Bank is in a prosperous condition, and its business increasing every month.

AN ORPHAN A YLUM FOR RALEIGH.

We were told on yesterday that a poor man by the name of Saunders died Sunday night and left six orphan children to be cared for by the cold charity of the city culvert.

A correspondent from Richmond say-

"it is understood that there will be a cau-sous of the conservative members of the Legislature early in January, to see if harmony and unity of action can be effected upon the vital question now before that body."

The City cotton and flour mills on the Appomattox river, have not been running for the past two days, on account of the floating ice.

The Virginia Legislature re-assembled on Thursday last.

Mrs. Mary E. Randolph, widow of the late

General George W. Randolph, died in Richmond, on Thursday last.

RENTSTOCK.

A joint municipal ticket, half Republican and half Democratic, with E. H. Tayor, Jr., at the head, has been nominated at Frankfort.

Some Athol boys caught a flock of two or three geese in the river one day last.

The two States now suffering most severely from small-pox, it is said, are Kentucky and Massachusetts. The disease is rapidly disappearing from the former

State.

At Shepherdsville, on Sunday, Dec. 29,

about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, a beautiful phenomenon appeared in the west.

About sixty degrees to the right and left of the sun's rays were two beautiful rainbow. The sight was witnessed by hundreds of persons.

TENNESSEE.

Cumberland College, Tennessee, has

property to the actual value of $300,000, and possesses a library of 14,000 volumes.

Rev. W. Graham lectured in Nashville

Sunday night on "Woman's position and work."

There is a chance, a good chance for some man to do good and leave behind him the blessed inheritance of a cherished memory.

THE RALEIGH CHRISTMAS TREE.

From a long article in the last "Spirit of the Age," with the above title, we learn that the Christmas "Tree" of the Raleigh

Baptist Sunday School, had articles and tickets on it representing between five and six hundred dollars worth, and that more than half of this value consisted in tickets

of wood, flour, meat, meal, clothing, &c., for the poor.

THE GROWTH OF RALEIGH.

It is seen not only in its many new and fine stores and residences, but in the enterprising and clever business men who have come here since the war. To refer to one class alone—

lawyers—Judge Battle, R. H. Battle, S.

Phillips, A. Merriman, Geo. V. Strong,

W. H. H. Smith, J. B. Batchelor, L. C.

Edwards, Wm. Young, the Mease Jones,

Capt. Sam. Williams, and several others have all settled here since the late unpleasantness.

TWELFTH DAY—EPHIPHY.

The feast of Epiphany was duly observed at the Episcopal and Catholic churches yesterday, the attendees at the latter church being large and the services impressive.

Epiphany is a festival celebrated on the 12th day after Christmas (old Christmas Day) in commemoration of the manifestation of Christ by the star which guided the Magi to Bethlehem.

ALL QUIET.

Of late our city has been remarkably quiet and peaceful, so much so that it would really seem that the "evil genius of mankind" had left us almost entirely. We have had but one fire of any consequence in nearly two months, not a single suicide or murder, but two or three exceptions no knife or pistol used,

a few fistfights and not a single divorce suit, that we have heard of. This speaks well for a city with the population that Raleigh has, but a Chiloean would say it was an evidence that we are not

"progressive."

AN OLD TIE IS THE PULTRY.

We saw in the city yesterday, Rev. F. H. Ivie, who was trained by the excellent E. J.

Hele in the old Observer office of Fayetteville. Mr. Ivie graduated at Wake Forest

College, but for the past twelve years has been pastor of the Baptist Church in Athens, Ga. We know that he has returned to his native State and in connection with

Dr. Wingate will take the field and do his utmost to complete the enterprise of raising a hundred thousand dollars for the endowment of the alma mater during 1873. Mr. Ivie is said to be a fine scholar and a capital teacher—of course he is—he was brought up in a printing office.

VOL. VIII.

RALEIGH, N. C., TUESDAY, JANUARY 7, 1873.

NO. 100.

We understand, that owing to the recent snow and heavy rains, Neuse river is rising very rapidly and danger of an overflow is apprehended.

On Saturday morning, between three and four o'clock, the bridge will supporting the iron railing around the basement story of the new Fisher building, gave way, and a considerable portion of the wall caved in, making an ugly place in the sidewalk and doing some damage to the property.

SHERMAN COURT.—The winter term of this court commenced yesterday, Chief Justice Pearson and all the Associate Justices being present. The session of the court, as will that of to-morrow be, was devoted to the examination of applicants for license to practice in the State courts, of whom there were twenty-six in number. The examinations will close to-morrow.

NEW YEAR'S SERMONS.—By reason of the rain the congregations at all the churches on Sunday last were small. Several of the pastors preached sermons appropriate to the beginning of a New Year. It is a time for serious reflection and good resolutions. May a Gracious Providence abundantly bless our people temporally and spiritually.

THE RALEIGH PARKS.—We saw, on yesterday, in the hands of Mr. Street Inspector Bakalan, the plans of the new city parks now in course of being laid out by the city—Nash and Moore squares having been given to the city by the State to be converted into public parks. Nash square is already enclosed by a temporary fence, to be replaced by a substantial iron railing as soon as the park shall have been completed. To-day Mr. Bakalan commences work within the enclosure in grading and in constructing culverts.

Work on Moore square begins to-day, the timber for the temporary fence being at ready. The plan of the parks are quite artistic. Mr. Bakalan will, once provided for the proper shade, and in doing this he proposes to get outside of the old log run in setting out saplings ten to twelve feet high, believing he can do as the French and English have successfully done—plant full grown oaks, &c. Provision will be made for handsome fountains in both these parks. When these parks shall have been completed, in addition to Capitol square, there will not be a city in the world of the same size and population so well provided with parks as Raleigh.

SOUTHERN NEWS ITEMS.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

After a service of fifty two years, Rev. William S. Lee has resigned the pastoral charge of Edisto Presbyterian Church.

Menecensis is on the increase in Newberry. Many colored people have died and several of the white population.

The table on which the Declaration of Independence was signed is now in the possession of the Laurens family, in South Carolina, one of their ancestors having been a signer.

VIRGINIA.

A serious break, attended with considerable loss, took place in the canal, near the Tredegar Works, Richmond, on Saturday morning. The Tredegar Works' rolling mill and the Gallego mills have had to suspend pending repairs.

The Church Hill tunnel, Richmond, is flooded and a considerable portion of it has caved in, caused by the bursting of a city culvert.

A correspondent from Richmond says,
