SONG FOR ST. PATRIC .'S DAY.

The savage loves his native shore, Though rude the soil, and chill he air, Then well may Erio's sons adore
An Isle which nature formed so fair!
What floo! reflects a shore so sweet As Shannon great, or pastoral Bann? And who a friend or foe can most. o generous as an Irishman !

His hand is rush, his heart is warm, Fut principle is still his guide.

None more represents a deed of harn,
And none forgives with nobice pride:
He may be duped, but won't be dared,
More it to practice than to plan, He dearly carns his poor reward. And spends it like an frishman

If strange or poor, for you he'll pray,
Or guide to where you safe may be,
If you're his comrade, while you stay,
His cottage holds a jubilee!
His inmost soul he will unlock,
And if he may your merit scan,
Your confidence he accorn at anock Your confidence he scorns to mock For faithful is an Irishman!

By honor bound, in woe or weal, Whate'er she bids, he dares to do Try him with bribe, it won't prevail,
Prove him with fire, you'll find him true!
He seeks not safety for his post,
Where'er he be in danger's van,
And if the field of Fame be lost,
it won't be by an Irishman?

This distressing Affection—which renders life miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgences. Young persons are the aptic commit excesses from not occup aware of the dreafful consequences that may ex-me. Now, who that understands this subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreatice is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the gradent? Besides heing deprived of the pleasure of leathy offspring, the most aerious and destructive symtoms of both body and mind arise.
