STATE NEWS.

RECEIVED - This paper has a neat article from the new editor, Hamilton M. Miller. The Hillsboro Recorder gives an unfavorable account of the tobacco crops of Caswell, Person and Orange. Mrs. Willfield, a venerable lady living at Mr. Burgess' near Effield, fell dead Monday while at the dinner table. She had not previously been sick. The remains passed through Effield, yesterday on the way to the place for interment. SABBATH FATAL ACCIDENT. - We regret to learn we do through a friend at Hillsboro, that on Monday, Mr. Samuel Lewis, one of the best citizens of Caswell county, was killed by a fall from his mill at Pioneer Mills in that county. He lived but about twenty minutes after the fall. - Clar. Observer. Much of the track of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad is being laid with new Suburban iron. The road is now comparatively smooth for many miles from this point towards Goldsboro. It is a much needed improvement, and will make persons travel much easier while riding on the usual fast schedule of this line. - Hillsboro News. SUNDAY AFTERNOON AT FARMING. - A difficulty occurred on Monday, on Monday last, between Mr. Buckner J. Rogers and a negro, Jerry Rutledge, in his employ, in which the negro was shot, and seriously injured. The difficulty arose from some misunderstanding about wages. The negro becoming enraged, drew a pistol and fired on Mr. Rogers, missing him. Mr. Rogers then stepped back a few paces, drew a pistol and fired, the ball entering somewhere about the ear. The Piedmont Press says that a serious difficulty took place in Marion on Thursday last. Walker James and Walter Cook had some dispute about a brood sow. Cook came into James' shop, showed up a pair of blacksmith's tongs and handed James down - twisting him considerably. James rose jerked the tongue out of Cook's hand, and struck him a blow over his head, fracturing his skull and producing concussion of the brain. Cook has been in a comatose state ever since and little or no hopes entertained of his recovery. The Newton Herald says: "Two gentlemen of the older times, who were pioneers in Western North Carolina, and who returned large bodies of fertile lands on the South Fork River, in Catawba and McDowell counties, could not agree upon a division of said lands, both preferring the present Grants in McDowell. These two gentlemen were Whitmer and McDowell. They finally agreed to divide the division by a stream, a river, or a lake. They saw Whitmer's farm, and the river was the dividing line. Old Fort is now located on both banks of the river in this county."

HOME AFFAIRS.

Returned. Judge Boyden, who has been on a visit to relatives in the North for some time past, returned yesterday much improved in health.

New Post Office. We learn that a new post office has been established in Randolph by the name of Soap Stone Mount, with J. W. Cox as postmaster.

Stocks for Sale. See the advertisement of Cronley & Morris, 25,000 shares of Stock in Clandon Coalfield Company and 25 shares of North Carolina Railroad stock for sale in Wilmington on the 24th inst.

A Call for Breakfast. At 12 o'clock yesterday the prisoners in jail were called up for breakfast. The fashionable of Boston who turn night into day, breakfast at 11. Our sheriff, being from Boston, has improved on the Boston fashion.

Large Tomato. The Greensboro Patriot says: "We gathered a tomato this week that weighed 16 1/2 ounces. Can any one beat us?" We haven't heard of any such tomato heretofore.

Since writing the above we have been shown by Mr. E. E. Harris, of this city, whose garden, by-the-way, is generally in advance of all others in Raleigh, a basket of very fine tomatoes of the celebrated "Trophy" species. We saw none of them weighed but judge from the size that the largest would weigh ten or twelve ounces.

Bad Proof Reading.

In our issue of yesterday, owing to bad proof reading, several errors occurred in our market quotations. That no one may be misled we republish the quotations with the necessary corrections. Butter 25 to 35 cents per lb., eggs 20 to 25 cents per doz., tomatoes 50 cents per peck, beets 10 cents per bunch, cucumbers 10 cents per doz., watermelons 10 to 40 cents, Irish potatoes $1.50 bush, new sweet potatoes 50 cents per peck; onions $2 per bush; peaches $2 per bush, chickens 20 to 30 cents, breakfast 12 1/2 to 15 cents, pork 12 1/2 to 15 cents, mutton 12 1/2 to 15 cents.

Rev. Burwell Temple.

A compositor in our office made a visit last Friday to this worthy old gentleman, who is editor of the Primitive Baptist. Mr. Temple is a half a score beyond his three score and ten. He has been for more than fifty years a preacher of the Gospel. For several weeks past he has been quite ill. He talked comically about dying; said he had arranged all his worldly affairs, and set his household in readiness; that he could not live long and was ready to go. How many editors can say this? How many of another profession can say it? We have missed, recently, our old friend's visits. He never failed to call on us when he came to town, nor did he ever fail to speak words of encouragement to us - such as, "Lay it on to them. Some say you are too hard; I think you are mild enough." Our regard for the old man was greatly increased when he returned President Billy Smith's free pass over his head, desiring to take it, and looking upon it as a tribute to his vote for the giving of the pass, who was a candidate for Congress. One such man to the township could save the State.

Meeting of the Directors of the Inane Asylum.

The Board of directors of the Inane Asylum of North Carolina met yesterday at the call of the President for the special purpose of filling the vacancy in the office of Steward, caused by the death of Mr. W. F. Higgins.

The following Directors were present: His Honor, Mayor Wesley Whitaker, President Col. T. G. Walton, Dr. J. G. Ramsey, Mr. G. W. Stanton, Col. T. M. Argo, Rev. G. W. Brodie, Dr. T. L. Banks, Mr. J. P. Prairie, Mr. R. C. Badger and Col. C. L. Harris.

A quorum being present the Board proceeded to business.

The President announced the death of Mr. Higgins.

Dr. Ramsey moved that the Board proceed to elect a Steward. Carried.

The applications and endorsements of Messrs. C. J. Rogers, H. M. Miller, W. F. Loftis, S. G. Coffin, A. J. Partin and Albert Johnson, for the position of Steward, were read.

Mr. Argo nominated Mrs. Bettie G. Higgins.

The Board proceeded to ballot. Mrs. Higgins receiving a majority of all the votes cast, was declared duly elected.

Mr. Badger tendered his resignation as a member of the Executive Committee, and on motion of Mr. Harris, Mr. J. P. Prairie, was elected to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Badger moved that the accounts of the late Steward be examined, and it being carried, then the Superintendent be directed to draw his warrant for any sums that may be due him as Steward, or for purchases made by him for the Asylum. Carried.

On motion of Mr. Argo, the board adjourned.

ABOUT TOWN.

It is again hot, dry and dusty. Yesterday the thermometer reached 85 in the shade. The dog catchers were out yesterday in full force.

The News says our much esteemed friend Syme is on the courting list.

The Associate is on a visit to his family in Granville.

There were only nine candidates for the stewardship of the Lunatic Asylum.

There was but little done in the cotton market yesterday.

Some gentlemen are in the habit of driving through the streets at a faster rate than is allowed by law.

Mrs. Tracy Titus, popularly known here as Mrs. James Oates, is organizing a new comic opera company in London.

Additor Reilly has not yet returned from the North. During his absence the office is in charge of the chief clerk, Mr. W. P. Wetherell.

We hear complaint of disturbances on Winter's Row. We hope we won't have to "take back" what we said about good order in the Eastern Ward.

District Conference of the M. E. Church, at Cary. Yesterday at 10 a. m. the District Conference of the Ministers and Delegates of the Raleigh District of the North Carolina Conference, M. E. Church, South, formally organized at Cary.

As no Bishop is in attendance the Presiding Elder, Rev. W. H. Bobbitt, will be the President.

The attendance promises to be unusually large. Already a large number of ministers and laymen have arrived.

The hospitality of this pleasant village is greeting all who come with abounding generosity.

The sessions are held in the large seminary building which is soon to be occupied for a school by Rev. Jesse H. Page and Mrs. Virginia Pell.

On Wednesday night the pulpit was occupied by Rev. H. H. Gibbons. His subject was "Christ Crucified" - the theme of the hour.

He showed that what is called the "foolishness" of God, is wiser than the wisdom of men. He is a discrete man and knows the propriety of short sermons.

Much good feeling, social and religious prevails.

Radical Township Nominations.

On Wednesday night the Radicals of Raleigh Township held a meeting for the purpose of nominating township officers.

W. R. Richardson was called to the chair and Francis M. Sorrell was requested to act as Secretary. The following persons were nominated for magistrates: Wesley Whitaker, J. P. Prairie, Handy Lockhart, Mingo Croop and Oscar Alston.

The following nominations were made for school committee: Gen. John C. Goran, F. M. Sorrell and N. Oatey. Township Clerk - John E. Williams. Township Constable - John R. Caswell.

The nominations being made James H. Harris, col., was called upon to address the meeting, which he did at some length. His speech was a sort of melody. He spoke of the importance of electing to the Legislature the Radical candidate, Martin Van Buren Gilbert, alluded briefly to the recent educational convention and concluded by endorsing the proposed constitutional amendments and urging his listeners to vote for the whole of them.

Bride Stealing.

In the rear of the grocery store of Messrs. Yearly & Rogers, on Hargett street, there is a vacant lot where people from the country hitch and feed their horses. Recently several brides and other articles have been stolen from this lot.

On Wednesday last week Mr. Cooley had his buggy stolen. On the Friday following a gentleman, whose name we forget, had a bride stolen, and on Saturday another bride was stolen, this time from Henry E. Holloway. A watch was set but the thief was not caught. Yesterday Mr. Holloway came to the city of business and while passing up Wilmington street he discovered his bride in the possession of a colored boy by the name of Albert Anderson. He asked the negro to give him his bride. The negro declined to do so saying he had bought it. Mr. H. applied to a magistrate for a warrant for his arrest which was refused on the ground that he could not get the bride by swearing to it. Mr. H. finally succeeded in having Albert arrested. When near the guard house he broke away from the policeman, who had him in charge, and ran as far as the Baptist Grove before he was overtaken. Albert was taken before the Mayor and Mr. H. swore to his property. The darkey could not prove where he got the bride and the Mayor committed him to jail to await a hearing before Judge Wells next September.

The friends of the late Minister, James L. Orr, in South Carolina, are attempting to raise funds to place a monument over his grave.

The Fashions.

At this late day there is little that is new to be said of summer fashions. Its glory is on the wane, summer clothes has been worn until all its freshness has departed, and with the desire for change, which seems to be inherent in the human breast, we begin to look forward to the incoming beauties of fall rather than back with regret upon the pleasant experiences of the summer. We condense from our Magazines (principally Demorest's) the following fashion for the month of August:

For morning wear, at the sea shore, among the hills, and in the cities, the Redingbote is the garment. In striped and gray batiste, gray and crin linen, mohair, camel's hair, and cashmere, are destined to continue through the summer add fall, useful, cheap, and becoming to the last.

White French muslin is as popular as ever, and is largely used in the pretty indescribable ensembles that American girls are noted for. Among other pretty designs is a waist of blue or pink silk, worn under a black lace sacque. The skirt may be black silk, grenadine, or white muslin. Thread, lams, and guilpue lace sacques are seen, the latter being the greater novelty. Very moderate ones can be had, made of an imitation guilpue netting, and edged with real lace.

These combinations of black lace over white materials and white lace over black ones, with the faintest color appearing in the misty folds, are above all elegant and becoming, and if expensive, very durable, capable of various arrangements, and not likely to be reproduced in cheap imitations.

Tollets of Victoria lawn finished with a black lace fleure are cool and becoming.

Black straw hats, one side turned up, or both, the trimming black, with white feathers, are among the leading favorites. Broad hats, and the broad-leaved Leghorn, trimmed with black velvet, white feathers, and roses, are popular at the watering places.

Oxidized silver has for the present driven all rivals from the field, and appears in every shape of ornament, useful and otherwise. Necklaces of large beads, ear rings, and breast pins, are worn with studs, slides, yail-pins, and appendages of the belt. A complete set of this silver is expensive, but the style is rich and quiet, and will remain a favorite one. The dead silver is especially pretty with the tints now fashionable, and the designs from the antique have an attraction for lovers of the past.

The large fans come in beautiful combinations, but their size makes them too expensive and unwieldy for general use. The variety in every direction leave us no cause for complaint. Dame Fashion has seized the entire past, and arrays herself for conquest from his choicest treasures.

CHILDREN'S FASHIONS.

Shirt-suits, sailor-suits, gabriele suits, polonaise suits; these make up the list of popular summer costumes for children.

Easily and inexpensively made, every one of them. Plaited shirt-waist, and single shirt-trimmed with plain bands.

For the sailor suit, Garibaldi waist with sailor-collars, and single shirt, or Kaicker-boiler pants. For the gabriele suit a plain princess dress, and square cut tunic, trimmed with flat braid.

For the polonaise suit, plain gored shirt, and any pretty polonaise pattern, which is adapted to the material.

Overalls are less worn than formerly, by girls as well as grown women, and their costumes for summer wear are made as cool and simple as possible.

Certainly, with the aid of good patterns, children's clothing need not be costly, nor very difficult. With least trimming, and not even the excesses required by clothing for boys, it is easy to get up an outfit for school or house wear for girls at small expense.

Charming sailor suits for girls are of unbleached linen or buff cambric, with cuffs, deep square collar, and shirt-bands of linen or percale.

Diffed percale is the favorite material for shirt-suits, and piques, Victoria lawn, hair striped silk, and grenadine, for polonaise suits.

Gabriele suits of plain linen, collared out and bound with alpaca braid, are very useful, and greatly in demand for traveling and country wear. Banded in, they are used as aprons, with a small cape ad, they form very neat riding and traveling costumes.

More dainty costumes for girls consist of a white polonaise of lawn or muslin, trimmed with lace insertion, lined with narrow pink or blue ribbon, prettily draped with knots of ribbon of the same color over skirts of black, blue, or hair-striped silk, covered with narrow braid.

White pique suits are hand-wrought with white, and trimmed with bands of needle work.

Plaited sailor suits, consisting of Garibaldi waist and Kaicker-boiler trousers, have taken the place of the plaited shirt-waist and trousers, which boys from five to seven years wear so long. Past this age they are invested with the dignity of coat, vest, and trousers, jackets having passed out of the vocabulary for boys in this production age, and only "coats" being worn.

The Governor has appointed Samuel L. Taylor, of Philadelphia, Pa., Commissioner of deeds for Virginia.

Rev. Dr. M. D. Kelopthalpes, of Albemarle, is stopping at present in Alexandria. He is a missionary of the Southern Presbyterian Church.

About 1,300 pounds of ammunition passed through Alexandria, Friday night, via the W. C. V. M. & G. Road, directed to Governor Kellogg, of Louisiana.

The Lexington Gazette says Professor T. M. of Washington and Lee University, has instituted a milk for mixing and grinding phosphates in soda.

During a thunder-storm on Friday, Mr. John C. Orentstorf, a prominent and estimable citizen of Bedford county, was struck by lightning and instantly killed at his residence, about six miles from Liberty.

The Page Courier states that Mr. Jas. V. Taylor, of that county, was bitten by a copper-head moccasin snake, one day last week, which caused severe pain for some time, but is now recovering from its effects. Brandy and coal oil were both tried used, the latter externally.

A MAN BOILED ALIVE IN A HOT SPRING.

A horrible accident occurred a few days since at Steamboat Springs, Wagon county, which will probably result in the death of C. W. Cullem, proprietor of the hotel and springs. For the following particulars in regard to the affair, we are indebted to Dr. C. C. Green, of this city, who was summoned by telegraph to the assistance of the stricken man. Mr. Cullem was engaged in erecting a new bath house over a large pool of boiling water, for use in giving steam baths. Timbers for the foundation of the structure had been laid across the boiling pool, which is four feet in depth, and Mr. Cullem had walked out on one of these for the purpose of arranging cross-timbers, when he slipped and fell into the boiling water. The water was so deep that it reached nearly to his breast bone, and is so hot that an egg is cooked in it in two minutes. When he fell in it was either so frightened or fell so much pain that for a time he was in a manner paralyzed and incapable of doing anything worth getting out of. It is said that he was in the spring half a minute before he got out, which he did at last through his own exertions and the help of a man who came to his assistance. He was taken to the hotel and stripped, when the greater part of the skin slipped off his body from his breast bone downward. C. A. V. Putnam, State Printer, James Gray of this city, and others who happened to be visiting at the springs, did all that could be done for the suffering man pending the arrival of the physician. They got a large quantity of ether and packed him in it, and kept him in this condition until the arrival of the doctor. Dr. Green says that the man may be saved if he will live or not he cannot say, but appears to think that his recovery would be little short of a miracle. Mr. Cullem is in such agony that the doctor was obliged to give him very large doses of opium to keep him at all quiet. - Virginia Herald

Boylan recently arrived from Dublin. Croker is an English pugilist.

It is stated that certain "scientists" have recently come to the conclusion that the moon instead of being a cold in an extremely hot sphere, which may account for the usual effect of moonlight upon lovers, "A newspaper remarks that this 'science' is the 'green cheese theory'." We do not see that this follows; for the moon may be a great Welsh rare-bit, with lakes of mustard - a heaven in fact, specially prepared for the Ap Johns, the Ap Davids, and the Ap Joneses.

SAD ACCIDENT. - Living in the vicinity of the Catawba White Sulphur Springs is a Mr. Sigmon, a plain, honest, well-to-do farmer. His little boy often accompanied him to his work when engaged near the house. On the occasion when this sad calamity overtook his little boy, the pride of his heart, the father was working in a field a short distance from his residence. The little boy had followed his father that morning as usual. He had borrowed his father's knife and was looking for it when it is supposed he stepped at the spring for water and while drinking lost his hold and fell in. The spring is enclosed by a hollow gun about twelve inches in diameter. The child was missing at dinner time when when search was instituted and the body found standing on its head tightly wedged in the gun, submerged, stiff and rigid in the icy grasp of death. The child was only three years old. So says the Piedmont Press.

REVENUE MURDER. - A letter bearing the signature of "John S. Robertson, Local Grocer, Buncombe county, N. C." published in the Piedmont, informs us that a young man, supposed to be Frank Wilson, from Catawba county, from papers found on his person, was found dead a few days ago on the French Broad river, with his throat cut from ear to ear. The informant writes: "His name was found on some envelopes in his pocket - Frank Wilson - and I from the signs on the ground he would have given the murderer a pretty hard knock for life. His dead slony with a sack in one hand and a slingshot in the other. From papers found in his pocket he must have been a staunch Democrat, and a young man thought a great deal of by his friends. No trace has yet been made of the murderer. I had him recently buried, and his relatives or friends had been all things found on his person by writing to me."
