

PUBLISHED BY THE SENTINEL PUBLISHING COMPANY. OFFICE, near the Court House. RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION: Daily, 10 cents per week in advance...

The Daily Sentinel

VOL. VIII.

RALEIGH, N. C., THURSDAY, JULY 31, 1873.

NO. 344.

ADVERTISING RATES: Advertisements will be inserted in the Daily Sentinel at the following rates per copy of one inch or less...

LATEST TELEGRAPHIC NEWS ON 4th PAGE.

W. M. PITTENGER & CO., 10 State Street, Boston, N. Y. New York, and other cities...

Post Office Directory.

Office hours from 7:30 a. m. to 7 p. m., except on the week days...

WEATHER REPORT.

WASHINGTON, July 30, 1873. On Thursday in the Gulf and South Atlantic states...

METEOROLOGICAL.

REPORTED AT PINE HALLS' CIGAR STORE. RALEIGH, July 30, 1873.

CITY ALMANAC.

July 31, 1873. Sun rises 5:08. Sun sets 7:04.

CITY COTTON MARKET.

Reported daily by W. C. Stronach, Grocer and Commission Merchant, Fayetteville Street.

HOTEL ARRIVALS.

NATIONAL HOTEL—J. M. Blair, Proprietor. J. G. Jones, Oxford; J. D. Cameron, Hillsboro; Dr. W. C. Swanson, N. C.;

STATE NEWS.

The Milton Chronicle says: A thrashing machine belonging to Mr. Sidney Lee, of this county...

HOME AFFAIRS.

Tickets! Tickets! Tickets!!! Remember we furnish tickets for or against Amendments at the small price of 30 cents per thousand.

Raleigh Female Seminary. We are glad to learn that a handsome fountain and water closets consisting of both tubs and water closets were ordered for this school on Monday.

Fine Bread. Mr. Booth, the English Baker, who has recently opened on Davie street, next door to the City Hotel, laid upon our table yesterday, some beautiful samples of his bread.

North Carolina Bonds. On Friday, as we learn from the Wall Street Journal, North Carolina bonds closed at the following quotations:

On Friday, as we learn from the Wall Street Journal, North Carolina bonds closed at the following quotations: North Carolina funding act, 1856, 16 to 18c; North Carolina 6s, funding act, 1863, 18c; North Carolina 6s, special tax—(unconstitutional) 14c.

Curiosity. S. L. Curtis, of Stall No. 18, Metropolitan Market, has a curiosity in the shape of a cabbage. It is a cluster of thirteen well developed heads, all of which grew upon the same stalk.

Heavy on Ice. We are informed by Mr. Nelson A. Blake that he has sold in this city, since the hot weather set in, 40 tons of Boston ice.

Crowding Things. Our neighbor of the News recently mentioned the fact that Mr. D. S. Hudgins, of this city, wrote 695 words on a postal card.

Our Candidate for the Legislature. Mr. Snow, the Democratic-Conservative candidate for the Legislature, returned to the city yesterday after an arduous career of several days.

A Happy Village. We learn from the Danbury Reporter that the doors of the jail are still standing open, and the jailer and his family have gone to Piedmont Springs.

Smallpox. A case of smallpox, which was reported from the Berlin community on the night of the 24th inst., has been traced to the person of a young man named Dennis Smith.

Dr. Gordon's Lecture. On Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Gen. J. B. Gordon, who is the guest of Col. Wm. Johnston, in the city for a few days, delivered an excellent address before the Presbyterian Church.

The National. Maj. J. M. Blair, of the National Hotel announces that on and after the first day of August he will receive table boarders at 40 cents per week.

Banishers for the Medical School. A gentleman writing us from Louisville, Ky., says the trustees of the Louisville Medical College have elected a number of Banishers for the Medical School.

Dr. Gordon's Lecture. On Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Gen. J. B. Gordon, who is the guest of Col. Wm. Johnston, in the city for a few days, delivered an excellent address before the Presbyterian Church.

The National. Maj. J. M. Blair, of the National Hotel announces that on and after the first day of August he will receive table boarders at 40 cents per week.

Banishers for the Medical School. A gentleman writing us from Louisville, Ky., says the trustees of the Louisville Medical College have elected a number of Banishers for the Medical School.

Dr. Gordon's Lecture. On Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Gen. J. B. Gordon, who is the guest of Col. Wm. Johnston, in the city for a few days, delivered an excellent address before the Presbyterian Church.

The National. Maj. J. M. Blair, of the National Hotel announces that on and after the first day of August he will receive table boarders at 40 cents per week.

Banishers for the Medical School. A gentleman writing us from Louisville, Ky., says the trustees of the Louisville Medical College have elected a number of Banishers for the Medical School.

Dr. Gordon's Lecture. On Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Gen. J. B. Gordon, who is the guest of Col. Wm. Johnston, in the city for a few days, delivered an excellent address before the Presbyterian Church.

The National. Maj. J. M. Blair, of the National Hotel announces that on and after the first day of August he will receive table boarders at 40 cents per week.

Banishers for the Medical School. A gentleman writing us from Louisville, Ky., says the trustees of the Louisville Medical College have elected a number of Banishers for the Medical School.

Dr. Gordon's Lecture. On Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Gen. J. B. Gordon, who is the guest of Col. Wm. Johnston, in the city for a few days, delivered an excellent address before the Presbyterian Church.

The National. Maj. J. M. Blair, of the National Hotel announces that on and after the first day of August he will receive table boarders at 40 cents per week.

Banishers for the Medical School. A gentleman writing us from Louisville, Ky., says the trustees of the Louisville Medical College have elected a number of Banishers for the Medical School.

FINE CUT.

Cloudy yesterday but no rain. Eggs are plentiful at lower figures. Nothing before the Mayor's Court yesterday.

Searches and waterworks have become a "drug" upon the market. "A pair of Blue Eyes" is a novel just published in England.

Fashionable ladies wear fans like daggers and parasols like shillelahs. An early Fall is already among the predictions.

Plants should always be washed with white soap, and in warm, but not boiling water. The difficulty between the cotton producers and the cotton buyers of Mecklenburg has been adjusted to the satisfaction of both sides.

On the 7th of next month, be sure to vote for the 5th amendment to the Constitution—that concerning the public debt. Fishing, sailing, bathing and dancing are still the enjoyable sports at Morehead and Beaufort. The hotels continue to be well filled, and the guests are enjoying life to their hearts content.

What is the difference between a bite from a dog wearing a badge and a bite from a dog that has no badge? In one case it is lawful, in the other it is unlawful! A religious journal is of the opinion that young clergymen of the Episcopal Church show "a widely-prevailing, unwise, imprudent, and both personally and for the Church a most injurious, all absorbing passion for matrimony!"

The Sentinel Job Office is now in full blast. Send in your orders. Having secured the services of a very superior job printer we are prepared to do all kinds of job work at short notice.

Election of Officers. On Tuesday night Hickman Lodge No. 1, Independent Order of Good Templars, elected the following officers for the ensuing quarter: N. B. Broughton—W. C. T. Mrs. J. C. R. Little—W. V. T. Jos. W. Holden—R. S. Wm. Brown—F. S. Miss Mary Crowder—T. J. R. Harrison—G. John C. Gorman—M. Miss Bethe Edwards—L. G. Henry Keith—O. G.

Medical Statistics. We take the following statistics from a medical journal of recent publication. There are one hundred and one medical schools in the United States, at eight of which only is homeopathic taught. These 101 schools annually add to the ranks of the medical profession 3,255 doctors of medicine. The whole profession in the United States numbers 62,372. The average age at which medical men begin the active duties of their profession is about 24-3 years. The average time spent by medical students in acquiring a knowledge of their profession is nearly six and a half years. A table of unpublished biographical matter of the two thousand deceased American physicians shows their average of life to be 52 to 100 years. It is also ascertained that there are in the United States 20,247 men physicians than lawyers, and 15,000 less clergy men than physicians, so that, in point of numbers, at least, they lead the other learned professions.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

The One True Religion. We are shown yesterday by the editor of the State of the Day, a copy of the Year Mercury, a newspaper published in Wilmington, N. C., in the year 1793. It is a four-page paper about the size of a book, and is a very curious specimen of the printing of that day. The color of the paper is a deep yellow, the printing is still clear and distinct. It is the greatest curiosity we have yet seen in the way of a newspaper.

LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

There are conflicting reports from the South in regard to the cotton crop. All agree in saying that the acreage is largely increased, but that owing to too much rain in some sections, and not enough in others, the plant is much later than usual.

There are conflicting reports from the South in regard to the cotton crop. All agree in saying that the acreage is largely increased, but that owing to too much rain in some sections, and not enough in others, the plant is much later than usual. I have seen no cotton further South than North Carolina and Virginia, but the greater part in these two States promises a fair yield. The county of Southampton, Va., is nearly the entire South of cotton in the Union, but the plant never in its field and quality is little inferior to that of the South. This is, no doubt, to be attributed to the free use of generous manure, and prominent among them stands the unrivaled "Gilliam's Cotton Fertilizer." All the planters here agree that, taking into consideration its price, it is by all odds the very best in the market. Some go even so far as to assert that it is preferable to Peruvian light guano. In conversation with Mr. Orman, a practical cotton grower, I learned that his cotton, to which he had applied this Fertilizer, was greatly superior to any on his plantation. He assured me that he had this year used several "gans," among them the genuine Peruvian, also that of Guano, and that, pound for pound, he greatly preferred "Gilliam's." His argument is, that wet or dry, it acts cheerfully in a drought supplying, by a process unknown to him, the desired moisture, and causing the plant to retain its vivid green; where that to which many other manures are applied wither and droop beneath the burning sun. He says his cotton crop is the finest he has had for years, and he attributes it all to the use of "Gilliam's." He reports his growth abundant—excellent in color, and that ten days ago he observed many full grown bolls. His enthusiasm in regard to this new-fangled and popular article is unbounded, and it is but just to add that his praises are echoed by many of his neighbors.

I have seen the crop of Mr. James Wrenn, of Herford county, N. C. (P. O. Murfreesboro, N. C.) and must say, that it rivals in luxuriance and thrifty appearance the rich alluvial bottoms of the Roanoke. The foliage of his cotton looks like great fan leaves, green as a leek, and looking forward to the very ground. He has no other bought manure except "Gilliam's Cotton Fertilizer." To jump from farming into politics, there is much sympathy, at least no excitement in regard to the approaching election, though as no issue is made, I think no vote in this section (Herford county) will be cast against the Amendments. I have heard no dissentient voice even among the negroes.

Speaking of election reminds me of one great desideratum of the East, and that is "The Free Land." It sets splendidly wherever it has been adopted. Until it is passed, there will be no stock among us. It certainly would curtail a great deal of useless labor and much expenditure of money. No brass fence locks, no on-sightly hedge rows, would then greet the eye. And the farmer being required to fence in his cattle and hogs, would keep but few, devote more attention to his breeds, and soon the American would approximate the English stock. Bats is much needed in this section, though the scolding class promise, ere many days, an abundant supply.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

THE DANBURY MAN HAS HIS PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN—Having a photograph taken is one of the great events in a man's life. The chief desire is to look the very best, and on the success of the picture hangs the man's self-esteem. As a result, he will do anything to get the best. To work up a picture, however, there are many things to be considered. It is not enough to get a good picture, but it is necessary to get a good one. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man. The man who has a good picture, and who is satisfied with it, will be a happy man. The man who has a bad picture, and who is dissatisfied with it, will be a sad man.

MARKETS.

For the Sentinel. LETTER FROM VIRGINIA. NEWBORN'S DEPOT, SOUTHAMPTON CO., VA., July 28th, 1873.