The last sensation—Mad dogs.
The commencement exercises at the Peace Institute begin this morning at 10 o'clock.

Next Monday of Wake Superior Court will be devoted to litigation cases on the State docket.

The quantity of ice consumed in the city yesterday was largely in excess of that of any day since the "heated term" set in.

Rev. W. B. Wetmore, Secretary of the Supreme Council, will deliver a Temperance address at Metropolitan Hall this evening at 6:30 o'clock.

We would again remind the reader of the approaching Ladies' Bazaar at Tucker Hall, on Thursday night. It promises to be the most magnificent thing of the kind ever offered to the citizens of Raleigh.

The commencement exercises of Wake Forest College commenced yesterday and will continue to-day, to-morrow and to-morrow evening.

Wake County Radical Nominating Convention

The Radicals of Wake county met in convention in this city yesterday, for the purpose of nominating a candidate to fill the vacancy in the Legislature...

The meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock by that bright and shining light, Tim Lee, and on his motion, Stewart Ellison, esq., was called to preside over the deliberations of the august assembly.

Logan Harris and Dr. Banks were appointed tellers. Just about this stage of the proceedings Richardson's redoubt began to operate on him heavily.

All the candidates withdrew except Messrs. Argo, King and Gilbert. Three ballots were had without an election.

On the fourth ballot Mr. King withdrew and requested his friends to vote for Mr. Gilbert. The vote was then taken and resulted in the nomination of Mr. Gilbert.

Mr. Gilbert being loudly called for, came forward and returned his thanks for the high honor conferred upon him and said this was the happiest moment of his life.

The convention adjourned amidst deafening cries of "Argo!"

HABEAS CORPUS

Patrick and Kate Kerrigan vs. Father McNamara.
First witness J. N. Bunting, clerk of the court.

I found out Mr. Kerrigan's four children to Father McNamara. I did so at the instance of Sheriff Lee and the priest, and without giving notice to the parents.

Mr. Kerrigan was the next witness. On Monday four weeks ago I left home for Wilmington to look after my sick husband, leaving my children in the care of Betty Johnson.

How old is the youngest child? A year old last October. The eldest is nine years old. I left for the children seven dollars' worth of provisions, enough for them two weeks, as long as I expected to stay.

What is the business of your husband? He is a tinker and mends umbrellas. Does he aid you in providing for your family? He does.

Is he given to drinking? He is, sir, and getting drunk. The first week he left home he sent me $10, the second he sent me $25, and the third week I went to see him.

What is your church? I was raised in the Catholic church, and am a member of that church.

Have you ever done anything for the support of the church and the priest? My husband was once drunk and the priest made him take the temperance oath and he put his name down for five dollars, and I paid the priest the five dollars.

Did the priest baptize you baby? He did, and I paid him two dollars for it. Can you support your children? I can and do so ever if my husband did not help me.

Cross-examined by Mr. Galling. I drink wine and beer sometimes. I do not get drunk. I was never drunk to expose myself and persons indelicately to the view of my children coffee, sugar, bacon, straw, berries and cake.

Patrick Kerrigan introduced. Are you the father of the children in dispute? I reckon I am the one.

Did you acknowledge getting drunk but said you was capable of taking care of your children, and was very often from home working at his trade. He was a tinker. He mended umbrellas and had made $14 a day at that business. He traveled about and had mended umbrellas for the lawyers.

Patience's attorney inquired if he ever mended an umbrella for His Honor the Judge? I can't say, but it is like thought.

Did you know Mr. Kerrigan and Mrs. Kerrigan were an industrious, hard working woman, and always provided for her family about as people in her condition of life are provided for?

Did you know Mr. Kerrigan was a tinker and mended umbrellas, and was very often from home working at his trade. He was a tinker. He mended umbrellas and had made $14 a day at that business. He traveled about and had mended umbrellas for the lawyers.

Brook Jail.—A negro named Leavelle broke jail last Friday night. He and some four others had made a hole in the wall and a rope out of their blankets. Leavelle was descending when the alarm was given and the game stopped for the others.—Charlotte Democrat.

The Charlotte Observer says: The ice factory building is approaching a state of completion, under the energetic management of Dr. C. J. Fox. The steam engine has been put up, and machinery installed at a very low price will soon be had.

Our Section.—Our Albany correspondent writes: We have visited twenty-one States within the last few months, including the fine grain region of the West, and that the belt of up-country in North and South Carolina and Georgia was superior to all that he had seen. He said that we could live cheaper and easier, and enjoy more of the comforts of life, than any people in the United States. He saw many who had moved from the north, and not one had betrayed his condition.—Charlotte Home.

New Enterprises.—We are pleased to learn that Mr. Philip S. Whitaker and his sons Thomas and John, are erecting a factory near Charlotte, in the place known as the Park & Well's Mills, for making specks, hals and fillets. They have purchased the best and most improved machinery to be found in the United States, and intend to make it to the advantage of carriage, buggy and wagon manufacturers to buy hals, fillets and specks here instead of sending North for such articles. They have a machine that will turn out thirty hals a hour from the rough wood. We are glad to learn that our friend, R. B. Gentry, is running his hals and hals factory in this city, successfully. There is want of hals, and how any other sort of hals, should give him an order, or not almost any sort of wood-work in his line. His work is well finished and will give satisfaction.—Char. Democrat.
