

THE SENTINEL.

[From Little's Living Age.]
TWILIGHT DREAM.

VERSE BY A YOUNG LADY OF LOUISVILLE
FOURTEEN YEARS OLD.

The sun hangs low in the western sky,
And each fiery cloud that floats by,
Clad in robes of amber light;
Blushing wots to each good night;
Hushed are the waves of day.

Over the fairy scene now softly beams,
The witching light that haunts our dreams,
The light that gilds each stormy eve;
That dares you magic shore to leave—
'Tis surely caught from Heaven.

The day is done. The twilight gray
Has closed o'er all mirthful strife;
And shadows play where sorly sleepeth
The great, wild, restless world.

And now there comes the magic hour,
When, one by one, the stars, like flowers,
Burst out in bloom on the sky
And lave our thoughts and dreams on high,
Away from earth to Heaven.

In such an hour, on such an eve,
Our wayward thoughts delight to weave
A chain that reaches into Heaven,
Of grateful praise that He hath given
The twilight hour for dreams.

VIRGINIA.

Mr. Joseph Rothgeb, seventy-three years of age, who resided about four miles from Lure, Page county, committed suicide on Thursday of last week by shooting himself with a pistol.

A correspondent of the Dispatch, writing from Franklin county on the 30th of April, says that all the fruit west of the Blue Ridge was killed by the recent cold "snap."

There are 1,100 men at work on the Valley Railroad on the twenty-six miles between Harrisonburg and Staunton, and this part of the road is expected to be finished by the first of August.

The batteries that were thrown upon the Chatham estate, opposite Fredericksburg, by the Federal army, are rapidly disappearing, a force having been engaged this week in razing them.

A magnificent service of silver has been presented to Judge John J. Cochran, for many years President of the Farmers and Merchants' Bank of Charlottesville, by the board of directors.

The Fredericksburg Star says: A simple merchant by the name of Joseph Adlesdorf, from Baltimore, was arrested in town on Tuesday night. He was taken before Mayor Berry Wednesday morning, and by his side on to the grand jury for indictment.

Staunton Findicator: Capt. Sedley, late of the British Navy, has purchased the fine farm of the late C. S. Gay, situated on the edge of town, for $25,000, and several English gentlemen have been over from Charlottesville to look at farms in the same neighborhood.

Charlottesville Chronicle: Last night an unusual wedding took place in Staunton, being the union, at Temperance Hall, on Augusta street, of Mr. Wm. Sowens, and Miss Lizzie Dooms, both members of the order of Good Templars. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. S. Bowman, of Harrisburg, in the presence of a large number of Good Templars, present by invitation.

PERSONAL.

Bismarck is fifty-eight years old.
Bismarck pronounces his name so that it rhymes with "Bailey."

Felix Pyat, the condemned Communist, is the hero of a literary eulogy in London.

A soldier of the war of 1812, named Estes, died recently at Savoy, Mass., at the age of eighty-eight. He was an eccentric man, who never applied for a pension and never rode upon a railroad in his life, and when elected to the legislature declined to serve.

S. T. Taylor, of Bloomington, Indiana, lost his hold by fire, and people generally suspected him of incendiarism. The master so preyed on his mind that he committed suicide, leaving a note protesting the incorrectness of public suspicions.

Maria Politi, formerly lady of honor to Queen Isabella of Spain, has been condemned to imprisonment for theft in Rome. Her crime was the abstraction of gems from the jewelry of her friends, and their replacement with paste imitations.

The great equestrian statue of General Sir J. Ostram, by Mr. Foley, is nearly finished, and is intended ultimately for the Esplanade, Calcutta, where the statue of Lord Hastings, by the same sculptor, now stands. The statue of General Ostram, when finished, is to be temporarily placed on the open space in Waterloo Place, London, for exhibition.

POSTAGE AND DEDITION.—Third Assistant Postmaster-General Barber recently received a letter asking whether postal cards containing notices of assessment, etc., which have been once properly transmitted through the mails, and the stamp thereon cancelled, can, after their being returned to the sender in a stamped envelope with the remittance, be transmitted to the person originally addressed with the word "paid" stamped or endorsed thereon, or placing upon the card a one-cent adhesive stamp.

The Postmaster-General to day decided that such cards can be so transmitted upon payment of the required postage of one cent each. This decision will be largely scaled by Masonic and other associations in the collection of dues and assessments.

The Postmaster-General to day decided that postmasters are not authorized to sell postal-cards to any person, in large quantities or small, for more or less than one cent each. For discount, therefore, can be allowed to purchasers or agents who desire to keep the cards on hand for sale to the public.

ORIGIN OF GRANADES.—It appears that in 1853 a clerk in the Agricultural Department at Washington named Kelly was dispatched upon a mission to Georgia and South Carolina to investigate the condition of the country people suffering from the devastation of the war, with instructions to report what measures of relief could be extended to them. Subsequently, whilst at home, in his own State of Minnesota, he was "describing the troubles of the farmers and planters, when a bystander remarked, 'What a pity it is that the agriculturists of the country cannot be bound together for their self-protection.' This observation set the people who heard it to thinking. Kelly consulted with some friends, a man was recruited, and the consequence was the organization of the first group of the Ku Klux, Minnesota, in the autumn year.

From that insignificant beginning this order, which is undeniably destined to exert a prominent part in the future history of the nation, has grown to its present proportions.
