THE SENTINEL.

JOSIAH TURNER, Jr.,
T. B. KINGSBURY, Associate Editor.

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 8, 1873.

For House of Representatives,

GEORGE H. SNOW,

OF WAKE.

ELECTION 1st THURSDAY IN AUGUST.

CONTROVERSY.

Say what you will, the public is exceedingly fond of controversy. Its taste craves spicy discussion and sharp personalities. It is by no means averse to a little scandal now and then, whether the victim be a Beecher or a Warren. As long as people will crave scandal there will be scandalmongers. Old Robert South, one of the greatest, as he was the wittiest, of the English divines, once suggested a remedy —a cure for the evil. Said he: "The tale-bearer and the tale-bearer should be both hanged up, back to back, one by the tongue, the other by the ear."

But our business now is with the excitement of controversy rather than with the spice of scandal. You hear now and then something said of impersonal journalism. There is no such thing. It is true the "editorial we" may disappear, but the paper stands as a person, and the moment the field of controversy is entered, or reference personal to others is made, that moment impersonal journalism ceases.

We are aware that many papers claim to be models of impersonalism, but as far as we can see, they are about as personal as any others. It is quite certain that no editor in North Carolina can be faithful, either to his party or to the State, without indulging in personal comments. The character of the comments will depend upon the character of the writer. If his be an acrid temper, his writings will no doubt be acrid. Some men are so amiable, so courteous, so kindly, that they can write personalities without offence to any. They can probe an ulcer or cut a gum-boil and make the patient believe they are only feeling the sores in tenderest compassion.

Bold, sharp, keen, trenchant writers have always had the ear of the public. In our day, the cleverest and ablest papers have always some man on the staff who excels in polished sarcasm and incisive ridicule. A fine specimen of this sort of writing recently appeared in the New York Tribune on Ben Butler as a suitable Governor for Massachusetts. We take leave par parenthese to say, we think so too, for we believe verily "in the eternal fitness of things."

It is a common mistake, specially among pious and amiable people, to think that the controversial writings of the last few years, specially political discussions, are much more intense in bitterness and coarseness than those of the last century. Any one who has read any of the political assaults in the time of Washington's administration will remember their extreme violence and acuity. Grant, richly as he deserved it, has never had as severe criticisms made upon him as Gen. Washington had. And so with the controversies in the field of politics during the administrations of all the early Presidents. The personalities of those days were more venomous and excoriating than any we meet with in our times. In fact the press has toned down no little, and if now and then we meet with articles of uncommon severity or uncommon coarseness, they are the exceptions.

It is also a mistake to suppose that the religious controversies of this and the last century were more opprobious and furious than those of the generations back. We venture to assert that we can draw from Milton, Calvin, Luther, Pascal and other great authors of from one hundred and fifty to four hundred years ago, fiercer personalties than even those that marred the controversy between Toplady and the great John Wesley in the last century. Our article has grown so long already that we have not room for the completion of what we desire to say. In a future article we will give the reader some specimens of religious controversy in the past, also some excerpts from some of the greatest of the ancients, that he may see for himself that modern controversy is as mild as a sucking dove compared with that of the past. Mark you, we will go to the writings of the greatest men, and not to anonymous lampooners and nameless scribblers. We of course could find more disgraceful passages if we appealed to the poor ravings of the Brick Pomeroys and Cannonians of former ages.

THE WAR RECORD.

The following article appeared some weeks ago in one of our State exchanges, but omitting to write the name of the paper at the time we cut it out, we are unable to give due credit:

"Every true son of the State feels a just pride in the noble conduct of the North Carolina soldiers in the late war. A plain statement of that conduct will be one continued chapter of heroism, patriotism and self-sacrifice from the beginning to the end. And we are more than gratified at the prospect of securing a true record, that will do justice to the living and the dead, and rescue from oblivion their names and brilliant achievements.

"The Raleigh SENTINEL proposes to publish in the columns of that paper the war record of each county separately, and calls for a plain, truthful narrative of the part each county bore in the late fearful struggle. The proposition on the part of the SENTINEL is not to write a history, but to publish the facts from each county as reported. We trust the soldiers in every county will take the matter in hand and select some competent person to furnish the desired information. By so doing, the different reports, when gathered together, will make up a good history and furnish many important facts that one individual, writing a history, could never obtain."

Gen. Robt. B. Vance has written a brief letter to the Asheville Expositor, in which he commends the plans of the SENTINEL and Col. Pool. He says they command his most hearty approval, and adds:

"I shall, therefore, be very happy in extending any aid in my power towards the accomplishment of so praiseworthy a work. I will take great pleasure in receiving communications from parties on this subject, and when received will forward them to their proper destination. I trust that my surviving comrades of the 29th N. C. Regiment will go to work at once and send me lists of the companies, as well as incidents connected with the history of the old regiment, both during and after the time of my having the honor of its command."

The Wilmington Journal says:

We have more than once called attention to the recently awakened interest in the war record of North Carolina soldiers. We feel that we cannot do too much in seeking to further the efforts being made to collect and preserve material for a truthful history of North Carolina, and we are sure that our readers will not weary of being reminded of the importance of doing all in their power to ensure the success of both of the schemes looking to that end, now before the public.

As we have said before, there is no conflict between the project of Colonel Pool and that of the Sentinel.

And in this connection it may not be amiss to ask whether any one is preparing the record of the soldiers of New Hanover county? It is needless for us to say that no county in this State has a brighter record than the county of New Hanover; it is needless for us to say that no county has more men fully qualified to make up that record so that it shall speak the truth than the same county of New Hanover has. Who will undertake the task? Shall the story of the matchless deeds of our fallen comrades who gave up their lives for the most glorious cause that ever called men to battle, remain untold because no survivor is willing to undertake the generous task? It cannot be possible. Our countymen are not wont to leave duty unperformed. New Hanover's living sons owe it to their dead brethren, if not to themselves, as a sacred duty to tell the world what they did in the cause of Southern Independence. And it were well that the performance of the duty should not long be delayed.

We are pleased to publish also the following letter from an old soldier:

HAYESVILLE, N. C., June 11, 1873.

Editor of the Sentinel,

DEAR SIR: I am highly gratified at your proposed undertaking of getting up the war record of North Carolina. I have often thought we ought to have some history or record to perpetuate the memory of the many noble deeds and the matchless bravery of the soldiers who donned the "grey" and battled in defense of our honored "old North State."

Having served through the war in the regiment to which, I believe, the Senior Editor of the SENTINEL once belonged—the 2d Regiment of N. C. Cavalry—I feel a deep interest in the proposed plan of getting up the "record," especially as it is undertaken by the SENTINEL, and I will do all I can to aid in getting up the record of Clay County. I have many notes and items from which I am able to furnish interesting data, and can furnish the original muster roll of Company "A," 2d N. C. Cavalry at its first organization, which was the first Company that marched from Cherokee and Clay Counties to engage in the war. Wishing you success in your noble undertaking, I remain yours truly,

W. A. CURTIS.

ANOTHER ERROR.

A note upon our table informs us that we are in error as to Gov. Holden being a trustee of Wake Forest College.

The writer says one of the trustees who was present at the election, says Gov. Holden was voted for but not elected, and the trustee assured him of the fact after the announcement in the SENTINEL.

We do not feel there is much responsibility on the SENTINEL for having made the statement, we heard it from others, but not from a trustee.

We must now stand corrected by the trustee.

There is no telling when a man hears the truth.

We heard a Baptist in good standing say our new postmaster was a trustee.

We must beg pardon of the trustees and all other parties who may feel offended, and assure them the statement did not originate with us.

DOUBLE ACTING FORCE PUMPS.

KITCHEN BROS.

(SUCCESSORS TO CAROLINA PUMP COMPANY, LOCATED IN RALEIGH)

ARE PREPARED TO FURNISH AT short notice the Kitchen Pumps of various sizes with Porcelain Cylinders which can't injure the water. This is a submerged deep well pump, now in use 2½ years with no expense of new packing. The No. 3 Globe 7 inches in Diameter, 1 inch Suction and 3/4 of an inch discharge pipe, capacity of 25 to 30 gallons per minute. These Globe Pumps we make of cast-iron for common waters, brass for salt water and block tin for the inside of lining for drinking water they lift the water 25 feet perpendicular, and you can sit in the house and draw water from springs or wells at great distances.

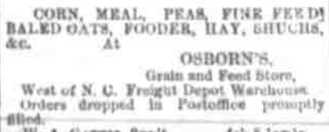
DIAMOND SPECTACLES.



The Spectacles are manufactured from "Minnie Crystal Pebbles" melted together, and are called Diamond on account of their hardness and brilliancy. It is well known that Spectacles cut from Brazilian or Scotch pebbles are very injurious to the eye, because of their polarizing light. Having been tested with the polariscope, the diamond lenses have been found to admit fifteen per cent. less heated rays than any other pebble. They are ground with great scientific accuracy, are free from chromatic aberrations, and produce a brightness and distinctness of vision not before attained in spectacles. Manufactured by the Spencer Optical Manufacturing Company, New York. For sale by responsible agents in every city in the Union.

THE ADJUSTABLE

SPRING BED BOTTOM

With one of these, if you have a Feather Bed, a Mattress is not required. If you have a mattress, feathers are not required. You can have a most Luxurious Bed, with either, without the other. Don't take our word for it, but take a Spring Bed on trial for a few days at our risk, to be taken away if it does not suit.

Samples may be seen at Julius Lewis & Co's, T. H. Briggs & Sons, W. H. Jones & Co's, W. H. Morris & Co's. Furniture Store, or at the Yarbrough House, where they are in constant use and where Dr. Blacknall will take pleasure in giving any information about the Beds. Agents wanted in every county.
