HOME AFFAIRS.

ELK MOUNTAIN CHEESE.—The best cheese to be found is the Elk Mountain, made in Buncombe county. It rivals in Northern markets the best cheese made in Western New York. We recommend it to our readers from the best test, that of tasting. It is to be found at the store of Wm. H. Jones' as well as in New York and Buncombe.

WILL IT?—The State Agricultural Journal asks if the citizens of Raleigh will subscribe ten thousand dollars to enable the Executive Committee of the State Agricultural Society to complete the buildings and other improvements of the new fair grounds. Alexander Creech, one of our most unassuming and enterprising merchants leads the list with $500, in the affirmative, and surely the rest of our business men will say amen.

MORE Roads!—We complained yesterday of common apples selling here in Raleigh, at $2 per bushel, while a first class article sold not many months ago in a West. Va. county in which they have roads at 6-1/2 cents per bushel. Last night we met with a gentleman who talks of going where there are no roads. He had just come from a first class wholesale house where they had charged him thirty-five cents for a half peck of "nobbin" apples. More roads, or no roads.

TWENTY-SECOND OF FEBRUARY.—The war and its results rather threw a damp over the 4th of July in the South. It has not, however, damaged the 22nd of February so much. On the 21st February Mr. Badger moved that the House adjourn until Monday the 24th, making a holiday and a jubilee of the 22d. Mr. Morrison amended the motion by adding that members should take no pay for this day. This killed the holiday. However, all the members said good-bye. On the 22nd a tall member absented himself from the House and fired a canon before the door of the House until every member said good-bye. Many of the members had been in the Confederate army and could stand the shock. It is to be hoped that on the next 2d of February the House will adjourn or have the cause and examine passed at a less shocking or more agreeable distance.

OBSERVER.—A well-dressed young man stopped at a Vermont hotel last week for a few days, and made acquaintances. The evening of the second day of his arrival a nice young lady came along, unattended, and instantly attracted the attention of the irreproachable youngsters, who expressed her charms fully as they saluted her at supper. The younger young man went so far as to say that he would marry her if she would have him, and offered, for a substantial wager, to pop the question and have the marriage ceremony performed right away. The wager was accepted, and also the proposal of marriage, made so cordially by the young man, that the two young girls were soon engaged in a fierce contest for the hand of the young man. STATE AGRICULTURAL JOURNAL.—The first number of this publication, issued in this city, made its appearance yesterday. It is a well printed eight page weekly paper, edited by R. F. Fulgham, of Raleigh, J. R. Thigpen, of Edgecombe, and C. R. Deasey, of Chatham. Price $1 per year. The first number of the Journal gives promise of its being a valuable addition to the agricultural literature of the country and we trust it will be liberally sustained. Address R. F. Fulgham, Raleigh, N. C.

OMITTED PROCESSION.—The SENTINEL, in its account of the procession in the House on Thursday, omits all mention of the speakers or position of Messrs. Morris and Badger when the Anderson-Norwood letter came up for discussion.

NOTE.—Point of the reporter and not the editor.

The NEWS says Mr. Norwood felt justify in digesting at the reception of the note. That is not Mr. Norwood's account of it—it never occurred to him to make any such use of it until the next day, when H. was suggested by others.

BINGHAM SCHOOL.—It is not improper and we feel it to be a duty we owe to Major Bingham and to the public to state that the death of Col. Wm. Bingham does not interfere with the discipline and success of the school. In fact the care and active duties of the school for sometime past have all fallen upon Major Bingham, as will be seen by the following card from Col. Bingham upon the eve of his departure for the South last year:

BINGHAM SCHOOL.

Major Bingham beg to report to the patrons of the school his profound regret that the state of his health has compelled him to be absent from his post during so great a part of the session just closed.

The pistol must have been loaded before charging with the last powder. The filly was very valuable one, and belonged to Jas. Barn, Esq., brother-in-law of young Matthews. Here is another instance of the careless use of firearms.—

STABBING APPARATUS IN DANVILLE, VA.—On Tuesday evening, a negro by the name of Christopher Craft, got into a quarrel with another negro, by the name of Dr. Jeffress. They fell out about some abusive language spoken by the former to the wife of the latter. Jeffress remarked to Craft that if he cursed his wife, he would have him to kill, but he went off without any notice demonstrations. He was followed, however, by Craft, who struck him and then stoned him in ex-plaza. The blows were given in four places and the instigators in two. Craft took to his heels, remarking as he retreated, that his victim would never eat another meal of victuals. The police pursued him and found him in a gully about a mile from town covered up with stones. The negro was then arrested.

TRADE OF BALTIMORE

during the last season was larger than ever before. The people of the South have a great attachment to this great Southern city. During the war its people were among the truest to the "Lost Cause," and showed a magnificent liberality on hundreds of occasions. But "business is business," as the current phrase truly states it, and unless Baltimore more presented as great inducements to New York our southerners could not expect to persuade Southern buyers to make their purchases here. But the fact is, that in most branches of business, ours and its non-existence in three of the Senate amendments to the School Bill.

Mr. Ellis of Columbus, having had charge of the bill, in the Senate, moved that the Senate recede from the amendments rejected by the House. Agreed to, 15 to 13, and the Senate so voted.

On Monday, the engrossed Revenue Bill was ordered to be printed and made the order of the day for 12 o'clock on Monday and each succeeding day till disposed of.

A message was received from the House transmitting an engrossed resolution to authorize the Secretary of State to purchase a sufficient number of bound volumes of the public laws of 1871-72 to supply some seven counties omitted in the distribution of that year, at a cost not to exceed $300; and that the Solicitor of the 6th Judicial District institute suit against the sureties on the official bond of Henry J. Menninger, late Secretary of State, for the costs of these books and for any other official disbursements.

The Senate concurred in the resolution.

Mr. Worth moved that after 11.30 to day, and for to day specify be limited to five minutes. Adopted.

Mr. Lovell moved that no motion to amend the rules be entertained to day, and that the bills on the private calendar be taken up in their numerical order.
