EDITORIAL ENTRETTES.

There is one State that is out of debt—Wisconsin. It has never had a carpet-bag Legislature. Littlefield, Swepson & Co., have never visited that section.

The Granges in the Northwest are represented as being united and enthusiastic. They will yet play, within the next two years, an important part in the great drama of Republicanism.

Wilkie Collins, now lecturing in the North, will soon begin the publication of another of his exciting and striking stories, the scene to be laid near New York city, and the publication to be serially.

As an example of the style of singing that prevails in fashionable circles we copy the following, in which pronouncing too much is quite apparent, from Old and New:

"Ah, my ho-haw-haw-boys, These are the jaw-haw-boys Of the ho-ho-ho-but and the bray-haw-haw. Who love a life-of-life life, Of all and strife-life life, And a ho-ho-ho-ho on the bow-wow-wounding wave."

We are sorry to see it stated that Grant has refused to accept Slicker's resignation as Minister to Spain. Grant is an immense blunderer. If nothing else would establish his pig-headedness, his appointments would. He has had one of the most inferior Cabinets ever known, and each more on his part but reveals the stupidity and stubbornness of the man.

One of the most disgraceful, shameful things yet done by the present U. S. Senate was the selection of the notorious Matt Carpenter as President pro tem of that body. His career at Long Branch last Summer was of a character to forever disqualify him for a seat in that body, much less to entitle him to whatever of honor it had to bestow. O tempora, O mores.

The Cubans do not like the arrangement of the Spanish Government to deliver up the Virginias and her surviving crew, and the blood and thunder representatives in Congress do not fancy the settlement made by Mr. Fish. Let all grumblers who prefer war to peace, volunteer for the war now raging in Cuba, and march under the patriot banner of that little island.

It has leaked out in the U. S. House of Representatives that Grant's pay amounts to the snug little sum of $400,000 for one term. No wonder he wishes to be re-elected. Who would not be President if paid $100,000 for one year—the greater part of which to be spent "in bobbing around!" Two hundred and seventy-eight dollars a day will keep a fellow well supplied with good cigars and biscuits.

The House Committee on Post Office is bent on restoring the franking system or its equivalent. It was a great error and fraud upon the nation and any member who votes for it ought to be marked at home. The plan now is to give unrestricted circulation to public documents through the mails. This will open the Pandora's box and out will fly all manner of bills and curses. We all well understand that everything a Congressman wishes to send through the mails, whether it be a solid brick, baby-jumper, a Webster's dictionary or a pair of boots, will be forwarded as Pub. Doc.

Marshal McPherson, or, as he is now called by the press, Marshal-President, has given the Republicans minority in the French Assembly to understand that he means to "run the machine" without their help of advice. In other words, he is a Dictator for seven years, and he asks neither favor nor counsel. The recent elections in some parts of France indicate increased Republican strength. We have steadfastly insisted for months that the people of France, snarled by bayonets and intimidated by their representatives, would declare for liberty and a Republic. At least an overwhelming majority of the people are sick of an Empire.

Whoever supposed Union Simple was a man of "nerve," but so he is! He especially hates Sumner, and we take it, Sumner has no special fondness for Hyman. At any rate, Grant is credited with the two following "nerve" remarks: He said to the negroes who stole Sumner's carpets, &c., that if they did not get their rights, it would be "because an extreme measure is urged by some persons who claim to be particular friends of the colored man." Now this is a fair, square hit—a regular "joltin'" Grant would have no belief that he is in favor of Sumner's civil rights bill. His other piece of "nerve" was this: Sumner was asked that Sumner did not believe the "Black Guard" would, "Why should he, he did not say."

Grant is wonderful. His selections for office are amazing. And now John L. Pennington, formerly of Raleigh, has been made Governor of Dakota Territory. He is well characterized by the Wilmington Journal as a "Buffalo." He trades in principle just as a Chatham Street Jew does in old clothes. Well, if John should break down at playing Governor he can take to his old business and once more his enormous voice may be heard under the wide-spreading Circus canvas—"Here's your cool lemonade—only five cents a glass."

We gave a very graphic pen-description of Stephens, of Georgia, the other day, taken from a western paper. Here is a picture of Maynard, of Tennessee, the Southern Blat, who is the author of the "iron-clad" oath. It is no doubt "done to life."

I presume some of you have seen Maynard. He is a tall man with angular joints and scraggy bones, upon which but little meat has found lodgment. His head is a mishapen octohedron, garnished with a nose that suggests a cross between a pickered and a porcupine. This abnormal head is covered with a shock of hair that resembles a hemp-bale struck by lightning and the brain that is popularly supposed to inhabit its recesses flickers at you out of a pair of little eyes which make you think of a weasel reconnoitering for rats from under a hay-stack.

The speech of Alexander H. Stephens in defence of the "salary grab" has excited a vast deal of comment in the public press. We are not surprised at Mr. Stephens' independence and boldness, for that is an old characteristic of the man, but we are surprised at the position he assumes. He says he would have taken the "back pay," and kept it. He sustains the whole thing out and out, and without any equivocation or dodging. We regret Mr. Stephens' great abilities will give character to an act that has met with universal condemnation. But in spite of all that he or any other leader may say, the country does not favor the bill by which the expenses of Congress were so much increased.

The confirmation of Alex. H. Stephens as Governor of the District of Columbia, by the U. S. Senate, is in keeping with their action in regard to Carpenter. Stephens is a corrupt knave—a regular Boss Tweed of a fellow—a well known public plunderer, and still he is pronounced by the body in which once Clay, Calhoun, Gaston, Mason, Berrien, Bell, Webster, John Davis and other pure men in the better days of the Republic had seats, as a fit man to govern the District. Nothing more marks the degeneracy of the men and the corruption of the times than such wicked and disgraceful action. But we forget that this is the age of Credit Mobiliers, swindlers and pinchback politicians. When such stained and dishonored men as Morton and Cameron and Beas Butler are the exponents of the Government and the representative men of their party in the North, how can we expect the elevation to high offices of trust and honor of men of great abilities and unblemished reputations!

The Grant Administration is, by all comparison, the most tyrannical, unjust, extravagant and corrupt of any that we have had. As to its extravagance there is no sort of question. The New York Tribune, in a well considered article, shows, by a comparison of Johnson's Administration with Grant's, that in 1873 the latter expended in eighteen items over fifty per cent. more than Johnson did in 1868. Take the following items as a sample:

Table with 3 columns: Item, 1868, 1873. Items include Civil, Congress, Executive, Judiciary, Post-Office, War-Department, Navy-Department, and Miscellaneous.

The Tribune then remarks, and we call attention to it: Congress grows expensive in the same ratio that it grows contemptible. As the Judiciary sinks in public estimation the administration of justice rises in cost. Public buildings and for five times as much as they did five years ago. Indian affairs require double the amount they did in 1868, but what percentage do the Indians and what to the agents we cannot say. In every item there is an increase, except in the solitary instance of the Marine Hospital establishment. Observe, too, that the current fiscal year is destined to show a large advance on the disbursements of the last. In the year ended June 30, 1873, the last year of the war, the expenses of the Government, after deducting the interest on the debt, drawbacks, pensions and the cost of the army and navy, were only $24,215,325.54. The same expenses last year were $75,791,135.05, or several millions more than double. In 1869 they were $41,000,501.74.

McADEN'S TITLE TO THE SENTINEL.

Manager Stone, like manager Hoopes whom he bought out, brought a multitude of charges against us and then closed with threats, the one that he would "execute" us, and the other with language that implied as much. When Nichols & Gorman, who are always with us when not acquiring leasing, ran a ring paper, the Daily Telegraph, they made the same threats. Then we had more than thirty thousand dollars insurance on our life, and killing us would not have been as bad, for the heavy pecuniary loss would have fallen on Yankee insurance companies. Now we have but little insurance on our life, most of our policies having lapsed, we shall therefore be careful not to offer any "premium" to manager Stone. But we must answer his charge that Swepson had, and then McAden, used the SENTINEL. It is nothing new to the readers of the SENTINEL that the money to pay Mr. Peil, the former owner of the SENTINEL, was raised by Josiah Turner, Sr., giving his note to Jos. W. Swepson for five thousand dollars. This was published in 1869-70-71, when the Radical rogues said Swepson owned the paper. Mr. Peil received his money in the presence of Swepson and conveyed the property of the SENTINEL office in his presence, Swepson for the payment of his money looked to the solvency of Josiah Turner, Sr., and nothing else. His real estate alone would have brought $90,000 to $100,000 if the prices of 1860 could have been obtained for it. There were no judgments upon the property of Josiah Turner, Sr., and no man ever had better security for his money. It is clear Swepson has no title or claim to the SENTINEL office.

How about the claim of Manager Stone's co-partners in the card business, when Swepson ran and broke and broke and ran, this debt, with many other debts and much of his property, fell into the hands of McAden. He was entitled only to Swepson's rights and claims; he stood in the place of Swepson. But McAden in his Stone and McAden card says: "With your (my) permission I will state the only moneyed transaction I ever had with Editors." He then gives the particulars of his buying a judgment in the federal court against Josiah Turner, Sr., and the editor of the SENTINEL. The judgment was levied on three tracts of land before McAden bought it. One tract known as the mill tract containing 1,200 acres; the Walters place, 900 acres, and the Booth place, 650 acres—in all 2,800 acres of land with a mill, to pay a debt of $4,000. But, says McAden, "at the sale the property did not bring an amount sufficient to pay the judgment on the bond for the purchase of the SENTINEL office, and that is unpaid now, amounting to $6,000. It is the debt contracted for the SENTINEL office, and the SENTINEL is liable for it, and yet I have never attempted to enforce the claim."

Now this is his own fault. Let him enforce his claim, as Gov. Caldwell would say, and be—

Besides the plantations mentioned, Josiah Turner, Sr., had other plantations. The Taylor place and Hastings place, making 700 acres; on Little river, the Passcott place, 500 acres; the Parker place 150 acres; the Hill place, 120 acres, for which he paid $2,000 in gold; the Courtney place, 200 acres; the Phillips place, 200 acres; the Day place, 200 acres. We omit in the enumeration more than a dozen smaller tracts of land, which we throw in for good measure, besides a store house in Chapel Hill, one in Hillsboro, and in the latter place, valuable houses and lots. One lot with the houses burnt off it for which H. N. Brown, in 1866 offered $3,000 in gold. His homestead worth $7,000 which sold for $3,000, and re-sold for the same amount.

The two Banks, or McAden, or Swepson, or who ever holds the claims, have property enough to pay the debt for the SENTINEL ten times over. McAden, Swepson, or the Banks are well secured. Three of the plantations named, if sold for their value, will pay off all the debts. We have known the time when one of them would come near it. Manager Stone need not fear his partner McAden in the card business, he will not suffer his land to be sold; he is able to hold it, and he can quadruple his money.

Josiah Turner, Sr., gave a portion of one large tract of land to one of his sons, we think, in 1867 or '68. Manager Stone's partner in the card business has directed an attorney to bring suit to subject the land to his debt upon the ground that he could not make a gift of his property, being in debt. We invite McAden to send down his execution and levy on the SENTINEL office. If the SENTINEL office belongs to him or his uncle George W. Swepson, they have made very poor use of it, and are not likely to make any better use of it in the future.

We have nothing to dread or fear from Stone's or McAden's cards or charges. We have nothing to corrupt or treacherous part, neither bribed nor been bribed, and while the complaining Stone, Warner, Craig and Gidger unblushingly charge us with want of fidelity and loyalty to the party, we feel our only crime has been a little too much zeal, in a great battle in which they were hardly known or seen until they came to the front complaining of the treachery and bad faith of the man, who if he did not lose, at least led them in the fight, and spent every dollar he could command to keep it up. Nor has there been anything in our political action and conduct, tending to invite or bring down upon the country the murders, anarchy, robbery, rape and nameless calamities which have fallen upon the people these thirteen years. We make no apology to our readers for having gone far into personal and family matters, which was necessary for our vindication against unjust personal imputations and impecuniations.

Now let Stone publish his letter. McAden claims his property, while the title on printing, cry treason! treason!

PUBLIC SERVANTS.

We know nothing better calculated to bring reproach upon a Governor or Legislative body than the appointment of a man of doubtful character in office and place.

We have the evidence of Mr. Badger that Major Smith offered him $1,000 to cast his vote as State proxy for the loss. Mr. Badger told him he could not think of taking money for such an act. But here is conclusive evidence as the lawyers say, that the Legislature should see to the removal of President Smith from this position as President.

A committee was appointed by the Legislature of 1871-'72 to investigate the charge of bribery and corruption in the case of the North Carolina Railroad. The President of the road being before the committee, we copy from page 16 of their report:

"All the witnesses examined deny any knowledge of any consideration, paid or understood or agreed to be paid, except Major Smith, who states that he could not answer as it might lead to questions criminating himself. In this we believe lies the true secret of the case. Major Smith takes the position that he is not compelled to give evidence against himself, as shown by the following question and answer: Question: 'Do you know of any sum of money or any other consideration whatever having been paid or promised to be paid to any person in this State or out of it for the purpose of procuring the lease of the North Carolina Railroad or in any way connected with said lease?' Answer: 'That he declined to answer, as the answer might criminate him or lead to information that would criminate him.'"

We find the following by-law of the N. C. R. Co., under contract B: 'Neither the President or any director or any other officer or employee of this company shall, during the term of his office or service, be interested directly or indirectly in any matter of contract with the company whereby he or they shall or may derive any pecuniary benefit, and any one who shall become so interested shall forfeit his office or place.'"

Can any representative justify himself to his constituents if he shall vote for the consolidation bill, by which millions of bonds will be placed in the hands of Billy Smith, the man who cannot answer "because he might criminate himself, or lead to information that would criminate him?" There was a day when the man who would give such a vote could not be returned.

WONDERFUL TELEGRAPHING.

This is the age of improvement. There are folks abroad other than the schoolmaster. The telegraph has always been justly regarded as one of the greatest inventions and the name of Morse is immortal. From time to time improvements in the art of telegraphing have been made. The latest and most astonishing is the system described as automatic. We have seen no intelligent description of it, but its marvellous capabilities have recently been tested with the utmost satisfaction. It was determined by the Postmaster General to give the system a thorough test, and the telegraphing of the President's message was selected. We learn from the New York World with what result the trial was made. It says: "At precisely four minutes before ten the President's message was announced to be coming, and a loud whizz filled the office as a wheel began to revolve, turning off 'take' after 'take' of the document. The whizz continued, broken only by short intermissions to supply new tape, until eighteen minutes and thirty seconds beyond the hour, when it stopped as suddenly as it had begun, and the President's message of 12,000 words was in the office in the form of twenty-three bundles of narrow paper, hung up on as many hooks. The time occupied in transmission was twenty-two minutes and a half, and this with a single wire. The number of words a minute sent was about 500. The message was then re-transmitted to Washington in about the same time that it had taken to come, and then Postmaster James leads 'Good night' to the Postmaster General, and Pack's promise to gild the earth in forty minutes had been put to shame. The Superintendent of the Company claims that his one wire will do the work of twenty-five ordinary wires and telegraphing rendered proportionately cheaper."

DOUBLE ACTING FORCE PUMPS. J. L. KITCHEN, Inventor and Manufacturer. RALEIGH, N. C. And Successor to Kitchen Bros., of the Kitchen, Birmingham, deep well Portable Cylinder, Double Acting Force Pump, which has been in use 3 years, without even the expense of new packing. It received the first premium for force pumps at our State fairs, for the last three years over all domestic pumps being the only combined yard well pump and hand fire engine that has ever given satisfaction in this country. Many who have used it say they save half per cent. per annum in insurance, and many say they do not see the necessity of paying any life insurance while they have one of my pumps. My double Pump System and Double Acting Force Pump, has revolutionized kindred by its wonderful forcing powers and its simplicity of construction and beauty. Both of operation and shape. It was given up as being useless, as it was no water, by running the pipe to some neighborhood well, system or spring, lifting the water from 20 to 30 feet perpendicular and as far as you wish horizontal, and then by attaching hose there it is as fast as you please and it answers well what it is intended for and it will be the best thing you can get for the money. It is made in two sizes for use for large water. I am making two sizes of these and the size of the Portable Cylinder Pump and double acting cylinder of working them. Send for Circular and price list. Two parties wanted, who need apply no money good financial business men or master mechanics. The demand and satisfaction these pumps are giving is a guarantee of the largest divisions realized from any business in the United States. PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL. Absolutely safe. Perfectly odorless. Always uniform. Illuminating qualities superior to gas. Burns in any lamp without danger of exploding or taking fire. Manufactured expressly to displace the use of kerosene and dangerous oils. Its safety under every possible test, and its perfect burning qualities, are proved by its continued use in over 300,000 families. Millions of gallons have been sold and no accident—directly or indirectly—has ever occurred from burning, storing or handling it. The immense yearly loss to life and property, resulting from the use of cheap and dangerous oils in the United States, is appalling. The Insurance Companies and Fire Commissioners throughout the country recommend the ASTRAL as the best safeguard when lamps are used. Send for circular.
