmon, for the high crime of rape. Large numbers crowded around, but few were permitted to witness it. Hence the solemn, awful influence of the penalty of the law, failed to produce any salutary effect. No execution in this city has ever produced so little effect, so far as we can judge. Every one was satisfied of his guilt, but few seem to have been impressed with the great turpitude of his crime, because they did not see the infliction of the punishment which the law demanded.

EDITORIAL NEWS ITEMS.

OFF FOR LIBERIA.—One hundred and ninety two colored emigrants from Bertie and Washington Counties in this State, sailed for Africa last week on board the ship Golconda of Baltimore. The emigrants were well supplied with clothing farming utensils, nails &c. They expect to join their friends who sailed last November and settled on St. Paul's river at Arlington and Brownsville. Many emigrants desire to go next spring.

The congregation of the 4th street M. E. Church in Wheeling, Va. during the preaching of a sermon last week, became greatly alarmed and fled from the building, under the apprehension from a noise heard from the ceiling, that the roof was falling in.—It was afterwards discovered that the noise proceeded from the lifting of the ventilators which had been recently varnished.—The church was very warm and the heat had effected the ventilators and contracted the cords used to raise them. The alarm was wholly false. The wonder is that many were not hurt by their precipitancy.

Algernon Sidney Sullivan, a boy 10 of unusual precocity and fond of conversing on philosophical subjects and abstruse questions of theology, became deranged with the anxiety to see into the future, and last week committed suicide by taking laudanum. He resided with his parents in New York city, and was named George Henry Starr.

DISTINGUISHED.—In the month of September last, Rev. Mr. McCorkendale of Scotland, Mr. Randall of Quincey, Mass. and Dr. Beane of Baltimore with their guides, perished in a snow-storm in an attempt to reach the summit of Mont Blanc, Switzerland. A recent search has been made for them and the result was the recovery of the bodies of Mr. McCorkendale and Dr. Beane. Both were found sitting and must have imperceptibly passed into the spirit land, out of a frozen sleep. Notes of the situation for several days before death ensued, were found on Dr. Beane's person.

At the earnest call of the pastors of the several Episcopal Churches of Richmond, Va. an association has been formed among the Episcopalians of that city to promote missionary enterprise and general church work by procuring preaching for the destitute, working in Sabbath Schools and publishing pious reading &c. It was entered into with worth.

It is said, that owing to a little mistake, matters were not so pleasant between Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Cox, before Gen Cox resigned his position of Secretary of the Interior.

The health of Chief Justice Chase is still in doubt. Some say he is improving others say not. Some seem determined to kill him before his time, in order to fill his office with a far less able and worthy man. We hope that the Chief Justice will still live in spite of them, to prove a terror to the evader of unconstitutional and despotic power.

Rev. Daniel Hostetter, D. D. recently delivered a most valuable discourse at Hampden Sidney College in Va. on "Christian Ambition."

LETTER FROM GEN. LEE'S PHYSICIAN.

[From the Fredericksburg Herald.]

We have [illegible] to copy the following extract from a private letter from Dr. H. T. Barnes, General Lee's attending physician, to his brother, Judge W. S. Barnes, of this city:

LEXINGTON, Oct. 18, 1870.

MY DEAR BROTHER:—I have been so engaged for two weeks with our sick friend, Gen. Lee, that I have [illegible] to write many other matters unattended to. As the papers have contained very inaccurate accounts of his case, and [illegible] will desire to hear specially from me our opinion, I will state in a few words.

He had but partially recovered from the rheumatism, affecting the muscles of his arms, back and head, [illegible] 1853, and about a year ago, attacking the pericardium, the membranous [illegible] over the heart [illegible] which regular rheumatic heart has been maintained by [illegible] examined by us. After a very fatiguing day at college, he attended an important meeting of the vestry, and was detained for several hours, but gave no evidence of being unwell. As he walked into his dining-room, where they were waiting tea for him, he took his seat, and was discovered to have lost his speech.

I was summoned at once and found his pulse rather weak; with cold extremities, &c. Commenced the use of remedies at once, and sent for Dr. Madison, who continued to attend him to the end. He was in a short time able to speak a little, sometimes in sentence, but generally only in reply to questions. He remained thus disposed most of the attack; could be easily aroused and almost to the very last seemed to understand all that was said to him, and responded by words or signs, without any great depression. He evidently neither expected nor desired to recover. After improving almost steadily till last Sunday he began to retrograde, and on Monday evening the 10th instant all dreaming symptoms set in, and we had little hopes after that time. We consider his protracted grief at the condition of his country and the continued oppression of his strong feeling, the chief remote cause, and excessive fatigue and mental application, the immediate cause of congestion of the vein of the brains; and though not producing apoplexy, of which there was no evidence (he moving every muscle almost to the last hour,) this congestion caused most serious loss of nervous power, and resulted in lesion of the substance of the brain itself.—Our whole people are more paralyzed than he was. I never witnessed sighs like it.

It is reported that the prospect for cheap mackerel, cod and herring this coming winter is excellent. They are very plenty at the banks of Newfoundland.
