INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF & DUMB AND THE BLIND. - On Wednesday night the new Board of Directors of this institution held their first meeting and took possession of the establishment.

Tin. Lee, not confirmed by the Senate, was elected President of the Board.

John Nichols was elected Principal of the Institution; Jas. Harris, not. Principal or Supervisor of the colored department; city night watchman, W. C. Wain, was put in charge of the sleeping, vice Henry Porter, removed; Robert Ellis made steward, vice Leach, removed; Robert Wyche, vice Leach, watchman, vice Saml. Briggs, dead, removed. Mrs. Stanford, Nichols, dead, removed, was elected teacher of the deaf and dumb, vice Miss Laura Blumberg, removed. The place filled by Jim Harris was abolished by the late board and its duties performed gratuitously by Messrs. Tomlinson and Leach; the office may therefore be considered a new one - at all events an unnecessary one - at a cost to the State of some $1500 per year. That will do to begin with. Gov. Caldwell did not see fit to reappoint Capt. T. M. Argo, rejected by the Senate, though he did reappoint Tom Lee, W. W. White, Register of Deeds, was appointed to Capt. Argo's place.

The Board consists of the following: T. F. Lee, Chairman, Handy Lusk, col., Albert Johnson, W. E. White, B. S. Tucker, C. D. Horton. John Nichols was not on the Board, but his election as Principal, under a vacancy. We insist upon this vacancy being filled with Capt. Argo. Why not? The "contempt" is complete.

QUESTION OF ANOTHER STATE FAIR.

THE MEETING LAST NIGHT.

A HEAVY DRAG-IN THE MATTER STILL IN DOUBT.

The second meeting of the citizens of Raleigh, called by the Executive Committee of the State Agricultural Society, to consider the important question whether there shall be another State Fair held in this city, or whether the enterprise shall be abandoned, took place last night at Metropolitan Hall, President T. M. Holt in the chair.

Col. Heck was next called upon. He dwelt upon the necessity of encouraging manufactures and gave an interesting sketch of the history of Wilmington, Delaware, and its rapid prosperity. Too much had been said in the State of the agricultural interest, to the neglect of mechanical pursuits.

Lynn Adams considered the Fair the best investment the people of Raleigh could make to build up the city. Raleigh should show the people of the State she was liberal and the people would show their appreciation of it.

Jake Allen, of the firm of Betts & Allen, said he could not make a speech, but if they would raise the money he could put up the buildings for them. He asked, however, to be put down for $50 as the best part of his speech.

Dr. Blackwell, from the committee on the sale of the old fair grounds, reported that the estimated proceeds of the entire sale of lots was $12,000 to $13,000. Some $4,500 worth of lots had already been sold.

W. H. Crow thought the appearance of the meeting showed a great lack of interest in the people of Raleigh, but how to induce more, he did not know.

W. H. Crow thought the appearance of the meeting showed a great lack of interest in the people of Raleigh, but how to induce more, he did not know.

Hon. D. M. Berringer said the question whether there shall be another State Fair was one in which every citizen of the city especially, great and small, should take a lively interest.

Col. Harrison was present and was called for. He did not see why a Kentuckian should be called upon to consider the necessity for a State Fair in Raleigh, besides, like some who had per cented him, he was not a speech maker on these subjects.

THE FASHIONS.

IMPORTED SPRING COSTUMES.

A large importation of spring costumes, consisting of three leading styles - viz., the sleeveless jacket suit, the Dolman costume, and the picturesque with single skirt.

Basques are growing longer, and are more often slashed in the seams instead of being plain. The fronts have two soft points, and are often double-breasted; lapels collars and revers are much used.

LATEST BY MAIL.

Mr. Rufus Morgan, the Landscape Photographer, is in the city of Wilmington.

The teachers and pupils of Tilton Normal School, Wilmington, are making preparations for a cantata.

At a rough guess the Messenger places the population of Goldsboro' at 2,500.

On Wednesday last, Mr. E. E. Burrus County Treasurer of New Hanover, gave bond in the sum of $70,000 and entered upon the discharge of the duties of his office.

HEAVY ROBBERY. - We learn, says the Wilmington Star, that Hon. H. G. Oederdoek, of this city, Receiver of the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford Railroad Company, had his pocket picked of $100,000 in coupons and other securities during the inauguration ceremonies at Washington on Tuesday.

The Cape Fear river is reported in better boating condition now than it has been for some time past, the stemmers being enabled to take in way-freight at the different landings which were inaccessible during the big freshet.

KIDNAPING A CHILD. - A colored woman, by the name of Maggie Little, says the Wilmington Star, was arrested yesterday on the charge of kidnaping a child about 8 or 10 years old from another colored woman named Rosanna Witherspoon.

It seems that this latter personage recently came to this city from South Carolina and Maggie Little lived in the same house with her. She (Witherspoon) was finally taken ill with fever and while in that condition Maggie Little disappeared, taking the child with her.

As soon as she recovered and was made acquainted with the facts, she had a warrant issued for Maggie, who was captured and lodged in the Guard House. She confesses to a knowledge of the child's whereabouts, but pertinently refuses to disclose the same, while Rosanna is almost frantic with grief at her inability to discover any trace of the little one.

AYCUL FOR THE INSANE. - The new Board of Directors of this institution will hold their first meeting on the 12th inst., when the headman will have a big job.

DISSOLUTION OF CO-PARTNERSHIP.

The co-partnership heretofore existing under the name of Long & McCauley is this day dissolved by mutual consent.

THOMAS A. LONG & THOMAS A. McCAULEY.

D. McCauley having purchased the entire interest of T. A. Long in the stock of Gooden will continue the business at the old stand and would take this occasion to thank the public for the liberal patronage bestowed on the old firm, and hopes by strict attention to business coupled with that attention to the interest of his customers which characterized all their dealings and crowned their efforts with success, to merit a continuance of favor on the part of the public.

THOMAS A. LONG & THOMAS A. McCAULEY. Chapel Hill, N. C., March 4, 1873.

Black cashmere sleeveless jackets are imported to wear with spring suits of black, gray, or other silks or cashmere. They have revers of black moire, and are double-breasted, with two rows of large cut steel or silver buttons on the front.

They may be simply edged, with a more piping fold, but are often embellished and bordered with yak lace, in which steel or jet beads are introduced.

Polonaises reappear without any great changes from those now worn. They are long, double-breasted, with or without belts, and are draped very high on the sides. Very large buttons in rows down the front, large buckles in sash bows, in some cases cuffs, pockets, with silk facings down the front and back, with the finest facings of the edge, are on stylish polonaises. A new appearance is given to some by having sleeves of another shade, and there are some sleeveless polonaises, to be worn over a dress of a different shade.

THE DOLMAN COSTUME. One of the best designs for spring suits has a simple stylish overdress and blouse, with a D-dolman of the same material. Soft, flexible materials are best for these suits, and they are very largely imported in olive, tan, ecru, and black cashmere, trimmed with chamois and woolen lace in thick woven fringe. A new idea is to face the front with moire, and hold it in rest shape by means of an underbelt.

For independent wraps, to be worn with various suits, there are black cashmere blouses, Dolman, and sleeveless jackets. The old-time mantilla will probably be successful this season, though it proved a failing when offered last year. One of the prettiest garments is a black cashmere blouse with a wide facing of moire in front, which, by a simple arrangement, is made to fit snugly like a vest, while the loose cap hangs over the shoulders. This is excellent, and is trimmed with velvet, silk and lace. The newest fashions among such wraps are the pretty passementerie and the lace-trimmed bolero.
