The New York Herald of the 16th Inst. ontains a letter written from Raleigh, upon which we will draw from some iews, without intending to inderse all he ays. The letter begins at follows :

Although Wilmington is the chief city, both it commerce and population, Raleigh is the money centre of North Carolina. The three banks here centrel half the banking capital in the State, and their lines of discount have usually extended accommo lation to Wilmington and sarious of the other business centres of North

Their costomers and those o whom they made advances for the cotton crop are coming up and paying part, and in throwing just enough of their produce into the market to relieve their merchants, all hands appear to feel satis-fied that the worst the crisis can do for them is to dissipate anticipated profits.

Here are some interesting facts concern ing the cotton factories of the State: Colonel Thomas M. Holt, of Alamance, ne of the largest gotton manufacturers of the State, informs your correspondent that E. M. Holt's Hons and J. H. & W. E. Holt & Co., of Graham; Holt & Newlin,
