THE LATE INDIAN BATTLES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.

The official report of Gen. Custar of the Tongue River and Big Horn fights is published here this morning. The first fight occurred on the 4th of August. The General says: The superiority of our enemies in numbers, the long distance separating us from the main command, and the belief, afterwards verified, that the woods above concealed a portion of the savage forces, induced me to confine my movements at first strictly to the defensive.

The Indians outnumbered the troops five to one. Every available officer and man was in the skirmish line, which was in reality our battle line. The Indians displayed unusual boldness, frequently charging up to the line and firing with great deliberation and accuracy.

The fight began at 11:30 a. m., and was waged without cessation until 3 o'clock. Finally a charge was ordered, when the Indians, notwithstanding their superiority in numbers, fled, and were driven pell-mell, three miles. In their flight the Indians threw away the breech loaders, saddles, equipments, clothing, robes, lariats, and other articles of Indian outfit.

So far as the troops attacked were concerned, the Indians, to offset their own heavy losses, had been able to do us no damage, except to wound one man and two horses; but, unfortunately, two noncombatants—Veterinary Surgeon Honsinger, of the Seventh Cavalry, and Mr. Bafrau, of Memphis, Tennessee, endeavoring to come from the main command to join the squadron in advance, were discovered by the Indians during the attack, and, being unarmed, were overtaken and killed, almost within view of the battle-ground.

The battle of Big Horn took place on the 11th of August, when the Indians appeared in strong force on the river bank, opposite to where Custar's command was encamped, and opened a brisk fire, bodies of the savages at the same time crossing above and below the troops. The command was properly distributed to resist all attacks, and when everything was in readiness for a general advance a charge was ordered, and the squadron took the gallop to the tune of Garryowen.

The Indians had evidently come out prepared to do their best, and with no misgivings as to their success, as the mounds and high bluffs beyond the river were covered with groups of squaws, old men, and children, who had collected there to witness our destruction. In this instance the proverbial power of music to soothe the savage breast utterly failed, for no sooner did the band strike up the cheery notes of "Garryowen," and the squadrons advance to the charge, than the Indians exhibited unmistakable signs of commotion, and then the resistance became more feeble, until finally, satisfied of the earnestness of the attack, they turned their ponies' heads, and began a disorderly fight. The chase was continued with the utmost vigor until the Indians were completely dispersed and driven a distance of nine miles from where the engagement took place, and they were here forced back across the Yellowstone.

The last pony killed in the fight was shot eight miles from the point of attack. Indians opposed to us has been estimated by various officers engaged as from eight hundred to a thousand. My command numbered four hundred and fifty officers and men. Our losses were one officer badly wounded, four men killed, and three wounded. Four horses were killed, and three wounded. Careful investigation justifies the statement that, including both days of the battle, the Indians lost forty warriors, while their wounded on the opposite bank of the river may increase that number.

Street Lights.

Cannot our city fathers afford us a little street light during these dark nights? Would it not be better to pay even $100 per month for lights than to be forced to pay $500 or $1,000 damages to somebody with a broken leg?

Ice.

The ice business is becoming very dull. We visited the ice depot late yesterday evening, and were informed that the sales for the day had only reached three hundred pounds. On the 4th day of July the heavy amount of five thousand pounds was disposed of.

An Item.

The Senior and Elder Ward dined together yesterday at Mrs. Row's Exchange. The Senior informed the Elder that he would endow any young lady, that he would court and marry, with his ten thousand dollar judgment against Douglass.

Grand Lodge Good Templars.

We learn from Greensboro, by telegraph, that seventy-five delegates answered to their name yesterday morning. A large number of visitors were present. Senator Troy was elected Grand Worthy Chief Templar. Dr. Thos. H. Pritchard addressed a large audience last light.

New Pavement.

Mr. J. N. Bunting has given the Southern Artificial Stone Company an order to lay the Schillinger walk in two colors, diamond shape, after the style of Parker Place New York, in front of his new store. This will be the first, the finest and only work of the kind in the city.

The Prisoners in Jail.

From present appearances the county commissioners will soon have to take steps to enlarge the county jail. Every day brings new arrivals. Lee is a success as a hotelist, he having at this writing twenty-one regular boarders—five ladies and sixteen gentleman.

Iron Thieves.

Ben Hester and Jim Chiznall were before his Honor Mayor Whitaker, yesterday, for stealing iron from Mr. J. P. Prairie, J. P. They could give no security for their appearance at court and consequently take board, lodging and washing at the Lee House. Still they come.

Building and Loan Association.

The 58rd regular meeting of the Mechanics Building and Loan Association will meet at the court-house on Friday evening the 12th inst., at 7½ o'clock. Members can pay their dues to the Secretary on or before the day of meeting.

Insurance License.

The State Treasurer on the 9th inst., issued a license to Messrs. Wm. L. Smith & Co., of Wilmington, as General Agents of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company Hartford, and on yesterday to the same parties license for the following companies: German American Fire Insurance Company of New York; Atlas Fire Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut. These companies have just entered the State.

Our Living and Our Dead.

This valuable publication makes its regular weekly visits to our sanctum, and we are glad to know that its subscription list is rapidly increasing. We will take pleasure in forwarding subscriptions for any who desire to aid Mr. Pool in the good work of perpetuating the gallantry and heroism of North Carolinas sons in the late war. Every Confederate soldier should take at least one copy. Send in your names.

Pistol Thief.

On yesterday officer Thompson arrested and carried Henry Swann, col., before his Honor, charged with the larceny of a pistol, the property of Mr. John Savage. Henry is a young man from the country, and came into the court room with a bottle of brandy peaches under his arm and his hands full of green peaches. During the progress of the trial Henry ate very unconcernedly and munched his peaches, and when asked what he had to say for himself said, "Nothin', only I never seen dat pistol before." His Honor was so well satisfied he had seen it before that he sent him to jail in default of $200 bail.

FINE CUT.

The weather is damp, cool and disagreeable.

The Graphic balloon did not go up yesterday. See noon dispatches.

The Duke of Edinburg parts his hair in the middle!

There are now two granges in the State of New Hampshire.

It only costs $100 in California to knock a mother in law's tooth out.

A lodge of the Independent Order of Red Men will soon be started in this city.

It is reported that a son and daughter of the famous Davy Crockett are now living near Acton, Hood county, Texas.

There is quite a difference between a luminous and voluminous writer, although many authors confound the two.

The Pawnees are in Omaha purchasing guns, revolvers, and ammunition. The hair raising season is about commencing.

More than a brif million dollars' worth of dismonds have left Saratoga Springs within the last ten days.

Cotton seed, which formerly was waste and worthless to the producer, now brings from nine to ten dollars per ton to make oil.

A German who was asked if lager-beer was intoxicating, replied, "Vell, I trinks from seventy to eighty glasses a day, and I feels all straight in my upper story for any kind of pessiness, but I can't tell vat it would be mit men vat makes a swill-tub of himself."

Barn Burnt.

We were informed, yesterday by a passenger on the Raleigh & Gaston train that on the night of the 3d inst., in Northampton county, the barn and stables of Mr. Geo. Godfrey were destroyed by fire. Three valuable horses perished in the flames. It is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

Serious Accident.

We learn that Mr. C. Galaway, who resides in the upper part of this county, was seriously injured on Saturday last by being thrown from his horse. The horse took fright at a flock of sheep, and springing suddenly to one side, threw its rider violently against a tree, dislocating his shoulder. We are glad to learn that the gentleman is recovering.

Fairbanks Received the Medal of Progress at the Vienna Exposition—the Highest Prize given any Manufacturer of Weighing Machines.

This is a compliment—and one well merited—but better than all prizes is the award of the entire weighing world, which considers Fairbanks' Scales the STANDARD. In spite of largely increased facilities for manufacturing (factories covering over ten acres), the Messrs. Fairbanks find that 1,200 Scales weekly—60,000 yearly—do not meet the present demand.

Using the best materials—employing skilled and experienced help—giving personal attention to the manufacture of the Scales they invented—it is not surprising that they lead the world in the science of weighing.

Splendid Gins.

We are informed by parties who have ordered the celebrated American Needle Cotton Gins in this State that they are giving great satisfaction. It is said that the needle tooth is beyond all question the best device ever invented to prevent the lint from being cut, and it is frequently the case that the same quality of seed cotton will produce two grades better sample on this gin than on the ordinary saw gins. Another great point is the seed is perfectly cleaned, saving at least thirty pounds of lint per bale. These gins have only to be tried to be fully appreciated. They are manufactured by the Remington Agricultural Company, Herkimer county, New York. Yesterday we had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of the travelling agent, Capt. B. H. True.

Justices' Court.

On yesterday afternoon Justices Mingo Croom and Handy Lockhart, (both colored) tried their first case at the Mayor's office. The case was that of James Hall, colored, charged with stealing $9 in U. S. currency from the house of Ed. McCullers, colored, in the village of Oberlin. McCuller's wife testified to having taken her husband's pocket book from Hall's pocket, but could not swear, to her own knowledge, that any money had been taken out of it. Counsel moved for the dismissal of the defendant on the ground that there was no proof that he had abstracted money from the book.

The two justices retired to a side room and after a few minutes consultation returned to the bench when Justice Croom announced the decision of the court, as follows: "The court, after consultation, decide to bind the defendant over to Fall Term, Wake Superior Court, in the sum sum of $200, where he will have the benefit of the judgment of twelve of his fellow-citizens." The bond was given and the two justices descended from the bench with all the dignity of Grassy Sam.

Tobacco continues to improve under favorable weather, and the prospect of an average crop in quantity is much better, but the cut is still green, and consequently there will be a smaller proportion of "bright leaf" made than usual.—Register.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM A WATERY GRAVE.

We copy from the Wilmington Journal the following thrilling account of a bathing scene at Beaufort, which occurred on the 4th inst. It will distress and at the same time gladden many a heart in North Carolina:

A FABULOUS SITUATION.

The bath had been unusually pleasant. The very force with which we had been lifted up and tossed headlong toward the shore, had caused many to forget the dangers, and especially the strong undercurrent which carried us toward the Inlet. When nearly all of the fathers had gone into the dressing rooms, three young gentlemen were still buffeting the angry waters. Now you would see them on the very crest of a monster wave, and then they would disappear in the clouds of spray which it would break. Away off, two couples were rapidly drifting toward the rocks. These were Miss Lucy Guion, of Newbern, with Mr. R. W. Graham, of Charlotte, a son of the Hon. Wm. A. Graham, and Miss Mary Roberts, of Newbern, with Mr. W. B. Short, the eldest son of Mr. H. B. Short, of Waccamaw. The three young gentlemen just refered to had come ashore. These were Mr H. B. Short, Jr., Mr. John D. Hughes, the son of Maj. John Hughes, of Newbern, and Master Edward B. Engelhard, of Wilmington.

DARING AND GALLANT CONDUCT.

Seeing the danger into which these bathers were, and heeding their signals of distress, the three started in a full run to the rescue. Mr. Short and Master Engelhard, together with Master E. R. G. Roberts, of Newbern, who was slightly in advance, rushed for Miss Guion and Mr. Graham, who were now being rapidly drawn into the terrible current which rushes by the rocks, and seized the young lady. A tremendous breaker soon hurled Master Roberts, powerless and almost senseless, upon the rocks, rendering him incapable of giving any assistance. Master Engelhard, surrendering the young lady to Mr. Short, turned to the rescue of Mr. Graham. At this moment a receding wave bore Mr. Short and his now helpless charge, and Mr. Graham, who was also entirely exhausted, far out beyond their depth, and into the furious torrent which swept by the ledge of rocks toward the Inlet. Mr. Short's herculean strength enabled him to swim with the young lady. Taking advantage of the next wave, he made for the rocks, beyond which he was being borne, and succeeded in reaching them. Bearing the young lady in his arms, he climbed to the top. No sooner had he gained the summit of the ledge than he was knocked down and separated from his helpless charge by a huge wave which swept entirely over them; but although badly bruised, he jumped quickly up, and again caught the young lady, and with much difficulty bore her to the shore. Mr. Hughes had rushed to the rescue of Miss Roberts and Mr. W. B. Short, who had been borne beyond the ledge of rocks, Mr. Short gallantly supporting the young lady, but entirely unable, in his exhausted condition, to get her to shore, and each breaker rendering him less able to resist the force of its successor.

At this juncture Mr. Hughes came to their rescue, seized them and was carried into this terrible current with them. The young lady, in her alarm, seized him around the neck and both went under together. In his struggle to free himself from her grasp, which rendered him powerless to aid her, they became separated. He seized her by the hair just as she was being carried into the Inlet, and swimming a stroke with her bore her apparently lifeless form to a grassy mound just beyond the reach of the waves. Mr. Short with a chivalric feeling worthy of the Knights of the olden time, though all the time able to save himself refused to leave the young lady whom he was unable, unaided, to bring to shore, preferring rather to perish with her than to see her consigned to a watery grave.

In the meantime, and after the young ladies had been rescued, Master Engelhard was laboring faithfully to save Mr. Graham. In the excitement incident to the rescue of the young ladies, and the attention their condition required, these two had been overlooked. Mr. Graham was entirely exhausted and unable longer to swim or resist the force of the breakers. Master Engelhard had made one unsuccessful attempt to rescue him, and had been thrown with much force upon the rocks. Plunging again into the waves, he caught Mr. Graham and struggled with him until he was enabled to seize the rocks. Unfortunately Mr. Graham had not the strength to hold on, and the next wave threw him across the ledge into the water beyond. Master Engelhard again plunged in, and the second time brought him to the rocks, being now himself tired and exhausted.

I have never witnessed a more wonderful escape from death, which must have been inevitable but for the

of those three young gentlemen who rescued the party from a watery grave.

A TOUCHING SCENE.

It requires just such an occasion as I have described to develop character; and in the midst of this fearful scene an incident occurred which has made a lasting impression upon me.

While Miss Mary Roberts was lying upon the beach almost lifeless, surrounded by a few gentlemen who were doing all in their power to restore her to consciousness, her mother, who had heard that her daughter was drowned, herself an invalid, approached the spot bloodless and breathless. Friends were quieting her fears as to her daughter's true condition. The poor child, who had until then given no signs of life, knowing the evil effects of the intense excitement upon her mother, with a devotion I have never seen excelled, summoned all her little regained strength, attempted to rise, and being helped, said feebly, "Mother, I am not hurt!" then overpowered by the effort, fell back lifeless upon the grass. How my heart went out to that brave young girl, who forgot her own sufferings, and thought only of her mother! And O, how her noble thoughtfulness sent the life-blood back to the cheeks and lips of her relieved parent!

The terrible scene over, and happily over, the various parties returned late to Beaufort with light and happy hearts, the shadow of the fearful incident just casting a shade of sadness upon their merriment.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The Asheville Citizen gives an account of a serious fracas in Fairview Township, between G. W. Michal and a Mr. Earwood in which Michal was stabbed, will probably die. Earwood was committed to jail. Michal is reported as the aggressor.

Should cotton escape the effects of the present equinoctial, the promise in Orange for a good crop is very fine. The quantity raised within a few miles of Hillsboro is enough to authorize the erection of a public gin and baling house. Now is the opportunity for well directed enterprise.—Recorder.

That freak of lightning reported last week is accounted for from the fact that a very large rock 12 to 15 inches under the surface extends several hundred yards from the tree struck, and to the creek bank. The course of the thunderbolt was marked very distinctly for some distance down the creek at intervals, and finally disappeared in a large hole in the rock.—Vindicator.

Our Newton people were delighted with the Concert given by the talented young ladies, Misses Jenkins and Eddins, last Tuesday night, in behalf of the Oxford Orphan Asylum. An appreciative audience greeted them with rapturous applause and a handsome sum netted for the commendable object to which they are giving their time and talent. They went from here to Morganton, where we hope they will have a large audience to-night.—Vindicator.

HOW TO LIGHTEN WOMAN'S LABOR.—If "time is money," then everything tends to facilitate labor is a positive pecuniary benefit to mankind. The best sewing machine or churn is not a "good strong woman," as experience proves. So Sapolio, in ennobling one woman to easily do as much cleaning of every kind in one day as two women can do in two days with the scrubbing brush and soap, is a positive blessing to the human race. No woman who has once used it will ever use anything else as a substitute. Sold by all dealers. The cheapest as well as the best cleaning substance in the world. sept 9.

A DOWN-TOWN MERCHANT recently sued his druggist for a tempt to defraud. He was suffering from inflamed kidneys and asked for Dr. Helmbold's Buchu. The druggist gave him another kind, upon which the profit was greater. Instead of relieving the patient as the genuine preparation had always done, the imitation compound aggravated the disease and a long and distressing illness followed. The court, after full hearing, gave judgment for the plaintiff with costs. MORAL, buy only the genuine.

ADOPT THE PREVENTIVE POLICE.—Seven spells of biliousness, indigestion, chills and fever, dizziness, nervous headache and physical exhaustion are quite usual at this season. These are visitations which everybody is anxious to avoid, and as a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will unquestionably fortify the system against them, the most valuable medical advice which can be offered at this time to persons subject to such complaints or at all sensitive to atmospheric changes, is to commence taking this powerful vegetable alterative and invigorant without delay. Forty-eight hours will not have elapsed after the first dose before a marked change will have manifested itself in the condition of the system. The ultimate result will be a habit of body so regular, a genial condition so vigorous, that however unhealthy the season may chance to be, the system thus refreshed and reinforced will be in the best possible trim to encounter it.
