PAPERS IN THE WEST WILL PLEASE COPY.

LOCAL DOGS.
Our streets were thronged with stragglers yesterday.

White fanned suits are popular at the seaside.

See if your name is on the registration books.

Sand-papred heads is now the fashion among the young men of this city.

There are 91 country merchants in this county.

Wake county has 66 mills of various kinds.

The stinks in various portions of the city have not yet subsided.

Soda-water fountains were largely patronized yesterday.

Pugilistic exercises were freely indulged in yesterday by some juvenile darlings in Western Ward. Black eyes and bloody noses resulted.

Senator Tipton had a large and intelligent crowd to hear him at Metropolitan Hall Monday night. His speech was a telling one. Mr. Wilkins, a member of the Liberal Republican Executive Committee, of New York, made a capital campaign speech. See editorial columns.

GRANDIOSITY NEWS.—The tidings from Granville is most flattering. Our prospects are brightening. At Henderson yesterday a decided impression for good was made for our ticket. This is reliable. Many republicans in Granville will support the ticket of Retrenchment and Reform.

As the weather is extremely hot we publish the following concerning sun-stroke: Not every man who falls unconscious on a hot day has sun-stroke. There is fortunately one criterion so easy of application that any one can use it. Go at once to the fallen man, open his shirt-bosom and lay the hand upon the chest, if the skin is cold you may rest assured that whatever may be the trouble, it is not sun-stroke. If, on the contrary, the skin is burning hot, the case is certainly sun-stroke and no time should be lost. The patient should be carried to the nearest pump or hydrant, stripped to his waist, and several buckets of cold water dashed over him until consciousness begins to return, or the intense heat of the surface decidedly abates.

TO KEEP HER FROM MELTING.—A correspondent describes a process in kitchen economy which is of special service to the house-keeper during these warm days. In such warm weather, it is almost impossible to prevent the untimely melting of the quantity of ice usually purchased by a small family. Very few refrigerators serve to keep it from wasting more than half. To stop this waste, our correspondent directs that an envelope of flannel and newspapers should be placed about the man of ice. This envelope, of which the newspapers are the most important part, is said to be perfectly effective. Here's another proof of the great power of journalism.

POLLUTED ATMOSPHERE.—It is said by eminent and scientific men that "the decomposition of a single potato or a wilted turnip will breed disease if the vapors of the decaying substance are confined to the walls of a house." The same is said of decaying substances in alleys, streets and yards. The vapors rising from manure and rubbish piles, will so propagate the atmosphere as to make it unhealthy, and thereby spread disease and death. This is the cause of so many diseases breaking out that baffle the skill of physicians. Filthiness causes destruction wherever it exists.

THE BIBLE PRESENTATION.—The following letter, is from Mayor Wesley Whitaker, in regard to the Bible presentation at the Catholic Church on Sunday last:

RALEIGH, July 10, 1872.
Messrs. M. B. Barber, John Clayton, L. Labrie and James Byrne, Committee:
BROTHERS:—On Sabbath last, and at a moment quite unexpected, our beloved Father McNamee, acting for you, presented me with a copy of the Holy Bible. Family Edition—beautifully bound and richly ornamented. The gift—the feeling remarks from the lips of our beloved pastor—the time and the place, overpowered me, and I could not then give utterance to the feelings of gratitude that swelled in my bosom. Accept, dear brethren, my sincere thanks for this precious gift—precious because it is the word of God—the rock upon which our faith is founded. Valuable to me, because it is a sacred token of your affectionate regard.

Accept, beloved father, in return for your kindly expressions, on that interesting occasion, the thanks and gratitude of one who recognizes in you, not only a benefactor, but an able defender and expounder of the Catholic faith. Your aspirations have buried themselves in my heart, and in the evening of my earthly existence, a recurrence to this interesting ceremony, will be as a green field, filling my soul with joy.

Believe me, beloved Father & Brethren, Yours, truly in the Faith, W. WHITTAKER.

The Mass Meeting! AN ENTHUSIASTIC CROWD OF GRATEFUL MEN PRESENT!

A bright sky and an atmosphere more pleasant than for several days past greeted the dawn of yesterday—the day set apart for the Greeley and Brown mass meeting in this city.

The number of visitors, owing to the shortness of the notice and the necessity of attending to the growing crops, was not so large as expected, but still a very fair showing was made. In point of intelligence, patriotism and integrity, it represented the virtue and backbone of the State.

At 10 a. m. the Raleigh Brass Band appeared in front of the Yarrowburgh House, and soon its inspiring strains drew a large crowd—and when the distinguished visitors came out to take their seats in the carriages they were greeted with cheer after cheer.

THE PROCESSION was headed by the band and a number of mounted marshals, M. T. Leach, Esq., acting as chief and assisted by Messrs. T. P. Devereux, D. Bell, Simon Craven, Col. James T. Harris, Geo. Smodes, L. Stephenson, P. Pescud, Jr., E. Blodson, Major R. Petty, E. H. Lee, Frank Stronach, A. C. Sanders and S. G. Cross, Col.

In the first carriage was seated United States Senator Tipton, of Nebraska, ex-U. S. Senator Miller, of Georgia, Gov. Walker, of Virginia, and Hon. D. M. Barringer, Chairman of the Democratic Conservative State Executive Committee. In the second came Ex-U. S. Senator Doolittle, of Wisconsin, P. C. Cameron, Esq., of Hillsboro, W. R. Johnston, of Charlotte and Hon. W. A. Graham, of Hillsboro. In the third, Hon. Thos. L. Clingman, of Buncombe, D. R. Goodloe, Esq., of Warren, and W. S. Mason, Esq., of this city, were seated. A number of other carriages followed filled with gentlemen well known and highly respected by the people of the State.

After a ride of about a mile the procession reached the ground selected for the speaking and barbecue. A better selection could not have been made. The shade of its beautiful trees and the cool look of the green foliage contributed to the comfort and satisfaction of the throng.

The arrangements were admirable and in good taste. A spacious and sheltered platform for the speakers and others was in readiness. The folds of the flag of the nation encircled it, and in front, in large letters, were the names of the nation's candidates: HORACE GREELEY and B. GRANT BROWN. Such appropriate notices as "The Constitution," "Universal Amnesty," "Local Self-Government," "Constitutional Liberty and Equal Rights to all, White and Colored," &c., &c., were conspicuously displayed. Fronting the platform was a well constructed arbor arranged with comfortable seats. The meeting was called to order by W. S. Mason, Esq., who moved that Hon. D. M. Barringer be called to the chair, which motion received a hearty assent.

On motion of Mr. Mason, the following gentlemen were chosen Vice-Presidents: P. C. Cameron, of Orange; J. A. Gilmer, of Greensboro; H. C. Jones, of Mecklenburg; Hon. T. C. Fuller, of Cumberland; J. J. Davis, of Franklin; W. R. Hicks, of Granville; R. H. Smith, of Halifax; D. R. Goodloe, of Warren; J. H. Separk, of Wake; H. T. Jordan, of Person; E. W. Poy, of Johnston; J. H. Haughton, of Craven; Dossey Battle, of Nash.

On motion, all of the representatives of the press of the State present were made Secretaries.

On assuming the chair, Mr. Barringer made a short but in every way tasteful address. He congratulated the people upon the auspicious opening of the meeting, and upon the unity of sentiment and harmony pervading all classes and sections in the effort to restore the government to its former purity and republican simplicity, &c. He concluded by announcing that Rev. Dr. R. S. Mason would address the Throng of Grace by prayer. This venerable divine came forward and offered one of the beautiful prayers of his Church for peace, concord and unity among men, and for the prosperity of the country.

At the conclusion of the prayer the President introduced

who received with an outburst of the most enthusiastic applause which was repeated again and again. The Ex-Senator is quite a handsome man, and, in fact, has a senatorial appearance. His face is a pleasant one to look upon, though there is no regularity of features. His voice is strong though not harsh. His modulations fell pleasantly upon the ear.

Not being a stenographer it is impossible to give a full report of this able speech and a skeleton report would not do justice to the distinguished orator. The speaker did not seek to embellish his address with meaningless flowers of rhetoric and ornate flourishes. He dealt with plain and undeniable facts. It was an earnest appeal to all lovers of constitutional liberty to come to the rescue and save the republic from drifting into a military despotism. He showed the great evils which must certainly flow from the centralizing policy of the present administration, and gave numerous illustrations of the unscrupulous encroachments made by the Grant party, not only upon the rights of the States, but upon the liberties of the private citizen. The influence of Grant for the Presidential chair and the corruption prevailing almost in every branch of the government were depicted in vigorous language. His strong condemnation of the outrage perpetrated upon the people in the suspension of the writ of rights—the Labor Corps, found an echo in the hearts of all present, and he cited it as an alarming onslaught upon the dearest and most sacred rights of the citizen. He characterized Grant's "let us have peace" expression as a mockery, for he had only given to the South humiliation and galling chains. He had given to the South liberty with a halberd under its neck.

The defeat of Grant he declared, was actually necessary to the preservation of the liberties of the people, and that the election of Horace Greeley would reconcile the sectional differences of the past and give to the country that peace and quiet which is essential to its material prosperity. The distinguished orator continued for some time in pointing out the usurpations and enormities of the Grant administration, and the corruption of the party which supports it, and in urging the election to the Presidential chair of the man who the sober, thinking and honest men of the country had declared, in a mighty Convention, capable of filling with credit to himself and to this great nation.

At the conclusion of Mr. Doolittle's speech, the President introduced as one of the best platform orators in the country, and well did this gentleman sustain his reputation on this occasion. His speech was a thorough exposure of the corruption permeating the government in all its branches. The enormities and outrages perpetrated by Grant and his advisers upon the people and upon the fair fame of the nation were depicted in their true colors, in language both appropriate and eloquent. Like the eminent gentleman who preceded him, Mr. Miller strongly urged all good and true men to rally to the support of the man who would bend all the energies of a great intellect to bind up the wounds from which the country was now bleeding and restore it to its former healthy and prosperous condition—whose high moral character would lead him to surround himself with honest and pure minded men and turn adrift the horde of parasites and vampires who are disgracing us in the eyes of the world, and who are making war upon our republican institutions in order to thrust us into a vortex of imperialism and despotism.

EX- U. S. SENATOR MILLER, OF GEORGIA,

Mr. Miller's speech elicited frequent applause, and his words of warning and caution made a deep impression upon his large audience.

When Mr. Miller concluded the meeting adjourned until 3 p. m., and the crowd was invited to partake of the spread upon a dozen or more tables. There was an ample supply of barbecued pig, lamb, ham, pickles, cakes, crackers and other delicacies too numerous to mention. The dinner was prepared for at least six thousand people and from the quantity on hand which the intemperate caterer Dr. Blackhall, of the Yarrowburgh House, had provided, double that number could easily have been fed. The Doctor deserves great credit for the untiring energy which he displayed upon this occasion and for the splendid success which crowned his efforts.

The dinner was not ordered until last Friday evening, and when taking into consideration the shortness of the notice and the extensive scale of the preparations, it is a matter of surprise that the Doctor should have made such a success of the undertaking.

The large crowd came to the tables in an orderly manner and without scrambling and snatching, so common on such occasions, and with a most abundant and inviting meal prepared for them.

AFTER DINNER
the meeting was again called to order by the President, who introduced to the audience the handsome man in the country, GOV. WALKER OF VA.

He had travelled all night to come to this meeting—he would travel a dozen nights, if by doing so, he could aid in restoring constitutional liberty and in freeing North Carolina from the terrible ruin which had been visited upon her, and in giving her back that honored name which she once so proudly wore. The Governor then proceeded to comment upon the centralizing tendency of the government and the wide spread corruption of the times. He spoke with great earnestness and power and was repeatedly cheered. North Carolinians know how to appreciate elevated character and honor any pure man come where he may. The people of the noble old Commonwealth of Virginia, are indeed fortunate in having such an Executive officer.

SENATOR TIPTON, OF NEBRASKA, was next introduced and loudly cheered. He continued his very able speech of the night before to which reference is made in our editorial columns, and conferred all we have said of his superior abilities. His speech was short but exceedingly pointed and incisive. His remarks could but make a profound impression coming as they did from a statesman and patriot of the North who had raised his voice so often in

To this Day replies as follows:

While he is not authorized to bind the labor organization, such of its members as he has conferred with, unite with him in the importance of a joint action of all parties against what Day also terms monopolies and sportsmen. His complaint that working people have no recognition in the platform of either, and agree to do all in his power at the Convention of July 20th to bring about such union of parties as Duncan suggests.
