FOREIGN NOTES. Nearly three fourths of the English people belong to the wage-earning class. Without reckoning exports, the English consumption of coal amounts to 140,000,000 tons per annum.

HOME AFFAIRS.

First Week of the Season. Tuesday night was the coldest of the season in this section. We hear of this in Wake and Chatham.

Alarm of Fire. The alarm of fire on yesterday morning was occasioned by the burning of a foul chimney in the Methodist parsonage. The fire brigade was as prompt as usual.

Battleboro Appeal. Such is the title of a new paper to be published near the little village of Battleboro. It is to be edited by a Virginian. The Advance is heretofore to be published at Wilson.

Deep River Navigation Company. A regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Deep River Navigation Co. was held at the Executive office, in this city, yesterday. Nothing of public interest was transacted.

Public Speaking. The Editor proposes to speak in Pittsboro on Tuesday of the next Chatham court, on the unification of Bridgwater, Radical and Railroad Rings, and to show that newspapers are run by railroad Presidents with a view of corrupting the Legislature.

Edwards, Broughton & Co. By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that this firm has removed to the new building of Williamson, Upchurch & Thomas. They are clever men and first class printers. They are succeeding capitally and they deserve to do so.

A "Sweet" Potato. Any person who desires to see a sweet potato which weighed four pounds and three quarters after being some time out of the ground—will not see it at the SENTINEL office, for it has gone home. It was raised within half a mile of this office and is of the Barbadoes species.

Rev. Dr. Lyman. The London Saturday Review mentions among the distinguished Protestants who attended the Old Catholic Congress that met at Constance on 31st August, "Dr. Lyman, Bishop-elect of North Carolina." We may mention that, Bishop Reinken* stated that since 1870 the Old Catholics had grown from fourteen to 50,000 members. President Schulte said there were 200,000 in Germany alone. The Review further says that Dr. Lyman and Dean Howson, of England, officiated at the English service on Sunday.

"Christian Reid." The Petersburg Appeal says: A new novel, entitled A Daughter of Bohemia, and depicting life in a Southern city, will begin in Appleton's Journal of October 25th. It is written by CATHERINE REID, author of Valerie Lygner and other popular and powerful stories. Miss Reid, we believe, is a North Carolina lady, and has already produced literary creations of which the good North State may well be proud.

The name of the lady is, Mrs. Fisher, daughter of the late gallant Col. Fisher, of the 9th North Carolina, who was killed at the first battle of Manassas. She was born, we believe, in Salisbury.

A Girl in Police Custody. Jack Pool, col., was before Mayor Whitaker yesterday morning charged with resisting police officer Sampson Anderson whilst in the discharge of the duties of his office. W. W. Jones, Esq., appeared for Pool. A large number of witnesses were examined. From the somewhat conflicting testimony we gathered the following facts. Early in the morning officer Anderson, accompanied by his brother-in-law, visited the saloon and restaurant of Hubbard & Harrison, Hargett Street, for the purpose of getting breakfast, and found Jack Pool standing at the bar. Jack was under the influence of liquor and evidently in a quarrelsome mood; for without cause he cursed the policeman and his friend. On being remonstrated with by Anderson and being told to quit cursing him, Jack moved towards the back door of the bar room, near which Anderson was standing, and drew from his pocket a clasp-knife with a blade four or five inches long. Anderson told Jack not to draw his knife and stepped into the yard after him where he seized a posse of plank and dealt the assailant one or two severe blows on the head, inflicting serious-looking wounds. Jack was then taken to the guardhouse where he remained being locked up. The policeman received a slight cut on the right hand.

Mr. Jones, for the defence, rested a city ordinance which prohibits police officers from visiting drinking houses except in discharge of their duties; and insisted that as Anderson visited the saloon in question not in discharge of his duty, he was there without any rights whatever. He insisted, also, that the policeman in following Jack into the yard, and that the severe wounds of Anderson, at least his chief wound, was guilty of being engaged in an affray, and he thought it the duty of his Honor to send both parties to the Superior Court.

Mayor Whitaker did not concern with the case as it is the first point. It had been shown that the officer went to the place as a restaurant, to get breakfast, and had a right to be there. In the entire transaction he regarded Pool as the aggressor and inflicted a fine of $10 upon him.

There are upwards of thirty Catholic churches in Raleigh, four of them in the county of York. The priests of one of the latter have passed a resolution in favor of Home Rule. Three or four bishops openly favor the same cause. Some forty or fifty Irish members are likely to be on that side in the next Parliament.

RALEIGH SOME FORTY YEARS AGO.

Extracts from a Boy's Journal. Our boy continues his record of events in our city during his year 1840. "In this year a race-course was built about two miles from the city, at which thousands assembled in the fall and spring.

"THE MARKET HOUSE SPIKE." "In this year, also, occurred the celebrated 'Market House Spike.' The old market-house was situated on Hargett street, generally called 'Grog Alley,' from the great number of grog shops on it. A town meeting was called and it was determined that a new market-house, with a city hall, should be built. The triumphant party, in favor of the new building, greatly excited, to the no little chagrin of the friends of the old market-house, principally grog-sellers, whose interests would in a great measure suffer by the removal. They and others who owned stores near by, used every effort to defeat the new movement, but to no purpose.

"Soon after the success of the New Market-House Party, in honor of their signal victory, they concluded to have a celebration. At night a large number of respectable citizens assembled, and, with a band of music, they formed a long procession and marched through all the principal streets. In their rounds they proceeded through the old market-house, the band playing the 'dead march.' As they reached the center of the street and were partly through the house, a furious onset was made by a band of ruffians and the old Market-House Party, who were armed to the teeth with every kind of deadly weapon. Several in the procession were severely cut and stabbed, and a bloody battle raged for a time. In a few minutes the procession had broken up and those who composed it had rushed to their homes, armed themselves with pistols, bowie knives, dirks, &c., and returned to the scene of action, dispersed their assailants, and reformed and continued the march; but during the march several fights occurred. One confused struggle and severe contest occurred in the store of K. Finlander & Boyd. The house was crammed almost to suffocation and all who could were engaged in the fight. Several of the combatants were seriously stabbed. At a late hour the respective forces withdrew and quiet reigned once more.

"THE SEMI-WEEKLY REGISTER." "During this year, (1840,) Weston R. Gales started the Semi-Weekly Register, and was assisted in the editorial duties by Mr. Joe Gales, just returned from Washington city. J. H. Martin, the eldest apprentice, left the Register for Alabama and started the Alabama Herald. Subsequently, W. W. Whitaker and J. B. Whitaker left, and went into business in this city; and A. M. Gorman, an old apprentice of Mr. Gales, and J. G. Johnson, his nephew, were employed, both of whom had published papers in the South. Three new apprentices were taken—W. H. Campbell, W. W. Smith and James Whitaker—all natives of the city.

"Mr. and Mrs. Gales this year attended the great Whig celebration at Duncker Hill. The flag Mr. Gales carried there with the North Carolina delegation, I have since had. In going down to the Henderson celebration I holsted it upon one of the cars, but the staff was struck by a limb of a tree and the flag was lost.

DEATH OF JOSEPH GALES. In 1841, Mr. Joseph Gales died, lamented by all who knew him. His remains were attended to by hundreds of mourning friends and were buried with all the honors due a distinguished public citizen. A fitting tribute was thus paid to the memory of an exemplary, estimable and worthy man who labored all his life in the cause of liberty and humanity. Joe Gales left no enemy in the world."

DEATH OF MRS. W. A. GALE. In 1842 we were called upon to lament the sudden and unlooked-for death of Mrs. Weston R. Gales. In apparent good health and surrounded by the comfort and happiness which a fond and loving husband could bestow, her beautiful and interesting children around her, the circle was suddenly broken and sorrow beclouded the happy tones. Among her acquaintances her loss was grievously felt and mournfully exhibited, but who can paint the anguish of the stricken household?

In our next we will close our extracts from the "Journal of a Boy."

"TO THERE'S ANOTHER STORY OF Mount Vesterion" said Mr. Partington, as she put up her spears: "The paper tells us about the burning tower running down the mountains, but I don't tell how it got a fire?" And the venerable dame related one of her brave stories, from which the story is condensed, by a selection of bits from the, who in some places attempt to read "popovers" on the old Vesterion stone, but with his fingers, and managed to get his coat-ail aglow, and he lay first put out the fire—then put out his, and afterwards acknowledged that she had never been "put out" or "run" in all her long days, or moments of the fight she had received! And how pertinent to put out a good word for that popular "Editorial" in the Great Boy's Journal "Cook," whose name I notice long ago set the country aglow with enthusiasm! It is really the most complete cook in the market! Messrs. Stuart, Peterson & Co., Philadelphia, are the manufacturers.

There are several of Old Catholic churches regularly organized in Germany, 23 in Prussia, 23 in Saxony, and 21 in Baden, with over 50,000 members, and three times as many more devoted and pious adherents scattered throughout the Empire.

The Plague-Stricken City.

We are glad to learn that the people of Raleigh are continuing to contribute to the support of the Memphis sufferers. We reported yesterday $1,100 as having been sent. Mr. Bryan informs us that he will send to-day $70 additional which comes from the Episcopal and Baptist Female Seminaries. We think Raleigh has done well. The plague is still raging fearfully and the sufferings of the poor are intense and wide-spread. Since September 13th over fifteen hundred people have died, as we learn from the Memphis Appeal. Its issue of last Saturday contains the following gratifying intelligence:

"The frost of Thursday, and of last night have no doubt had the effect of staying the progress of the disease, and it is the opinion of physicians and others competent to judge, that it is on a permanent decline. The number of new cases reported yesterday are very much less than those reported the day before, and the disease is now yielding more readily to treatment. The outlook is, therefore, most hopeful. God grant it may continue so."

We have good hope that the present cold spell will hasten the decline of the fever. Every benevolent heart will offer up a prayer for the staying of the pestilence.

The Baby-Carriage Nuisance. The attention of the city government is directed to the afternoon procession of baby-carriages which have for some time been regarded as a public nuisance. The nurses with their charges in their little carriages are in the habit of congregating every fine afternoon in Capitol Square and forming processions in which to parade Fayetteville Street to the great inconvenience of pedestrians on business, and at the peril of the lives of the children. Instances of runaway horses dashing through the streets, frightened by these baby-carriages, are by no means rare. The last case was the fright of the fine mare of William Grimes, Esq., on yesterday. The mare was standing quietly attached to a buggy opposite Captain Lawrence's insurance office when a child's carriage passed and so frightened the mare that she sprang round, turned over the buggy, and rushed towards the corner, at the office of Hon. W. H. Battle & Sons, ran round the tree at that point several times, the buggy at her heels, and before she could be secured had torn the vehicle to pieces. Fortunately the sidewalk at the time was free from passers by, or the consequence might have been disastrous. The Capitol grounds are the proper place for the airing of children; or if the nurses insist upon displaying themselves upon the streets they should be compelled to parade only the less frequented ones. This is a matter which commands attention especially to parents. We fear, however, that it will require a few first class fatal accidents to arouse either the city authorities or the parents in the danger we are pointing out.

Commissioner's Meeting. The regular monthly meeting of the Board of City Commissioners took place last night. The report reached us too late for this issue.

The Societ Concert. The concert by the Societ club of Raleigh, assisted by the professors of several Baptist churches of the city and neighborhood, for the benefit of the Memphis sufferers, and other sufferers has been postponed till Friday, November 7th.

Miller & Clifton having entered into copartnership, have fitted up the establishment known as Prairie's old stand, in excellent style for the Restaurant business. Fine elegant carpets, neatly papered rooms, and a large spacious billiard hall, oct 15-11.

LITERARY GOSSIP.

Walt Whitman is reported to be dangerously ill. Carleton is shortly to issue "Bill Arp's Peace Papers." Guizot has published a pamphlet in favor of monarchy.

MM. About and Herve have been fined 200 francs each for fighting a duel. The Rev. George Hens on has written a book on "The Application of the Principles of Evolution to Religion. What next?"

The London Athenaeum is now printing Mr. M. About's letters to that journal on the current literary news of Paris, in the original French.

The Oriental is the title of a new London magazine, designed to treat of subjects connected with the East. It is edited by Mr. J. H. Stoughton.

Dr. Strauss, author of the "Life of Jesus," has been obliged to abandon literary pursuits by an illness from which his physicians give him no hope of recovery.

"The History of the Second North-German Polar Expedition in 1869-70 by the ships Germania and Hansa," edited and condensed by H. W. Bates, will soon appear in London.

"Poems by the Claimant's Counsel" is a feature in a recent number of the London Mirror. Certain of the poems, bearing on matters connected with Dr. Kennedy's legal experience, are exceedingly curious.

Miss Bradton's next novel will be published in October, and will be entitled "Lucius Davoren, or, Publicans and Binnern." The new work will appear, simultaneously in France, Germany, America and England.

Miss Thackeray is publishing a second series of "Modern Fairy Tales" in the Cornhill. She turns the beans for which Jack sells his mother's cow into shaves in the Ecclesiel newspaper, an organ for the agricultural laborers.

A full report of the proceedings of the Evangelical Alliance, with speeches and addresses complete, under the editorship of Dr. Philip Schaff, will be published by Harper and Bros. It will probably make an octavo of at least a thousand pages.

The Rev. Isaac Taylor, author of "Words and Places," has written a book entitled "Etruscan Researches." Mr. Taylor hopes that he has discovered the key to the Etruscan language; and that he may be able to decipher many of the hitherto unread inscriptions.

"A Dose in Time" is—"A stitch in time saves nine." It is equally certain that a dose of healthy tonic, like Postle's's Sarsaparilla, taken at the first onset of disease of the year may save many an unpleasant season. A dose, however, is not sufficient. The system should be thoroughly charged with this most valuable stimulant and invigorant Commence taking it with the commencement of the atmospheric changes which distinguish winter from the autumn. Thereby you will avoid those disturbances of the digestive and secretory organs, and those painful diseases of the muscles and the nerves of sensation, which often render the period of the year which should be the most serene, a season of poisons and dispute also. The extraordinary vigor and regularity which this exhilarating restorative imparts to the most important functions of the body, makes it indispensable for nervous debility, constipation, indigestion, torpidity of the liver, and intermittent fevers.

"A MEXICAN RESTAURANT.—This gentleman having positively refused the usual business of the market, some, respectively, formed the public gathering that will run on with it in winter, with all everything else that the market affords. The man Peoples will "run up" behind the bar so as who may do anything in that line. His RESTAURANT has been recently put in splendid order by a first-class workman.

BILL OF FARE.—Messrs. Miller & Clifton will receive daily five Newmarket Cysters in the shell. They will also have Wild Ducks, Turkeys, Birds and in fact everything usually kept in a first class Restaurant.

The Restaurant will be under the personal superintendence of Mr. Jas. Freeman who cannot be excelled. Finner's old stand, Fayetteville street oct 22-1

PROSPECTUS FOR 1874—SEVENTH YEAR.

THE ALDINE, An Illustrated Monthly Journal, universally admitted to be the Handsomest Periodic in the World. A Representative and a Champion of American Taste.

Not For sale in Book or News stores. The ALDINE, while bound with all the regularity, has not only the literary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of prose, light and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated when it has been bound up—the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, it combined with the literary and timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals, the possession of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engraving in any other shape or number, of volumes for the year, and then, there are the illustrations.

PREMIUM FOR 1874. Every subscriber to THE ALDINE for the year 1874, will receive a special chromo. The original picture were painted in oil for the publisher of THE ALDINE, by Thomas Moran whose great Colorado pictures were purchased by Congress for ten thousand dollars. The subjects are chosen to represent "The East" and "The West." Thus, a view in the "Wild West" is contrasted with the other "The Glories of Green River, Wyoming Territory. The difference in the nature of the scenes themselves is a pleasing contrast, and affords an opportunity of comparing the scope and coloring. The chromo are each worked from thirty distinct plates, and are in size (12 1/2 by 16) and appearance exact the same as the original. A collection of a worthy example of America's greatest landscape painter to the subscribers of THE ALDINE was a bold but peculiarly happy idea, and its successful realization is attested by the following testimonial, over the signature of Mr. Moran himself.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 20th, 1873. Messrs. JAMES T. MOYER & CO. Gentlemen:—I have the pleasure to inform you of the receipt of your chromo. They are wonderfully so beautiful, representing as they do, the scenery of the original paintings. I have the pleasure to inform you of the receipt of your chromo.
