Refer to Necessary.

Every day we see editorials of the SENTINEL copied without credit. We ask those guilty of such unprofessional conduct if there is not room for reform? We certainly do not feel inclined to continue to exchange with papers that treat us in that way.

Soldier.

The Editor is sick at home in Hillsboro, and the Associate will probably be in Oxford when this is placed before the reader. He will, however, be heard from daily in the editorial columns, and possibly in the local. He will soon return to his post.

A Bad Case.

Bench White, a white woman, and a black colored man, who were convicted on Thursday of fornication and adultery, and who were committed to jail to await the sentence of the court, were yesterday discharged on the payment of $20 fine and costs, which in all amounted to about $100.

New Law Firm.

We direct attention to the card of the new law firm of Messrs. Bailey & McCorkle, to be found in another column. These gentlemen (and high in the legal profession, and are too well known to the public to require an extended notice at our hands. They practice in all the courts, State and Federal.

Personal.

Mr. E. N. Erickson, who for ten years has held a responsible position with the Advertising Agency of Messrs. Pescher & Co., of New York, has now become managing partner in that house. His thorough knowledge of the business, and his acquaintance with both advertisers and publishers, will make the connection a pleasing one to all concerned.

An Alleged Outrage.

Dickey Johnson, col., who resides twenty-one miles from Raleigh, came to the city yesterday and had a warrant issued for the arrest of a white man by the name of Pink Mason, who she alleges followed her into her own cotton patch and beat her in the most unbecoming manner with a bar of iron, without the slightest provocation. Dickey is 65 years of age, and bears marks of having received very rough treatment.

Supreme Court.

The following cases from the 9th district were argued:

W. P. Love & Co., vs. G. W. Young et al., from Cleveland. Busbee & Busbee for plaintiff and W. P. Ryman.

J. A. Goldsmith & Co., vs. L. Lipshutz et al., from Gaston. Vance and Shipp for plaintiffs, and Bynum and Schneek for defendants.

Joe L. Carson, adm., vs. Columbus Mills, surviving partner, de, from Rutherford. Hargrove, Argo & Harris for plaintiffs, and W. P. Bynum for defendants. Adjourned to 10 o'clock to-day.

St. John's Day.

We heard the same Mason would send us a history of the day's proceedings at Oxford, but some has come. We were perfectly willing to give up a column or two to the memory of the Orphan Home, and expected that some one who was interested in its success would take the trouble to prepare an account of the celebration of the 24th June. There are some gentlemen in Oxford whose pens are getting rusty and dull from disuse. It is high time they were dipping their quills.

The Chokers.

We notice that this fearful and breathing disease is slowly but steadily spreading. Here our city authorities take up steps to have the city thoroughly cleaned? Or do they think that as Raleigh is an island town, no sanitary precautions are necessary? If Nashville, Tenn., and other inland cities, are not free from its ravages, what can we promise ourselves? We insist that every one should be immediately engaged in the duty of having all back yards looking back, and every hole in the ground carefully examined and cleaned. If we make thorough preparation, and the dread monster should come, we would not have to approach counties with supplicants; if it does not come, we will have nothing to lose.

COMMENCEMENT AT WAKE FOREST COLLEGE.

Meeting of the Alumni Association—Speeches—Conferring Degrees—Incidents.

The exercises at Wake Forest College were continued on Wednesday evening, by a meeting of the ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

The following officers were chosen for the current year, Rev. F. H. Ivey, President; Charles H. Martin, Vice President; Prof. L. H. Mills, Secretary; and Prof. W. G. Summons, Treasurer.

Mr. A. J. Emerson, of Missouri, was elected Orator for 1874, and Rev. B. F. Manley, of North Carolina, was selected as alternate.

A committee was appointed to have the next anniversary distinguished by an Alumni Dinner and steps were taken looking to an increase of interest in the sessions of the society.

THURSDAY'S PROGRAM.

The first address of the day was made by Mr. Henry T. Trantham, of Kernshaw, S. C. who had chosen the above as his theme, came forward, and after overcoming some little embarrassment, proceeded to the discussion of his subject, and verified the adage that a "bad beginning makes a bad ending." We regret that we have not space for a synopsis of his address. It was well written and evinced talents of a high order.

THE PROLOGUE.

The German speech by Mr. J. J. Vann, of Hertford county, was highly complimented by those who could understand it. During its delivery we were forcibly reminded of our friend Heilmiller, who, no doubt, would have enjoyed it hugely. To us it was "all Dutch," and we will not attempt a report.

THE MILK OF HUMAN KINDNESS.

This subject was handled in a very lively and numerous manner by Mr. N. B. Canady, of Granville. In illustrating the disinterested kindness of the world, he cited the case of the modern politician, who believing that "money is the root of all evil," endeavors to remove the evil from the world by gathering the entire bulk of the gold into his own hands, and then, by the use of the printing press, to convert it into a paper medium. He spoke for fifteen minutes and was listened to with marked attention.

THE VALENTINE ADDRESS.

By Mr. R. T. Vann, of Hertford county, was the special gem of the occasion. An increased interest attached to this young man by reason of the fact that several years ago he lost both his arms. He is a young minister of fine preaching talents, and the ripest scholar of his class. The exceeding grace and tenderness of his address not only evoked good tears, but displayed such depths of feeling, and richness of affection as touched all hearts and moved the large audience to tears. He was very noble from recent illness, and at the close of his speech showed visible signs of exhaustion.

CONCLUDING REMARKS.

At the conclusion of the valedictory address, Dr. Wingate, President of the college, conferred the degree of Bachelor of Arts upon the following young gentlemen: W. O. McDowell, J. J. Vann and R. T. Vann. Upon the following the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy: N. B. Canady, A. R. Jones, E. W. Thibodeaux, and H. T. Trautman.

The exercises closed with a well and best address of the graduating class by the Rev. J. J. Vann.

Meeting of a deplorable character continued to mar the pleasure. The occasion.

The Old Volunteer Organizations.

The old volunteer companies of Fayetteville having been reorganized, a friendly rivalry exists between the reorganization of all of those three companies which were the pride of Wilmington in other days.

We take this from the Wilmington Journal. Can't Raleigh raise one good volunteer company? We have a large number of really good looking young men who would appear well in "soldier clothes." Let us have a superior company of one hundred men. What say you. Shall Fayetteville beat Raleigh.

Superior Court.

The court opened at the usual hour, His Honor Judge Watts on the Bench. The following cases were called and disposed of:

State vs Bryant Jones, for bastardy. Not pros.

State vs J. D. Hayes for bastardy. Defendant recognized to Fall Term of this Court.

State vs Wm. Yearby for bastardy. Defendant tried and found not guilty.

State vs Stanford Montague, peace warrant. Defendant called and failed. Judgment nisi.

A Reminiscence.

The subject addressed to the Associate by the venerable Dr. G. H. Jordan, of Person county, a prominent physician of that section of the State. They will be specially interesting to members of the Masonic Fraternity, and not without interest to the friends of the Oxford Orphan Home. The letter was written under the impression that the Associate would attend the celebration of St. John's Day at Oxford, and was sent to him at that place and since forwarded to Raleigh. Dr. Jordan is a distinguished and revered man—one of the brightest, we presume to say, in the State. He writes:

How delighted I should be if I could participate with you all tomorrow, but business and home keeps me away. Eighteen years ago day after to-morrow, assisted by other members of the Grand Lodge and about three hundred other brethren from various parts of the State, I laid the cornerstone of the noble edifice around which so many of you, with fund attachments, will cluster to-morrow. O if I could enjoy that feast of reason and flow of soul; but I can't—it is denied me. It was laid on the 25th, because the 24th came on Sunday. Bro. Collins was then Grand and J. D. G. Master; public duties prevented his coming and by his written request I had to act.

I was one of the early advocates in the Lodge of St. John's College, if not the first, was amongst them, and have been pointed to know the fraternity after so much labor and expense, suffered it to languish so long; but now by divine guidance under the efficient management of bro. Mills, I look forward with pleasing anticipations to the fulfilment of a long glorious destiny that was anticipated by its founders. How many honored members, and refined young maidens, will rise up in the last day and thank God that he ever put it into the hearts of the Grand Lodge of N. C. to establish an institution so pregnant with good, so calculated to shield them from the dangers that would otherwise have enveloped their paths through life.

To bro. D. W. Stone, G. M. at the time, I think, belongs the credit of conveying the idea of establishing a "institution of learning," by the Grand Lodge, for the education of the orphan children of indigent Masons. It seems to be coming, and the grand scheme, to that end. No matter how much it is put to you. Will all have my heart with you if my body is successively away.

Yrs. sincerely,
G. H. JORDAN.

We make no apology to Dr. Jordan for the liberty we take in permitting others to share with us in the pleasure we have derived from his entertaining and graceful letter. We trust his valuable life may be spared for many decades, and that the sun of his earthly days may go down in extended grandeur and peace only to rise amid the glories and splendors of the heavenly world, there to obtain his reward.

The valedictory address of the majority of the 1873 class found in the paper of an interesting nature in Philadelphia, one of whom did some other discovery, has unfolded into a general belief that the children accidentally strangled themselves. The little girl, Maggie Barry, has recovered sufficiently to play about the room in which she is kept.
