NORTH CAROLINA.

The Charlotte Observer states that Hon. Horatio Seymour and lady arrived in Charlotte on Friday evening but passed on north by the first train.

WHO IS HE?—The Charlottee Observer says that United States Deputy Marshal Shavender, of Raleigh, had his leg broken by being thrown from his horse near Cherryville, Gaston county, on Thursday last. The Observer once made a mistake by calling Shavender (who ever he is,) "Shaffer, of Raleigh." Wonder if the Observer is not now mistaking Shaffer for Shavender? Our "devil" says there is such luck.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.—The Wilmington Star of the 6th says: Hon. William Cullen Bryant, the great poet and journalist, with his family, was expected in Wilmington on Saturday night last, and that it was his purpose to make a short stay in that city. He did not arrive however. Mr. Bryant has been on a visit south and is on his way home.

The same paper says that Hon. S. S. Cox, also of New York, was expected in Wilmington on Sunday, he having engaged rooms at the Purcell House.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—An accident which was rather serious in its consequences, occurred about four miles from this city, yesterday afternoon. A woman, whose name we could not learn, and who had been afflicted with a cancer, had been in this place for some time under the treatment of Dr. Lindley. She started to her home yesterday afternoon in a buggy, having with her a young child. When on the way, the horse took fright at some object and ran off, throwing both the woman and child from the buggy. The former had a leg or arm broken, and sustained other injuries; the head of the child struck against one of the wheels of the buggy, and was seriously injured. The woman, we understand is a resident of Stanley county.—Charlotte Observer.

SUDDEN DEATHS.—Yesterday afternoon says the Charlotte Observer, the body of a young man named Priester, of Allendale, S. C., arrived in this city from Shelby. A letter received by Col. John L. Brown, of this city, states that the young man died very suddenly on Friday, of congestion of the brain, but there is every reason to believe the disease to be the dreadful meningitis, which is so fatal in its character. Another young man, Mr. McGowan, of Lawrence county, S. C., also died on Friday night, and will be buried to-day in Shelby. Last accounts brought down on the 5 p. m., Lincoln train yesterday, report a son of Dr. Turner, and others to be affected with the same disease. Great excitement prevails in Shelby, and the students of Dr. Turner's school are leaving in numbers. Three arrived in Charlotte yesterday afternoon, and more will come Monday. Both of the young men who died were students of Dr. Turner's school.

P. S.—Since the above was written, the Shelby Banner, which was printed yesterday morning, has come to hand. From it we extract the following on this subject:

"This disease is undoubtedly meningitis, but the physicians here seem to know but little, if anything about it. At a council held last night, it was determined to send to Lincolnton for a physician who does understand it. One of Dr. Turner's sons, and others, are effected with the same disease.

"We learn that many of the students will leave to-day on account of it."

Assault.

Some portion of the community was startled, yesterday, by an announcement of fighting near Betts, Vaughn & Allen's carpenter shop. The Chief of Police went down to see what had occurred. He found a man had been seriously cut and as far as he could learn, at that time, there were several colored people living in one room and had got into a quarrel and one had pushed the other out because he did not want him to remain living with him in that room longer. A quarrel ensuing a fight occurred when Carey Saunders cut Ed. Riddick several times. Numerous witnesses appeared. Some of the wounds are very serious. The Chief traced Saunders to a woods and caught him. Saunders was committed in default of bail.

Re-cuse Hose No. 1.

The meeting was called to order by Director Blake.

After roll call and the minutes of last meeting read and approved, the committee on uniform reported and submitted to the Company that they adopt the same uniform as they have with this alteration in the shirt, that it be changed in trimmings—red for white. The shirt will be solid blue trimed with red instead of white. The report of the Committee was adopted, and on motion, a meeting was called for Friday night when a shirt will be at the Hall for the inspection of the Company.

The petitions of C. A. Sherwood, Sam'l Merrill and William Stillman were presented and they elected active members.

The meeting adjourned to Friday next

DIVINE SERVICES SUNDAY.

In Dr. Mason's church (Episcopal) the sermon was on the subject of when and how to bestow alms and aid benevolent and religious enterprises and was very effective.

Rev. Father McNamara, in St. John's Catholic church on Sunday, delivered two discourses appropriate to Passion Sunday and in the morning blessed and distributed palm.

In the evening, at the Baptist church, the sermon was on discouragements and encouragements of ministers of the gospel. In the course of his sermon Rev. Dr. Pritchard referred to the impressive historical incident where President Jackson repulsed a minister of the gospel who sought to become a Minister Plenipotentiary by saying: "You were ordained, sir, for a higher calling."

MORAL TRAINING.

Episcopal Church Sunday and Parochial Schools.

The Episcopal church Sunday School in this city was reorganized after the war, and now has about one hundred and twenty scholars with an average attendance of ninety. There is in connection with this Sunday School, a parochial or day school, where all the children who attend the Sunday School, are very thoroughly taught in secular studies, free of charge. This latter school is supported from a fund left by Dr. Watson to Christ Church.

There are about four hundred books in the Library.

The Young Christian Soldier, in charge of Rev. A. T. Twing, Bible house, New York city, and with Miss Susan L. Emery as Associate Editor, is the paper issued to the Sunday School pupils here. It always contains highly edifying reading matter.

The following are the officers and teachers:

W. E. Anderson, Superintendent.

R. H. Battle, Jr., Assistant Superintendent.

Teachers—Miss Annie Bryan, Miss Isabel Bryan, Mr. A. P. C. Bryan, Miss Gales, Miss Mallett, Miss Mason, Miss Moore, Mr. S. G. Ryan, Mrs. Ryan, Mr. Syme and Miss Syme.

MASONIC.

Interesting Ceremonies Sunday.

There were the usual Masonic ceremonies Sunday, over the grave of Thomas Barker, near Lashley's Cross Roads, on the line of the Chatham railroad. A train left here at five minutes past nine a. m., with about two hundred and thirty persons on board, and reached the station, whence the passengers walked about a mile and a half to the scene of the services, at half past ten o'clock. There were a few conveyances at the station, that were well loaded. There were 110 Masons in line. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Johnson Olive Baptist, of Apex. A collection was taken up after the ceremonies and an address had been delivered by Mr. Biddle of this city, for the benefit of the Orphan Asylum at Oxford. The train that left returned about ten p. m. Another train, with about 100 persons on board came down from Sanford to the station where the Masons and others proceeded to the ceremonies. At least five hundred persons were on the ground.

THE SEINE.

Sheriff Lee sold five parcels of land for debt, yesterday, and three for taxes.

Temperance lecturer, J. J. Hickman, who was recently in this city, is in Georgia.

During the whole of this week the usual services will take place in the Catholic church.

The Citizen's Cornet Band serenaded last night, George T. Stronach, Esq., and several others.

Go and put down your name for a Lock Box at the postoffice. Let us have all the city improvements.

Previous to the Masonic ceremonies near Lashley's Cross Roads, on Sunday, there were divine services over the grave of Mrs. Dupree.

An announcement was made, on Sunday, by Rev. Dr. Mason as to the services which will be held in Christ Church next Friday morning and afternoon.

Gov. Caldwell has consented to a partial exchange of circuits between Judges Albertson and Watts for the holding of court in Wake, Johnson and Granville.

A collection will be taken up next Sunday, in Christ's Episcopal church, for the benefit of the Domestic Missions of the Episcopal church generally in the United States.

Fans, or those things for brushing the heat away with, were in great demand in the churches on Sunday, and in some instances were of an improvised character. The SENTINEL came in under the latter in one of the churches.

It is not the province of newspapers to dictate to courts or vice versa, but it does seem Judge Albertson ought to have called the attention of the grand jury to the unhealthy character of the very court room which he delivered his charge.

According to the City Tax Collector's records, as was furnished, off hand, on requisition, yesterday, there are eleven hundred and fifty receipts made out for the collection of taxes in this city. Nine hundred and fifty prove collectable. The remainder, generally, are non-collectable and are poll-tax.

Messrs. Jno. C. Blake and Henry Mahler drove out last evening. Coming in front of the postoffice, their thoroughbred ran breast on a tree, in which position he had himself and the tree between the shafts. He then began to climb the tree. Mr. Mahler alighted, and in time the good animal was got all right again.

A customer, among numerous others, who were looking at shoes in Heartt's, yesterday, having made a purchase, picked up one of his old boots and perpetrated the following: "Mr. Heartt, I will read you a moral with this old boot. It is like an intellectual man who is not good. The upper is all right, but the sole is gone."

Typographical Union No. 54, M. V. B. Gilbert, President, held a stated meeting in the Mayor's Office on Saturday night. Routine business was transacted, J. H. Lee initiated, and a committee appointed to select a suitable and convenient place for holding the next annual pic-nic, under the auspices of the Union, on the 4th of July proximo.

There will be a special meeting of the Finance Board of the Baptist church, to-morrow evening in the pastor's study, according to an announcement made by Rev. Dr. Pritchard on Sunday night. He said: "I am requested by the chairman of that committee to call for the prompt attendance of every member of the Board." The Board consists of the Finance committee, and Board of Deacons, of the church.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

Meeting City Commissioners Last Night.

An adjourned meeting of the City Commissioners was held last evening.

Some of the Commissioners more loudly than wisely, indulged in expressions inconsistant with the interests of governing a city.

Ten minutes after eight there were eight persons within the bar of the common council not all of whom, by any means, were members of the council.

At fifteen minutes past eight there were six within the bar where the Commissioners ought to sit.

Eight-thirty having having arrived the Commissioners met, Messrs. Prairie, Gorman, Stronach, Ellison and Johnson present.

Mr. P. F. Pescud made a statement in regard to the insurance of the hall.

The improvement of North street was called up.

Mr. Prairie expressed his views. He thought if the Commissioners yielded to this man or that the result would be the city would not accomplish anything practically for its improvement in a manner leading to its practical advantage.

A communication was received from Robert Gorman relative to a tree in the old cemetery that threatens to avalanche his property.

One of the Commissioners having bought a Boston boot instead of a Philadelphia one at Heartt's had to take it off.

The improvement of Edenton street was discussed.

Adjourned until next Monday night.

WAKE SUPERIOR COURT.

[BEFORE HIS HONOR JUDGE ALBERTSON.]

The Spring term of the Superior Court for this county commenced yesterday morning, Judge J. W. Albertson presiding.

The names of those who had been empannelled as jurymen were called. His Honor said:

"I hope no one who has been empannelled as a juryman will present any frivolous excuse in order to be relieved from serving. I do not generally swear those who have been empannelled as jurymen and who have excuses to give. I expect every man who has an excuse to present has honor enough to tell the truth."

Subsequently His Honor was compelled to say: "This is not like an ordinary concourse of people to hear a stump speech at a political meeting, or anything of that sort. We are entrusted with the transaction of people's business here, and I hope there will be no more of that loud whispering, which is more annoying, and certainly as disrespectful, as if loud talking was indulged in. This is a business assemblage, and not one for the gratification of curiosity."

Several who had been empannelled as jurymen were absent and two or three were excused because their domestic relations were about to be increased. And one man was excused because he had "the standing rheumatism." He could not sit down; had to stand up to eat his meals.

The following are the names of the grand jurymen:

J. R. Rogers, Griffin Stewart, Anderson Ferguson, J. T. Colclough, Basquer McCullers, Thomas Bradford, Talbot Ligon, Wm. Gant, Albert Pettiford, D. H. Gardner, Stephen Holloway, Lemon Hinton, T. R. Rollins, J. W. Collins, John Pierce.

JUDGE ALBERTSON'S CHARGE.

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury: You have been called together from the different sections of your county and are entrusted with business of vast importance so far as society is concerned. You are not mere, ordinary citizens to-day. In some respects, gentlemen, you are judges and arbiters of the liberty of your fellow-citizens; and as impartiality, and a strict sense of justice, should characterize a Judge under all circumstances, so, I hope, you have come here, to-day, able to lift yourselves to that lofty plane. I hope each one of you has come prepared to act the part of a Judge in the way that becomes a Judge, and that you will enforce justice and maintain truth. The oath which you have taken to-day, gentlemen of the jury, places you above (if you really and honestly intend to carry it out) the ordinary weaknesses and passions of men when they are turned loose into society. You are far above that plane to-day. You are divested, to-day—if you fully appreciate your duties as you ought to do—of the ordinary passions and feelings which prevail and enter into business transactions out doors every day. You are sworn to do your duty impartially as judges; as men who can be entrusted with the discharge of a public duty in which the lives and fortunes of your fellow-citizens are at stake. You cannot be influenced by favor, affection, good-will, malice, anger nor prejudice. You are not allowed in the transactions of your business to look at the connections of any man. Your eyes are bandaged and it is necessary to strike your fellow-man you must be blind as to where the blow falls. You are in effect the embodiment of the allegory of Justice whose eyes are bandaged and whose scales are evenly poised. And no man who cannot divest himself of prejudice and passion, under all circumstances, as a grand juror, is fit to be one; and is unfit to pass upon the rights of his fellow-man. If he thinks he cannot do that, he is unfit to be entrusted with the lives and fortunes of his fellow-citizens. And you to-day, and all succeeding grand juries, come here not for the purpose of screening any one however dear to you. The laws must be enforced. And you, yourselves, if you knowingly screen any one who has violated the law, are guilty of perjury and are unfit to discharge the trust committed to your care. I trust and I believe, gentlemen of the jury, as a general thing that jurors do endeavor to do the best thing in their power. It is very easy to discharge any duty when there is nothing in the way. Anybody will do that even without an oath. But here comes the test for a grand juror: suppose it is your brother who has been guilty of or is accused of a heinous crime! Are you prepared to make diligent inquiry and act accordingly? Can you rise to the elevated plane of abnegation? It is certainly your duty that you should. And the man who cannot do it ought to retire from the jury box at once. He is unfit to be entrusted with the lives and fortunes of his fellow-citizens. When the grand juror is fully prepared to discharge the duty devolving upon him he finds it is a solemn duty he has to perform. It is one involving the exercise of far loftier powers than those that ordinarily devolve upon him. And when you go into that jury box, with that solemn obligation resting upon you, you ought to feel yourselves separated from the rest of your fellow citizens and dedicated to a special work; dedicated for the time being to the enforcement of absolute justice. It is not a pleasant duty, gentlemen of the jury, to be a spy upon the doings of your fellow-man. Indeed it is an exceedingly unpleasant duty. It is one that is odious. It is one that clings to the schoolboy even through his whole life, and one that no one would take upon himself if he could possibly avoid it. Yet, gentlemen of the jury, this is exactly what you are. You are inquisitors, to inquire into the conduct of your fellow-man, so far as the criminal law is concerned; so far as their offences extend against the criminal statutes of the State. And you must true presentment make of all such matters and things as may come before you. While it is a duty that some of you would voluntarily assume, and while it would be odious for you to voluntarily assume it, it is only what the law exacts of you. It reposes a fearful responsibility upon you—that you will discharge your duty faithfully; and it is one, gentlemen of the jury, you cannot shirk. It is an allegation that is cast upon you by the law itself and in its discharge there is no odium. You are officers of the law; a bulwark of the citizen's liberty. [The remainder of the Judge's charge, which was quite lengthy, and phonographically reported for the SENTINEL, and that will appear in part probably to-morrow (it being excluded to-day for want of space, the advertisements of the SENTINEL, that are constantly and rapidly increasing, affecting the news columns so that much interesting news-matter has to be excluded each day.) was devoted to expounding the more important features of the newest laws; and incidentally His Honor laid great stress on the fact the grand jury ought to present, under indictment all overseers who did not discharge their duty in keeping the roads in order and all persons around whose property there were not fences according to what the law required them have there.]

Mark Williams was sworn as an officer to attend the grand jury.

In a considerable number of cases the recognizances were forfeited.

Cal Wagner's Minstrels.

This interesting company will exhibit in Tucker Hall to-morrow evening. It is said of it that notwithstanding the Lenten season it has been well patronized everywhere in the South it has went. "We believe this is about the only minstrel troupe now travelling whose genuine merit is such as to triumph over all prepossessions and prejudices and compel the admiration and patronage of the most cultivated and refined audience," is what the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser says.

CORRECT THE STOMACH.

It is a well ascertained though logical fact that the cause of most of the ills that afflict humanity is a deranged condition of the stomach and digestive organs. Regulate these and you will control the principal maladies. As a positive and sure cure in its remedy as safe and sure as DR. TUTT'S V. GETABLE LIVER PILLS.

AVOID CONSUMPTION.

No enemy to the human race is more to be dreaded than that fatal disease, as it baffles the skill of physicians. Consumption in its advanced stages. The only hope of all is to guard against its first advances. This may be done by the timely use of DR. TUTT'S RENOVATING EXPECTORANT.
