HURRICANE.

Our delighted gay Lothario—Long Perry by name—is to change his base. He is to go to New Orleans. We are sorry for New Orleans.

We had the pleasure of meeting, on Saturday, our young friend Jno. L. Skinner, of Oxford, on his way to Colorado.

We regret to see our worthy young man leaving the Old North State for homes in other sections of our vast country.

Communication signed "Raleigh" will appear in our next.

Now is the season for advertising. The wise man understands the value of prite's talk he uses on a newspaper.

The DAILY SENTINEL has a large circulation and goes to nearly every county in the State.

Messrs. Edwards & Beighton have purchased the BANNER OF INDEPENDENCE.

Mr. Banbury, its late owner, will soon canvas the State in the interest of the Good Free Press.

The many friends of J. W. Marcon Esq., will be grieved to learn the death of his little daughter, Ethel Earl, which occurred on Sunday morning.

Friday night some thief took the Mocking bird belonging to John Nichols, Esq., from its cage in the porch and carried it off.

THE WASHINGTON CAMPAIGN—"PATRI-OT"—We take pleasure in calling attention to this excellent campaign paper, which is the organ of the National Democratic and Conservative parties, and published at the National Capital.

The price of the weekly is only $2 per annum. To clubs of six or more only $1.50 per annum, while for the campaign, or four months, it is furnished to clubs of six, or upwards, for a small sum of fifty cents. It has thirty-two columns of carefully selected reading matter, embracing editorials, the latest political and domestic news; and, besides, has correct market reports and miscellaneous news.

We bespeak for it a liberal patronage; for, as our only representative party organized in the National Capital, it should be in every Democratic and Conservative household, as its champion brings it within the reach of even the poorest.

Mend up your clubs and send your lists in.

AN EDINBURGH CORNISHMAN.—Our excited brother Woodson, of the News, was present at the dinner given by the ladies of the Episcopal Church in Louisiana on Tuesday last. Even Woodson himself will admit that the ladies of Franklin did competition in the preparation of a dinner, and are noted for the delicacy with which they supply every thing. This was probably true on Tuesday. Woodson went. The unsuspecting ladies actually greeted him with smiles.

He was shown to a seat. Nearly opposite to him sat the Political Editor, with diamonial forebodings. A lady waited upon Woodson, for the sake of the church. She helped him pensitively and attempted to wear up his neighbor—in vain. His plate was empty. She tolled nobly, but Woodson kept far ahead; and gazed at her hungrily reproachfully. She called a servant girl to her assistance and both contested the unequal contest. The Political Editor, armed with his heel, had the skin of the Louse.

"It is reckoned while they let him eat on

The gruel which ladies did bring him."

Gentle reader, are you paid their dollars and left; but still with open mouth and drooping eye?—Woodson did cry aloud for more. "A little more of that ham, if you please, ma'am."

"I am asked while they let him eat on

The gruel which ladies did bring him."

United States Senator Ransom, sought to cover his embarrassment by a succession of those costly bows for which he is noted.

Dr. C. J. Gee made some few rather inelegant remarks in regard to atmospheric matters, while Mr. Pinckney Batch-er preserved a strict yet eloquent silence and very impressively shook hands with

Gen. Ransom. The General was the first to leave.

Now you're there and now you go, but I'm there, too.

and so are.
