THE SENTINEL.

TUESDAY, MAY 26, 1874.

JOSIAH TURNER, Editor.

ELECTION, Aug. 6th, 1874.—For Superintendent of Public Instruction,
COL. STEPHEN D. POOL,
Of Craven.

ACQUITTED.

We rejoice with the friends of D. J. Carter, Esq., formerly of this city, in his acquittal for accidentally killing one Hickson, in South Carolina. The verdict was in accordance with feelings and opinions of all good men in South Carolina, who were cognizant of the facts.

We learn that the Republicans of Orange held a meeting at Hillsboro on Saturday [illegible] the Convention. There was no instructions given.

A man of the Revenue being chairman, and appointing delegates, the conclusion was that Ike had captured Willie. Ike left Hillsboro greatly delighted, while Tim and Willie, were evidently crestfallen.

CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

Many persons are profoundly astonished at the passage of this bill by the Senate. For our part we have been looking for it for some time, and will be disappointed it it does not come.

Our Senator, Judge Merrimon, made the strongest resistence to it in the Senate.

We copy the following closing scenes of the debate—when the bill passed amid the clapping of hands by a few negroes in the gallery, who had sat up all night watching the progress of the bill:

Mr. Stockton concluded his argument of Thursday, predicting that the saddest consequence would flow from the passage of the bill. "It was not a bill for equal rights, but for unequal rights, as it put the black man above the white man. Human nature had borne all that it could bear from this Republican party, and it would bear no more. He did not believe any party in his State would favor this bill under the hollow pretence that it was for the protection of the colored race. He did not believe that the people of this country would sustain any party in the passage of this bill."

Mr. Alcorn, of Missippi, said the negroes of his State did not want the civil rights bill—they had one now more stringent than any Congress could pass—but they wanted the same rights in every other State in the Union they had in their own.

Mr. Begy said the bill was the commencement of a series of legislation which must inevitably destroy the institutions of the country. Such legislation would in the end, destroy the existence of the States, and the American Senate would be like the Roman Senate, omnipotent in its prerogatives.

Mr. Cooper said he felt to be silent would be treason to his constituency; and strenuously opposed the measure as dangerous to the citizens and to the government itself, and utter ruin to the institutions of the country.

Mr. Saulisbury said the members of the dominant party in cloak room might sleep on and laugh on, but a day of judgment was coming, when the American people arouse themselves from their present apathy. He denied the power of Congress to enforce companionship of the races in the theatres, schools or elsewhere. Senators knew that this bill would affect the poorer classes principally, for not one of those who voted for this bill would send his children to a mixed school. It would not only destroy the common schools of the white people, but would injure the schools for the colored people throughout the whole country. It even extended to the hospitals, to the alms houses, in fact everywhere, the great intent being to compel companionship. He believed the measure originated in hostility to the South, and from a desire to hold to the colored voters.

Mr. Ransom, at a late hour of the night endeavored to obtain an adjournment without reaching a vote, but failed.

Mr. Merrimon spoke at some length against the constitutional power of the government to pass this bill. He said he wanted to address the Republican members, but he found they were in the cloak room sleeping and he had no right speak in that room.

Mr. Gordon wanted to exclude from the provisions of the bill common schools and public institution of learning and benevolence. Rejected.

Mr. McCreery moved as an amendment to the first section a proviso "that nothing therein contained shall be construed to apply to schools already established." Lost.

DECORATION DAY.

The 30th of May is the day for decorating the graves of Union Soldiers in this city. Flowers are asked for and the citizens of Raleigh are cordially invited to participate, by a city paper. Major Allen the commander of this post, is requested to fire a salute on the occasion. This is a medley and contradiction, for which we have neither patience nor respect.

The flowers that bloom in the gardens of widows, who lost their husbands and sons, are not to be applied to such uses. It is indelicate to call on them for flowers for such uses.

No christian gentleman will call on a lady to furnish flowers to decorate the grave of the man who slew her husband or son. It is proper for Federal Soldiers to keep their memorial day, it is proper for those who were on that side to celebrate it in the North by firing salutes, in the South by omitting salutes, especially after the gardens of the dead Confederates have furnished the flowers for the graves of the victors in the fight. We love to see magnanimity on the part of the victors. Sullenness is ugly, but the victor in a bloody fight expects it from the foe; at all events he does not look for flowers and smiles from the vanquished.

If we were a Union soldier we could afford to go to a Confederate decoration of graves, provided we had not lost too many brothers and near kindred, by the hands of those whose graves were to be decorated. There is great propriety in a Union Soldier decorating the grave of a [illegible] think the decorater who lays down the flowers, with the hope that he may receive an office or place from the hands of Grant.

A graveyard solemnity in expectation of an office is not to our taste. Yet there is nothing more beautiful than forgiveness, of which there are two kinds, one of the earth, earthy, the other of the heavens, heavenly.

The following lines from a gifted poet expresses our feelings, and will conclude what we have to say in christian charity on the subject:

FORGIVENESS.

When on the fragrant sandal-tree
The woodman's axe descends,
And she who bloomed so beauteously
Beneath the keen stroke bends,
E'en on the edge that wrought her death
Dying she breathed her sweetest breath,
As if to token, in her fall,
Peace to her foes, and love to all.

How hardly man this lesson learns,
To smile, and bless the hand that spurns;
To see the blow, to feel the pain,
But render only love again!
This spirit not to earth is given,—
ONE had it, but he came from Heaven.
Reviled, rejected, and betrayed,
No curse he breathed, no 'plaint he made,
But when in death's deep pang he sighed,
Prayed for his murderers, and died.

Since writing the above, a telegraphic dispatch informs us that Senator Patterson has addressed a letter to the Secretary of war deprecating the order heretofore signed forbidding the decorating the graves of the Confederates at Arlington, and urging that the order if standing, be revoked, or if temporary that it be not renewed.

There was no necessity for making it, though there was magnanimity in it, now that the order has been made nothing but malice could suggest and desire a repeal of it.

THE MOSES IMBROGLIO.

[From Columbia, S. C. Phœnix.]

The scenes presented in our city, yesterday, will long be remembered by our citizens. Early in the day, the Sheriff of Orangeburg repaired to the Governor's residence with a warrant for his arrest, on charges preferred by the Grand Jury of that county, for breach of trust with fraudulent intentions, and for grand larceny. The Governor refused to accept the service of the writ, and procured a guard of militia for his protection, consisting of three companies, and distributed around his residence and at the executive office. The appearance of these troops, in the discharge of such a duty as this, naturally excited a lively interest and they marched and countermarched through our streets in their glittering uniforms, as if they enjoyed the pageant.

In the afternoon, it was ascertained that the Governor had been advised by his counsel to surrender himself and give ball for his appearance. This, it is understood, he did. The companies were then dismissed. The matter now goes before the courts, where, it is understood the legal services of Messrs. Chamberlain and Elliott will be rendered in the Governor's behalf.

What have we come to? Fraudulent pay certificates, County Treasurers' defalcations, the losing of Acts of the Legislature, bankruptcy, and now an indictment by the Grand Jury on infamous charges—all matters in which the Governor of the State is implicated! These thing show South Carolina in a most odious light. They are the fit accompaniments of the process which is now going on all over the State of selling the people's property for taxes they connot and should not pay. Infamy and outrage cannot go any further. Will the Government at Washington look at our condition? Can it see by the light of these mortifying and odious illustrations? Will it persist in pretending to think that nothing serious is the matter here? It is full time this infamy and oppression were put an end to, and our own people must nerve themselves to the task of doing it, and that speedily.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A most fearful and heart-rending accident occurred on the premises of Mr. Sol. M. Pender, on Tuesday, the 12th inst.

A negro man and his wife and three children occupied a cabin upon Mr. Pender's farm, and last Tuesday about 2 o'clock when the man and woman went to their work they shut the children up in the house and tied the oldest one "to prevent," as they said, "his getting into mischief." In half an hour after they left the house was in flames, and although every effort was made to rescue the children, it was without avail, and they were almost entirely consumed before they could be gotten out. The origin of the fire is unknown.—Tarboro Southerner.

ONLY $1.00—30,000 SOLD.

Of all the inventions of the present day, probably none have created more astonishment than the London Watch.

The idea of making a Watch for the small sum of One Dollar, seems an impossibility, but it has at length been accomplished, and a perfect time indicator produced. Besides this it combines a Compass and Sundial, without extra cost. It is just the thing for the pocket of every lawyer, trader, farmer, boy, and every body desiring a reliable time keeper. It is elegantly got up in a case of gold metal, which is an exact imitation of gold, usual watch size, glass crystal, steel and metallic works, and warranted to denote correct time and keep in order—if fairly used—for two years. Nothing like it.

This perfect triumph of mechanism will be sent in a neat case, post paid, to any address for One Dollar, or three for Two Dollars, by the Sole Agents for West and South.

MESSRS. CULVER BROTHERS:

Having purchased from you, and had in use in our families for some time past, you Farmer's Cooking Stoves, we cheerfully bear testimony to its many good qualities; its economy in the use of fuel, the rapidity with which it does its work, the uniformity with which its baking, and cooking, and the many conveniences combined in it, all tend to make it, in our judgment, the best cooking stove in use, and as such we would recommend it to the public.

PEERLESS STEAM WASHER AND BLEACHER.
THE LATEST, BEST AND CHEAPEST ASHE MADE.

That Steam Washers are better than others is now generally conceded. That the Peerless is the best of Steam Washers will be as readily admitted by every one who sees it and tries it with others.

Its construction is such as to rush the largest quantity of water through the clothing in the shortest time, and to compell all the water to go where it is desired, and prevent its going anywhere else. It has no bungling valves to make the water flow by fits and cause it to flow at all times—but causes it to flow steadily—pouring sixteen streams on the whole surface of the clothing. Then the water has not to descend to the centre or both ends of the false bottom to get back to its starting point but goes straight down from wher it falls, washing all parts of the clothing—now unincumbered by its rapid current. It rushes through the clothing many times per minute and cleans them in 15 to 30 minutes!

The cost of the machine may be saved very soon in difference in wear of the clothes.

It may be saved very soon in the difference of labor required.

A machine made to fit, can be used with any stove boiler or the boiler for the machine may be used for any other purpose.

LIFE AND JOURNAL.

I propose as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers to justify the publication can be obtained, to republish the Journal of Fanning. Only fifty copies of it were originally published. Wanting the age, brains and information to write a life of Fanning I applied to Mrs. Spencer, of Chapel Hill, who has generously consented to write a life of Fanning to accompany the Journal. All that is wanted, is a sufficient number of subscribers to pay expense of publication. The book will read like romance for Fanning was a hero as well as a demon.
