The World, the Evening Post, and the Herald, of New York, all have made the inexcusable blunder of declaring emphatically that Senator Conkling is ineligible to the Chief Justiceship; whilst no other New York paper that we have seen, not even the Tribune, has pointed out the error. The Post first perpetrated this blunder; the World followed the Post, and the Herald the World. In all these three days, no New York daily could be found whose editors were intelligent enough to correct the error. And these are the journals that talk patronizingly about "provincial papers." It is a crying shame that the papers published in the largest city in the country should all be edited by men so utterly unfit for the duty.—Richmond Dispatch.

FAIR OF THE CAROLINAS.—This exhibition will begin on the 25th day of November, and continue for five days. Great preparations are being made for it, and it is expected to make it the best that has ever been held in this city or State. Its officers are gentlemen who are well qualified to discharge the duties which rest upon them, and they are laboring earnestly and faithfully in the interest of the Fair. We are glad to learn that the farmers are taking a commendable interest in the coming exhibition, and will not only attend themselves in force but will bring articles for exhibition. The premium list, which will be before the public in a short time, is quite liberal, and many exhibitors will be attracted from this State and South Carolina by the premiums offered. We have assurances from Gen. Wade Hampton and Col. D. Wyatt Aiken, as well as other prominent South Carolinians, that they will furnish stock and farm products for exhibition. Gen. Hampton will deliver the address.—Charlotte Observer

We regret to announce the death of Rev. Burwell Temple, which occurred on Sunday night, the 27th, after a painful illness of several weeks. Mr. Temple at the time of his death was editor and proprietor of the Primitive Baptist, a religious paper which he purchased of a Mr. George Howard in the year 1848. Mr. Temple was near 80 years of age at the time of his death. Our SENIOR, who was much attached to the deceased gentleman, has a lengthy obituary on the inside.

That Work House.

The Wake county Work House is only three miles from the city. A Mr. Ferguson is the overseer and receives a salary of $300 a year. There is one prisoner in the Work House, and only one armed guard to watch him. The guard receives but $15 per month. Here is an opening for some of the fire-tried. This prisoner should have at least two men to guard him—one man can't keep him securely by night and by day. Give the Work House another guard or reduce the number of prisoners.

The Shah of Persia.

His Majesty, the Shah of Persia, is now spending his millions in Paris. It is estimated that the presents he has bestowed upon the crown heads of Europe reach the enormous sum of ten million pounds.—Cor. N. Y. Herald.

Now it strikes us that this old mulatto is putting on a right smart air. Ten years ago, in this country, a finer specimen of manhood could have been bought for $800. He is spending millions in Europe "putting on style," while his people at home are perishing for the want of something to eat.

Larceny of a Pocket Book.

On Monday morning quite an interesting larceny case was heard before Justices Wicker, Whitaker and Dunston, at the Mayor's office. About three weeks ago A. Magnin, a deputy sheriff, had his pocket book, containg some $40 in money, besides some valuable papers, stolen from his coat which he had hung up in the sheriff's office. He remained perfectly quiet for some time and said nothing about the theft, thinking something would turn up which might lead to the discovery of the thief. Yesterday Magnin heard that some of the papers were concealed at a house of ill-fame which is kept by Lilla Griffice, in the western ward. He at once took out a warrant and proceeded to search Lilla's house, when the papers, stolen with the pocket book, were found in an old trunk among some rags. Griffice said the papers were found under her bed after a colored man by the name of Stanford Cole had occupied it. On this statement Mr. Magnin procurred a warrant and had Cole arrested and brought before Mayor Whitaker. At Cole's request two other justices, Messrs. Wicker and Dunston, took seats on the bench with the Mayor. The day was intensely hot and the large number of idle negroes who filled the court room added no little to the discomfort of the occasion.

Mr. Magnin was examined and testified as to having his pocket-book stoled and as to the finding of the papers it contained in the house of Lilla Griffice. Cole had been in the sheriff's office that day and suspicion rested upon him.

Mr. Brummell testified that Stanford Cole was seen in the office that day. There were a number of other persons in the office during the day. He could not say that Stanford took the pocket-book.

Lilla Griffice testified that Cole came to her house about two weeks ago and asked her to show him to a room where he could take a nap of sleep. She showed him to a room and then took her sewing and went to call on a neighbor. Returned in the afternoon and found Cole gone, and a pile of papers lying on the floor under the bed. Soon after her return a Federal soldier, by the name of Shennegan, came in, and she called his attention to the papers and asked what was to be done with them. He took the papers and put them in an old trunk and told her to let them remain there until his return, which would be in about fifteen days. His command had been suddenly ordered away and he could not attend to the matter for her until he returned.

Turner Evans was next called to the stand and shown a piece of writing which he recognized as an invitation to a ball which he had given at Mr. Magnin's Hall. He gave the invitation to Stanford Cole to deliver for him, which until now, he had supposed had been delivered as requested.

This invitation to the ball was found among the papers at Griffice's house, and was the strongest evidence against Cole. Magnin, who wrote the invitations for Evans, recognized the hand writing as his own.

Charles Busbee, Esq., appeared for the plaintiff and Messrs. Jones & Jones for the defendant. About two hours were consumed in the argument of the case, the counsel on both sides displaying much talent and ability.

At the conclusion of the argument, the justices retired to an adjoining room, and after a few minutes conference, returned to the bench, when Justice Dupston announced as the decision of the court, that the defendant enter into a bond of $200 for his appearance at the next term of Wake Superior Court and that he be retained in the custody of an officer until the bond was given.

RALEIGH DISTRICT CONFERENCE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

CLOSING EXERCISES.

THIRD DAY.

[BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.]

The conference met on Saturday morning, the Presiding Elder in the chair.

W. J. Young offered a resolution in regard to the Widows' and Orphans' Relief Society, the adoption of which was strongly advocated by Dr. Simms, in an earnest address.

Rev. E. A. Yates thought the measure objectionable for the reason that the maintenance of the Society would impose an additional burden upon the ministers. The discussion was continued at some length, and upon motion its further consideration was postponed until the afternoon session.

REPORT.

The report of the committee on Religious Literature was read by Rev. H. H. Gibbons, and is as follows:

The subject of Church Literature is one of very great importance, and very properly demands our careful consideration.

If she would have her members properly indoctrinated, and thus fortify them against the low machinations of proselyters and also prevent the children of the church from having their minds poisoned by the scepticism contained in much of the literature of the day, she must see to it that her literature contained in books and periodicals be freely circulated among her people, and a failure to make an earnest effort in this direction involves the criminality of neglect of duty.

With regard to the Raleigh Christian Advocate, your committee beg leave to say that Rev. J. B. Bobbitt came to the relief of the conference at a time every effort had failed to permanently establish a paper for the church, and when the enterprise was hopelessly down, and by hard work and extraordinary financial ability gave new life and permanent existence to that necessary institution of the church, a good religious newspaper. And your committee take pleasure in saying that, in their opinion, the paper compares favorably with any other religious paper in or out of the State. And they also take pleasure in gratefully recognizing the valuable assistance of the associate editor, Robert T. Gray whose ready pen gives such interest to the local and news columns of the paper.

Your committee would offer the following preamble and resolutions.

WHEREAS, The Raleigh Christian Advocate, under the Editorial management of Rev. J. B. Bobbitt, has succeeded beyond our most sanguine expectations in meeting the wants of the great body of our people in giving them a good religious newspaper, and

WHEREAS, The N. C. Annual Conference has adopted the paper as their organ by an almost unanimous vote, therefore

Resolved, that the thanks of this conference are due, and are hereby tendered to the editor for his zeal and efficiency, and that we pledge ourselves to do more than ever to circulate the paper among our people.

Rev. E. A. Yates, Presiding Elder of the Fayetteville District, addressed the conference in favor of the resolution, and dwelt at length upon the high merits of the Raleigh Christian Advocate, both as a religious and newspaper. He said that it was not surpassed as a church paper by any in or out of the State, and that Mr. Bobbitt, its Editor and Proprietor, deserved the gratitude and earnest support of the church in North Carolina.

Rev. L. L. Hendren followed, heartily endorsing the report, and referring in very complimentary terms to the Advocate. As agent for Greensboro college, he moves among the people, and has fine opportunities of ascertaining the feelings of the people toward the Advocate, and finds it universally popular and successful. Rev. Mr. Mangum, in a speech of some length, eulogized the paper and its management, financial and editorial, and recognized it as a great instrument of good, and a valuable aid to him in his pastoral labor. The report was adopted without a dissenting voice.

Rev. P. J. Carraway submitted a report on behalf of the committee on temperance.

REPORTS FROM CHARGES.

Rev. A. A. Bonhamer submitted an interesting and favorable report of the work on his circuit. He was received with great cordiality by the people of the circuit, and has been treated with great kindness by them.

The conference adjourned at 11 o'clock for Divine Worship. Rev. J. P. Moore, Presiding Elder of the Hillsboro District, preached an able sermon from St. John, 21st chapter and 16th verse.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The conference was opened by religious exercises, conducted by Rev. A. D. Betts.

Rev. M. J. Hunt made a verbal report on the condition of Rock Springs circuit.

Dr. Simms, Layman from Henderson circuit, advocated the reading of the rules of the church to congregations, as required by the Book of Discipline. Revs. A. W. Mangum, Dr. Closs and the president, concurred in the remarks of Mr. Simms.

The conference resolved to hold its next session at Franklinton, N. C.

THE COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved 1st. That this district conference publicly avows a fervent interest in Greensboro Female College, Davenport Female College, and Trinity College—all of which we cherish as the only institutions of learning under the immediate control of the North Carolina Conference.

Resolved 2nd. That we heartily welcome Rev. B. B. Culbreth, agent of Trinity College, and Rev. L. L. Hendron, agent of Greensboro Female College, and Rev. T. J. Gattis, agent of Davenport Female College to all the appointments in our district, and commend the claims of their respective agencies to the liberality of our people.

Resolved 3rd. That we are much gratified to learn that Cary Female Seminary is to be opened on the 8th of August, under the efficient Superintendency of Rev. Jesse H. Page and Mrs. Virginia C. Pell. The former is an esteemed and experienced minister of the Methodist Protestant Church, and Mrs. Pell, the relict of our warmly remembered and still beloved brother, Wm. E. Pell. To this Seminary we pledge our hearty encouragement and co-operation.

Rev. L. L. Hendren, A. W. Mangum, the Presiding Elder, Rev. B. B. Culbreth, Dr. Closs and others made earnest addresses in favor of the enterprises mentioned in the report. The appeal by Rev. A. W. Mangum in favor of Greensboro College, the favorite enterprise of the N. C. Conference, was eloquent and powerful. The resolutions were adopted as a whole.

Rev. H. H. Gibbons introduced resolutions relative to the death of Rev. Wm. Holmes.

The resolution concerning the Widows' and Orphans' Relief Society coming on to be heard, it was deemed inexpedient to adopt it at present, and thereupon Dr. Simms withdrew it from the consideration of the conference.

A resolution of thanks to the citizens of Cary for their generous hospitality was adopted and also one of thanks to the Railroad companies for courtesies to those attending the conference.

Rev. A. W. Mangum offered a resolution of welcome to Rev. Mr. Reading and other Wesleyan Methodists of England, who propose immigrating to this State and forming a colony at Ridgeway.

The business of the conference being finished, it adjourned sine die.

Your Reporter would be glad to give an extended account of the services on Saturday night and on the Sabbath—of the sermons preached by Rev. E. A. Yates, Dr. Closs, Rev. L. L. Hendren and Rev. B. B. Culbreth, but time is wanting, and your space and patience no doubt exhausted.

FOREIGN ITEMS.

The English papers give an account of the Fifty-first sitting of the Tichborne trial. This case is still far from being dismissed.

The French government will pay the German Empire, on the 5th of August next, two hundred and fifty millions of francs of the war indemnity. There remains only one more payment of equal amount to take place on the 5th of September, after which the whole of the war indemnity will have been paid down, one thousand millions of dollars in gold in a little over two years.

At the sale of the rich collection of books of M. Perkins, of London which took place a few days ago, a volume reached the enormous price of $16,000. It is the "Latin Bible" without date, printed towards 1455, by the presses of Guttenberg, of Mayne; a fine volume in folio, 324 pages. There are now only five copies of this Bible extant, and four of them belong already to public collections in the large capitals in Europe. The highest price ever paid for one single volume has been £2,260 or about $11,300, which, in 1812, at the sale of the Duke of Roxburgh's collection, Lord Blandford, bidding against Count Spencer, gave for a copy (the only complete one in existence) of the "Decamerone" of Boccacio, printed in Venice, in 1472.

Gutenberg's Bible is the first important results of his efforts in typography with mobile type; the first book printed with a date is a "Psalter," published in Mayne in 1457, by Faust & Schoefer.

NEWS ITEMS.

An English philologist is raving about the word "pockethandkerchief," which he considers a disgrace to the English language, on account of its length and clumsy construction; and the worst of it is, he says, that there are no synonymes for it except "cly" and "rips," both of which are slang.

What does the Bard of Ramakat know about this unkouth word?

Prince Frederic Charles, of Germany, has tendered to Marshal Bazaine evidence in his favor on his trial for the surrender of Metz to the Prussian Army. The Marshal, however, declines to permit the evidence to be introduced.

A Wisconsin genealogist has proven to his own satisfaction that Columbus was a German.

What effect will this have upon the politics of America, when it turns out the country was discovered by a German instead of a Spaniard.

McMahon outmarches Grant, they say. The French Count's daily ration are five tweeny to thirty cigars and cigarettes, but he often rises to fifty. But Grant's allowance is an unknown quantity, since the Greeks, like Murphy, bear him gifts, by the gross, of the "best Havana" and the "best old Bourbon."

Three hundred farmers of Webster county, Iowa, met at Fort Dodge on Saturday last to elect delegates to the Farmers' State Convention, which meets at Des Moines on August 13. The platform adopted shows little love for old parties and professional politicians. It denounces the existing corruptions of all kinds, and expresses the conviction that "the offices, salaries, and perquisites should be so reduced as to compel political hummers, wire-workers, and office-seekers to seek some other avocation for a livelihood."

DIED.

Of Consumption in Durham, N. C., on Sunday evening the 20th July, 1873, Mrs. Addie—wife of J. W. Wiggins and daughter of the Rev. J. A. McMannen, aged 20 years, 11 months and 14 days. She leaves a sorrowing husband and an interesting child to mourn her loss.

The following feeling verses, suggested by her dying words were written by her father, Rev. J. A. McMannen.

Some ten minutes before she expired, she seemed to be waiting for the Messenger, and when it came, she said to Mrs. Annie Moore: "That's it! Oh, Annie I am dying! Tell them all to come kiss me, and tell me good bye."

That's it. Tis the scraph,
How lovely and bright;
Its Wings are of Silver,
He clothed with the light,
Oh Annie I am dieing,
'Tis Heaven that's nigh;
Tell them all come and kiss me,
And tell me good bye.

That's it. Tis the music,
How soft and how sweet,
It comes o'er us the River,
That flows at my feet,
Oh Annie I am dieing,
'Tis Heaven that's nigh,
Tell them all to come and kiss me,
And tell me good bye.

That's it, cross the River,
That beautiful shore;
Where the weary have rest,
And their sorrows are o'er,
Oh Annie I am dying,
'Tis Heaven that's nigh;
Tell them all come and kiss me,
And tell me good bye.

That's it, Tis the Host's
How they crowd to the shore,
They beckon me over,
To suffer no more.
Oh Ann e I am dying,
'Tis Heaven that's nigh;
Tell them all come sudkiss me,
And tell me good bye.
