

THE SENTINEL

JOURNAL PUBLISHED WEEKLY... T. H. KINGSBURY, Associate Editor.

SUBSCRIBE TO THE SENTINEL... SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS... We are making the Sentinel a better paper than it ever was.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS... We will send the paper until the first of January 1874 as follows: Daily $2.00, Semi-Weekly 1.25, Weekly .50.

FARJON—THE NOVELIST... The Petersburg Index and Appeal... Farjon's 'London's Heart' is pronounced shabby and insignificant.

THE APPEAL... The Appeal discovered before its birth... even that Farjon was a colonial, alpine, Himalayan fraud.

THE APPEAL... Such miscellaneous provision is no less a wonder to us than the 'fraud'... We trust that we may be pardoned for wondering how the Appeal, even then, could discover a 'fraud' and condemn its perpetrator.

THE APPEAL... We are more disposed to criticize language profanely critical than to notice the errors and inconsistencies, humorous or otherwise, that so frequently occur in its hastily written editorial paragraphs.

THE APPEAL... We are glad to see that the construction of a railway about 40 miles in length, to meet the Virginia and Tennessee R.R. near Marion.

THE APPEAL... We have men in Charlotte possessed of all the energy, enterprise and capital necessary to make this company successful.

THE APPEAL... This factory, we hope, will be the first of the kind in the South.

THE APPEAL... We like that amusingly. It reads well. There is some hope for the 'future Legion of the South'.

THE APPEAL... We are not surprised that the English literary press terms with enthusiastic notices of his works.

them poor and ignorant, and prevented the development of this fine country. Their manners and customs, and above all the peculiarities of their language, form an interesting study to the casual traveler.

Its great mineral wealth is likely to lead before long to a further development of this region. A brief notice of some of its mineral deposits will not, therefore, be out of place. I might speak of the numerous beds of iron ore of the magnetic species, some of which, from the descriptions given and from the specimens which I have seen, are very similar to those of Lake Champlain.

The deposits of copper in this region are, however, far more extensive than those of iron. Valuable lodes are known a little to the southward in Georgia, and again at various points to the north-east, between the Blue Ridge and the Unaka Mountains. One of these in Ashe county, N. C., has lately attracted much attention as the Ore Knob mine, and, although opened only a few months, has disclosed a deposit of copper ore of almost unexampled richness.

We trust that we may be pardoned for wondering how the Appeal, even then, could discover a 'fraud' and condemn its perpetrator—or how being born, it could possess sufficient penetration to discover a 'fraud' before its birth.

This is indeed a wise conclusion at which the great historian and statesman has arrived. Whilst he has by a life extending through more than three score years and has learned that a monarchical government necessarily excludes liberty from it, thousands of so-called Republicans in our own land are forgetting this very lesson, and are planning and scheming to overthrow and destroy the liberties of the people.
