NORTH CAROLINA.

Hon. Asa Biggs, President of the Board of Trustees of the Wilson Collegiate Institute, has been invited to deliver the annual address at the next commencement, which takes place on Friday, the 27th of June.

CHEAP.—John Mitchell, col., committed by Justice Wilcox, of Whitakers, to our town lock up for an attempted rape upon the person of a negro girl, escaped prison last week after a confinement of one hour. Fifty dollars reward has been offered for his arrest.

Our friend, Dr. Daniel Cogdell, left here on yesterday evening for Raleigh, where he goes to place himself under treatment of Dr. Geo. W. Graham, for the recovery of his eyesight, which necessitates an operation. We wish our worthy friend a speedy return home and that he may realize his fondest expectations a successful cure.—Goldsboro' Messenger, 3d.

IMPROVING.—We are glad to learn that the little boy, John Reeder, who was accidently run over by a street car a few days since and badly injured, is gradually improving and there are no longer any apprehensions of serious results. He made a very narrow escape, however, and his case should remain a warning to little boys to abstain from the habit of hanging to the street cars were in motion.—Wil Star.

We understand from good authority that one of the most distinguished lawyers and statesmen of North Carolina—one whose able and eloquent voice is always on the side of humanity and civil liberty, Edward Conigland, Esq., has tendered his professional services in defence of Messrs. Englehard and Saunders in the Cantwell persecution. This noble and unselfish conduct on the part of Mr. Conigland, is in full keeping with his lofty reputation and will add still more to the "full measure of his fame."—Battleboro Advance.

PAPER MILL.—We are glad to know that Mr. David Murphy, of this county, is preparing to rebuild his paper mill on Rockfish near Fayetteville. The site and dam are in good order and the water and conveniences necessary to a paper mill, make this situation one of the best in the State. Mr. Murphy wants others to join him and take part of the stock. We have heard two or three substantial men say they would subscribe stock. The mill is to cost $20,000 or $25,000, supply this section, and be profitable. Let it be built. The mill Mr. Murphy had here before the war paid well for many years. Sherman's army burnt it. Books for subscription will be opened soon and we hope several of our people will invest. There is a charter for a company.—Fayetteville Eagle.

FIENDISH OUTRAGE.—A negro named George Lea is in jail at Yanceyville under the following circumstances as detailed by the Milton Chronicle of the 27th:

"It becomes our painful duty to chronicle one of the most brutal and fiendish outrages upon the person of a venerable maiden lady by a young buck negro that ever stained the annals of crime. There resides four miles from here, on the Yanceyville road, two ancient maiden ladies, who are sisters, and both of whom are invalids; one of them is aged 75 and the other 79 years. Their holy reverence for the Sabbath day prompted the younger to go into the woods on Saturday evening last to gather wood for Sunday, and while thus engaged she was descried by a black devil named George Lea, aged 24 years, who rushed upon this helpless old lady, and clasping her in his arms while he brandished a razor, threatened to cut her throat if she gave alarm or resisted his assault."

NEW PAPER.—We learn, says the Roanoke, that Mr. Josh T. James, local editor of the Wilmington Journal and late editor and proprietor of the North Carolina Argus, is about to establish at Weldon a new paper to be called the Chronicle. Mr. James is a first rate writer as well as a gentleman of indomitable energy and thorough acquaintance with the newspaper business, and we feel safe in predicting for the Chronicle a leading position among the weekly journals of the South. Mr. Gardener, the late sprightly and clever local editor of the Argus, we learn, is to fill the same position on the Chronicle. We wish our enterprising brethren great success.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Collarettes in Crape, Silk and Lace

Are taking the place of trimmings on dresses to a great extent this season. They are heart-shaped, or of edges, bows and puffs. Crape maretz is made into folds with Swiss muslin for pleating inside and flutings of crape and Swiss on the edges, over fringes of crape or the finest silk.

Beware.

There is an old fellow travelling about the country in a carryall, pretending to be crazy and uttering blasphemy. He is a charlatan of the wickedest kind—a runner for one of the free-love sects in the western part of New York State—and is on his way to South Carolina, so he says. His object is to make money and "converts for this purpose. Pass him along.

Hoe!

The number of agriculturalists in the city, supplying themselves with implements, was never so large as it is now. And consequently all the dealers in agricultural implements are doing a thriving business. At Thomas H. Briggs & Son's, yesterday, on Fayetteville street, there was a very interesting exhibition of the merits of the Tuttle hoe. Its advantage is it slopes up from the point so the upper edge will not strike against the stalk and bruise the cotton; it is set ready for use, sharpens itself, and is made very solid from cast steel.

The Insurance Companies and the Fire Department.

There is a movement on foot to induce the fire insurance companies represented in this city to contribute towards the development and perfection of the fire department generally. It is said the amount of property in this city insured is $1,500,000. It is proposed to carry the matter up to the next Legislature, if necessary, and with a tax of one-eighth of one per cent. on the gross amount of the receipts of the insurance companies obtain about $1,800 for the fire department here. A correspondent says: "And that would give to each company a sufficient amount to keep everything in good order."

Millinery—Spring Styles.

Miss Amis and Mrs. Andrews' establishment, on Fayetteville street, near the Capital, was the scene of an opening of new spring millinery, yesterday, and attracted considerable public attention. The "Lynette," among the shade hats, was pronounced the most beautiful, and it was predicted for this "love of a shade hat" it would lead, without doubt, among its class. The "Hawthorn" was another of the same class it was said would rank among the favorites.

The Rubens hat has of late obtained a certain hold upon the minor portion of the "dressy" public, according to Jennie June. It has certainly the merit of being very picturesque. The Rubens hat is a broad-brimmed shape, one side of which is turned and fastened, as in the portraits of the celebrated painters, while a very large and sweeping plume encircles the entire crown and falls droopingly at the back. The Calabrian hat is a new shape in straw of various kinds and is singularly stylish in effect.

The Calabrian is not unlike the sailor shape in front, turns up at the back, and for front trimming has a very large ferrande with a rose, or a bird's wing of light colors. A flat bow with an ograffe (and sometimes a small plume) ornaments the side, and a large scarf of black Spanish lace with a band-made border and two yards in length decorates the sides. This hat must be set far back on the head. Large earrings of the pattern called Calabrian—a long loop—are usually worn with this style of hat. An authority on this subject says:

The Calabrian should never be worn with a veil. The large veil beneath the chin becomes heavy and unbecoming if another be placed over the face, which fact, with some, would cause such a purchase to be used only for evening wear. It is very certain that the laying aside of the veil over the face in the street is highly disadvantageous to the preservation of an unblemished complexion. In round hats for spring wear and traveling purposes black and white straw are the most in demand. There is a fancy for trimming black with colors—dark blue, for example—mixed with straw and jet, and white straw with black, black lace dotted with bead embroidery sometimes composing the crown, and long trails of roses rests the ornaments.

Jet and straw are largely combined, and quantities of oxydized metal appear in the form of pearls, buckles, chains and other articles.

THE SEINE.

The city is full of "commercial tourists" otherwise called "drummers."

There are many costly and very useful books in the hands of persons in this city who ought to return them, according to a special report of the State Librarian. The rule is that they be retained not more than ten days. They are needed for reference.

Kid Glove Market.

The ordinary or one buttoned glove is $1.65 per pair. Two buttons, $2. Most of the two-button gloves are embroidered in white, in delicate Greek designs, with seed stitch. Three button gloves, which are usually worn, are $2.50; four buttons $2.75; and six buttons, $3.25. The long glove of undressed kid, finished inside, the wrist fastened with three buttons, it is said, will be the favorite glove for walking or demi-toilet. The colors are buff, drab, gray, and ashes of rose in desirable shades. The price of those in two buttons is $1.75; three buttons $2; four buttons $2.25; and the long close ones, which equal the six button glove in length, are $2.25.

Children's gloves come in the choicest kid, finished with extreme care, at $1.15 for the smallest size, $1.50 for those in double-stitched dogskin, which are the most durable of all gloves while misses' sizes are $1.85 and $2. The gloves for boys in a variety of colors, and that are worn at dancing-school, church and theatre.

"It is very difficult, since the repeal of the money act, to obtain information of frauds on the revenue; and, in my opinion, unless it is re-enacted, blockading will increase to an alarming extent during the approaching tobacco season, despite the best efforts of the officers."

The above is the closing sentence of a letter from Long Pure, the superintendent of internal revenue in this State. Don't the gentle of the tweed tick for the pickings and stealings.—Winston Sentinel.

Conversation Last Sunday night the Methodist Church was crowded to hear the Rev. J. Canfield. He had gotten well into his subject, and everything was quiet when the alarm of fire was given; men, women and children rushing to the door, jumping out at windows, falling over benches; ladies screaming, children crying created an excitement that can be better imagined than described.—Fur Bee Herald.

It Will Interest the Lawyers

To know the legal meaning of the word "either" was gravely argued in an English Court of Chancery the other day. A certain testator left property, the disposition of which was affected by "the death of either" of two persons. One lawyer insisted that "either" meant both, and in support of this view he quoted Richardson, Webster, Chaucer, Dryden, Southey, the story of the Crucifixion, and a passage from Revelations. The Judge suggested that there was an old song in "The Beggar's Opera" which took the other view: "How happy could I be with either, were t'other dear charmer away." In pronouncing judgment, the court ruled that "either" meant one of two, and did not mean "both." It might have that meaning occasionally in poets, but never in a Court of Chancery.

Valuable Improvements.

When Mr. R. S. Tucker built his house, on Hillsboro' street, some ten or twelve years ago he had water forced to all parts of it by means of a pump worked by hand. After the war, however, he found he could not obtain manual labor which would not be unreliable and, therefore, resort was had back again to the old bucket system. Then he concluded, as there was a nice little stream close by, fed from six or seven different springs, he would utilize them all, if he could, and for this purpose he bought the land on both sides of the branch and then a Douglas ram which he placed in position nine feet below the reception tank, connected by a 2 1-2 inch pipe 76 feet long (9 feet fall) and the water which passes through this pipe to the ram is the motive power for the ram. The water which passes from the ram to the house travels a distance of 2,125 feet and then ascends, perpendicularly, 125 feet into a reservoir on top of the house. The reservoir will contain 700 gallons. The supply can be kept up at the rate of 1 gallon a minute. The surplus water passes off into the barn yard, where it is utilized, and in addition Mr. Tucker is preparing for a fountain in his yard. He contemplates having a cistern in the yard to catch that which is waste water, and that will be able to contain 5,000 gallons. In case of fire this cistern will be of great service to his neighbors as well as himself. Mr. Tucker says he has no objection to showing the improvement to any one who is interested in supplying their premises or the city with water.

Important Letter.

The following was received by Gov. Caldwell, yesterday, from Gov. Smith, of Georgia. It is a copy of a letter sent to the Governors of all the other States of the South:

To His Excellency Hon. Tod R. Caldwell Governor of North Carolina:

DEAR SIR:—I had the honor, in November last, of calling the attention of the Governors of many of the States to the importance of the Atlantic and Great Western Canal. By this work it is proposed to connect the Tennessee River, and through that river the entire system of inland navigation of the West with the Atlantic ocean at Savannah and Brunswick, Georgia. I then invited the Governors of many of the Western States to meet at Atlanta, for the purpose of considering and discussing the steps to be taken for the accomplishment of this grand enterprise. Owing to unforseen circumstances, however, that meeting was unavoidably postponed.

Since then the interest felt in Congress, and among the people generally, in increasing the means of cheap and easy communication by water, between the great producing and consuming sections of the country, has deepened and widened.

In my judgment the time has come for a meeting, such as the one mentioned, in order that the advantages of the proposed enterprise may be more thoroughly discussed and understood and some definite plan of action for its accomplishment matured.

My object in addressing you this communication is to earnestly and cordially invite you to unite in a convention of the Governors of the southern, western and northwestern States, to be held for the purpose mentioned, at Atlanta, Ga., on the 20th day of May next.

As the proposed canal will run in most of its length through this State, it would seem proper for me as the Executive thereof to take the initiative in this matter.

The advantages to result from the enterprise under consideration are so obvious that a mere reference to them here is deemed all that is necessary. It is in fact the only line of water communication between the Atlantic and the west, which can be constructed at a reasonable cost, and which would be uninstructed at all seasons of the year.

The best means for securing cheap transportation to meet the rapidly developing resources of the country is a question which should engage the thoughtful attention of statesmen. It is moreover my earnest desire that citizens of other States occupying official positions should visit our State, examine for themselves the facilities that can be afforded for this great resource of trade, and at the same time enjoy the hospitality of our people. Such a visit would in my opinion conduce in no small degree to a complete restoration of harmony and good feeling between all sections of our common country.

If it should not suit your convenience to be present in person at the Convention mentioned, may I ask that your Excellency will do us the honor to send such a delegation thereto as will represent your own wishes and the interests of your State.

I enclose herewith a copy of the report submitted to Congress by the Committee on Commerce, to which I would respectfully invite your earnest attention.

Hoping to receive an early and favorable response to this communication,

I am your Excellency's ob't serv't,

JAMES H. SMITH.

OUR CONFEDERATE DEAD.

Organization and Objects of the Ladies' Memorial Association—Preparations for the next Annual Meeting on Monday.

The Ladies' Memorial Association was organized May 23, 1866. Its object is to look after and care for the graves of all the Confederate soldiers whose remains repose within the city limits or in Wake county. Mr. Henry Mordecai having presented the association with two and a half acres of land for a cemetery it was prepared for that purpose in the Spring of 1867, when the remains of five hundred and forty-eight Confederates were removed and interred there.

By mutual consent Raleigh and Wilmington agreed and co-operated to remove all the North Carolina Confederate dead from about Gettysburg and one hundred and thirty five were so removed. This was done by the aid of subscriptions from Hillsboro', Greensboro' (Eclectic Society), Louisburg and elsewhere.

The monument which has been erected in the cemetery to our hero dead cost $2,200. It is both a sad emblem and a talisman. The contributions for its erection were made by the bereaved and others in this city and vicinity. And added to this there was a generous donation from the kind people of Baltimore.

The next annual meeting of the Ladies Memorial Association will be held in this city on Monday next as will be seen by an advertisement in another part of to-day's SENTINEL.

WENT UNDER.—A certain noble gentleman, noted alike for honesty, integrity and indefatigability, who lives just across the river, came to Mr. Wm. Stanbuck's Ferry, on last Saturday with a four horse wagon loaded with cotton, and in attempting to cross during the high wind, the flat sunk with him, together with his load of cotton, mules and saddle horse. It was with the greatest difficulty that he succeeded in reaching the shore.—Pee Dee Herald.

A WANT NEVER BEFORE SUPPLIED.

In regions where Liver complaint and Bilious disease prevail to so great an extent, there has long been felt the need of a medicine that would act specifically on the Liver, restoring it to its normal functions, and at the same time be safe from after effects, and yet so simple that it may be used by any one. It is now admitted by all that DR. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS supply this want. They are now prescribed by the most eminent Physicians throughout the whole South.

DR. TUTT'S EXPECTORANT.

The properties of this elegant preparation are demulcent, nutritive, balsamic, healing and soothing. It braces the nervous system and produces pleasant and refreshing sleep. It exhilarates and relieves gloominess and depression. It is the most valuable Lung Balsam ever offered to sufferers from Pulmonary diseases.

THE LAWS OF HEALTH.

It is useless for State Legislatures to pass laws for the preservation of the public health, if the great law of self-preservation, which depends for its enforcement upon the will of the individual, is suffered to remain a dead letter. There is scarcely an adult member of the community, of either sex, in this country, who has not seen the testimony in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, furnished over their own signatures by persons of acknowledged eminence in science, literature, art, commerce, and every department of business and professional life. These witnesses have declared in the most explicit terms that the preparation is a safeguard against epidemics, a sovereign remedy for dyspepsia, a valuable anti-bilious medicine, a promoter of appetite, a genial and harmless stimulant, a good acclimating medicine, a strengthener of the nerves, a general invigorant, a protection against the deleterious effects of malaria and impure water, and that it imparts a degree of vigor and activity to the vital forces which is not communicated by any other of the tonics and stomachics in use. Under these circumstances the self-preservative law of nature should teach every rational person, who, either by reason of inherent debility or in consequence of exposure to unwholesome influences, is in peril of losing the greatest of all temporal blessings, health, the importance of using the Bitters as a defensive medicine. Dyspeptics who neglect to give it a trial are simply their own enemies. It is guaranteed to cure indigestion in all its forms, and the bilious and nervous will find nothing in the whole range of offered and proprietary medicines which will afford them the same relief.
