THE FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT

An important cause came before the United States Court recently at Memphis, in which was involved the validity of the act passed at the last session of Congress to enforce the fourteenth amendment, generally known as the enforcement act. Col. James D. Porter, Jr., of Henry, was elected a Judge of the Circuit Court of the State at the election in August last. Previous to the war he was a member of the Legislature. During the war he was in the Confederate army. He was afterwards among the number pardoned by the President by executive proclamation in September, 1865. He was recently indicted in the Federal Court at Memphis for holding office in violation of the enforcement act. A writ of habeas corpus was granted and served upon him requiring him to show the authority by which he held his office. The object of the law proceeding is to remove him under the enforcement act from his judicial position. After argument of the legal questions involved in these cases, the Judges, Edmonds and Trigg, disagreed, and under the law of Congress ordered their disagreement to the Supreme Court of the United States for its consideration and decision. The substance of the points of disagreement between the Judges, as we are informed, are as follows:

1. Are the 14th and 15th sections of the act of 23d of May, 1870, "appropriate legislation," as contemplated in section 5 of the 14th article of amendments to the Constitution?

2. Can the defendant be held to answer for acts of insurrection, or rebellion, committed prior to the adoption of said article of amendments to the Constitution and said act of Congress?

3. Can the United States inquire into the validity of the election of a Judge of the State of Tennessee, who has been duly elected, commissioned and qualified?

4. The effect of the Executive pardon accepted by defendant in September, 1865. The effect of this pardon will be to leave Judge Porter on the bench until the Supreme Court of the United States shall determine the points submitted. It will also have the effect, we presume, of compelling further action in the numerous cases pending in the Federal Courts in this State against the very many State officers against whom proceedings have been begun under the act of May, 1870.
