Cotton.

Notwithstanding our advice to the farmers to hold on to the r cotton and not sell at the present low price, fifty-three bales were sold yesterday at the low figure of 151 cents. It is none of our business, particularly, but we don't like to see our hard working farmers sacrifice their labor in this manner, and we feel sure that those who have done so will regret it, and that too in a very few days.

The National Hotel.

We direct the attention of the traveling public to the advertisement of the National Hotel to be found in another column of to-days SENTINEL. We are pleased to learn from the proprietor, Maj. J. M. Blair, that the hotel is doing an excellent business. That the house is doing large share of the business in this city is evident from the large number of arrivals published daily in the SENTINES.

A Bridge that won't be Built.

The people of Brunswick county, on Saturday last, voted upon the proposition to build a bridge across Brunswick river. Only a few precincts have yet been heard from, but the Star says they are sufficient to show that the scheme has been voted dicate that it had but very few friends. Any proposition, even though it be the building of a bridge, looking to an increase of taxation, just at the present, is naturally viewed with misgivings by the people.

Lent's Circus.

C. C. Moore, agent for Lent's Great New York Circus, called at our office on yesterday and informed us that his show is believed that whatever injury may arise would exhibit in this city, at the old Baptist Grove, on Wednesday, the 10th of October next. The circus is now exhibiting in the State of Virginia, and will reach this State about the first of next month. The bills will probably be posted to-day on Morgan street and the advertisement will appear in the SENTINEL OR Saturday morning.

The Vienna Exposition.

The next number of the State Agricultural Journal will contain a lengthy and very interesting letter from Prof. Kerr, who was present and represented North Carolina at the Vienna Exposition. The letter will be peculiarly interesting to North Carolinians, as it gives a detailed account of the part taken by our State in this long-to-be remembered gathering of the peoples of the Earth.

The Causes and Benefits of the Financial Excitement

As we are not specially versed in banking operations, our personal experience with such institutions being extremely limited, we have not had much to say about the great financial excitement. We have waited to see the extent and direction of the storm, and to learn something of its origin, progress, and close, if the last should speedily come. We have left In repairing the sidewalk on Hargett it to our telegraphic dispatches to tell the Street yesterday, the commissioner amitted story, and to our readers to draw their own deductions. . We judge from all of our Northern exchanges that the height A female lecturer in Boston said: "Get of the storm has been reached, and that parried, young men, and be quick about such failures as may hereafter occur will not be of a magnitude sufficient to effect angels. You would look well beside the country at large. Our exchanges agree fully in the conclusion that no serious "Which side of the street do you live damage threatens the mercantile world, and that the recent sharp experiences will work much good in clarifying the finansir. If you go one way, it's on the right cial atmosphere, and in purifying the monetary operations of the country.

As we stated a few days ago the causes which have led to the flurry in financial circles, have originated in the very excessive inflation of railroad speculations, The expansion in this branch of finanering was unnatural and unhealthy, and has engrossed far too much of the capital of the country. If the excitement of the last few days shall cause , such operations to be discontinued, or force them to ter unreasonable railroad expansion. It duration. We copy the following from the N. Y. "The present trouble dates back to the time when Secretary Boutwell tried to district in Congress years fund his loan from six per cent, to five per cent. This was in 1871, Prudent men said it could not be successfully done, and they were right. Boutwell kept money easy, for five or all months, in the effort to get the people to take his loan, but instead of funding his own loan to any extent he enabled small houses to float private milroad loans and enabled large houses to expand. We should have been back to specie payments but for these railroad bond speculators. We have been working back to it several times, but hard filmes came on, and gov-ernment wouldn't allow it.
