Superior Court,

This tribunal was engaged most of yesterday in the trial of Ben, King, charged with burning the grist and saw mills of Wilhe Lynn, seven miles north-west of we learn, the announcement for Tucker's Raleigh, in the spring of 1863. Solicitor Cox and Maj. A. M. Lewis prosecuted, the defence was conducted by Judge Fowle, R. H. Battle and J. M. We saw by the Wilmington press that the blow of Monday noon last extended its fury to that town, where in fulfilment

From the testimony for the State it appears that one evening, an hour before sunset, in the mouth of June, 1863, Mr. Lynn closed his mills and went to his house, some three miles distant, leaving no person on the premises. There had been no fire about the place on that day, the weather being warm. Next morning on returning to the place he found the mances. This is a legitimate equestrian grist mill consumed and the saw mill still borning, Suspicion fell upon King as the perpetrator of the outrage and steps were taken to bring him to justice,

The testimony of Mr. Lynn showed hat friends of Kings sought to comptomise the matter and he (Lynn) proposed to receive $500 and the legal expense then incurred to have the matter quashed. King, who are present when this offer was made declined the proposition, declaring that he would rather leave the money to his family and serve a term to the penitentiary. He at the same time dealed having fired the

A few moments ago I called on Dr. Lewellyn Warren, an eminent practitioner of our city, and was informed, that his brother, Dr. Edward Warren, Surgeon to the Pasha of Egypt, was born in Tyrrell county, N. C., in 1828, on the farm where Mr. Sam'l Alexander now resides. He moved to Baltimore after the war and has never resided in Virginia. His father, Dr. William C. Warren, being a Surgeon in Lyuchburg during the war, remained there in the practice of medicine, until his death, twelve months ago last December. Dr. Edward Warren's mother, wo sisters and a brother reside near Lyachburg. So your Lynchburg exchange is mistaken.
