[illegible] Receipts.—The Gross receipts of the celebration yesterday for the benefit of the Orphans of the Oxford Asylum amounted to about $700. The expenses will probably reduce this sum to $650.

MUSIC IN THE AIR.—Sweet strains floated over the city last night from the silver horns of the La Fayette Cornet Band as they played in front of the Capitol Park for an hour or so. They afterwards serenaded Thomas C. Fuller, Esq., at his residence on Hillsboro street. He was called out and made them and the crowd a nice little talk, when by invitation they partook spiritedly of his bounteous hospitality.

THE MURDERER OF THE WELDON BRIDGE WATCHMAN.—One of the negroes, Austin Hill, who murdered Mr. Pressley, the watchman of the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad bridge, on the north side of the river, at Weldon, and who escaped from the guard while en route to jail, at Jackson, Northampton county, was, we learn, seen lurking near his home at Garysburg, on Tuesday. A party of fifty was organized at Weldon, at once, and started in pursuit.

Five hundred dollars is offered for his capture.

It was one of the most brutal murders, in our State's record, and it is to be hoped he may quickly be apprehended.

SUPREME COURT.—The Court met at the usual hour. All the Justices present. The following appeals from the ninth district were argued:

State vs Widenhouse & Farr from Cabarrus, Attorney General for State, no counsel for defendants.

State vs Henry House, from Lincoln; Attorney General for State, no counsel for defendant.

State vs William Caps from Mecklenburg, Attorney General, and R. Barringer for State; Wolson & Son for defendant. [illegible] vs John Caps from Mecklenburg, McCorkle & Bailey for plaintiff; Wilson & Son for defendant.

NEW LIGHT TOWNSHIP.—At a meeting of the Conservative citizens of New Light Township, held at the store of W. J. Ward on Saturday, the 20th day of June 1874, for the purpose of selecting Township delegates to the county Convention to be held in the city of Raleigh, on Saturday the 27th inst., W. J. Ward was called to the chair, and Jno. T. Beck requested to act as Secretary, whereupon Jno. T. Garner, W. J. Ward, D. R. Riggin, H. C. Ray, H. B. Emory, W. H. Lassiter, D. A. Ray, Jno. T. Beck, Willis Smith, J. M. Bailey, P. M. Mangum and F. J. Baily were appointed to attend said county Convention, also for Township Executive Committee, T. T. Garner, H. B. Emory and Willis Smith.

THE CHARLOTTE EXCURSIONISTS IN WILMINGTON.—The train that left Charlotte with the Merchants and Bankers excursionists, arrived in Wilmington Monday evening.

They went via Columbia, and were received with a perfect ovation on their arrival, and the hospitality was unbounded upon the part of the citizens of Wilmington. They were to go down the Sound on yesterday, to Mr. Wm. A. Wright's place where a season of rest and refreshment, was to be had, after which they were to be taken to the Banks, in suitable boats, to indulge in a surf bath, in old ocean, returning by moonlight last night, to the city.

Can't our merchants and bankers and others, get up something of the kind? It is not enough to go somewhere. Who will take the initiatory steps?

CAPTURE OF JOHN ALLEN BLAKE, THE RAPER.—A party of six gentlemen residing near Apex, this county, who have been hunting for several days, Blake the raper of the young lady near Morrisville, came up with him at Holly Springs last night about 1 o'clock, and captured him. He was found asleep in the porch of Mr. Wheeler, to whom he had employed himself. He made no resistance when awakened, and was quickly secured. He was brought to this city and lodged in jail this morning. There were fifty persons out on the hunt for him last night.

We congratulate the good people of that portion of our county upon their unceasing labors which have been crowned so signally with success. The gentlemen who captured the wretch state that Blake thought himself secure, having got out of the neighborhood where the deed was committed. He confesses the deed. One of his fingers bear the imprint of a bite from the young lady in her terrible struggles. The colored people of the county are represented to have been as eager for his capture as any. Blake was put in the strongest dungeon of our jail.

The Conservatives of Randolph county assembled in Convention, at Asheboro, on the 16th inst., to nominate candidates for the General Assembly, and county officers.

AN INDIAN RELIC.—We have in our office a soap stone pot which was plowed up on the farm of Mr. L. H. Lambeth, on Reedy Fork last week. It is symmetrically shaped, with handles on the sides, will hold about two gallons, and is quite a clever piece of workmanship for the rude artizan who chiselled it out.—Patriot.

CATHOLIC CHURCH.—Our Catholic citizens have purchased a lot on Crosbie street, adjoining the school lot as a site for their new church. The corner stone will be laid next Sunday afternoon, at 6 o'clock Rev. Dr. Lynch, Bishop of this diocese, performing the ceremony.—Patriot.

MECKLENBURG RADICALS—SPLIT IN COUNTY CONVENTION.—We understand that there were lively times at the Radical County Convention held at Town Creek, in Brunswick county, on Saturday last, Legg and his party (anti civil rights-ers) who had twice been successful in their primary meetings at Smithville, were defeated by Russly and Swain (civil rights-ers), the latter having succeeded in nominating their entire ticket. The Legg party were so much disgusted at the result of their labors that they have concluded to carry matters to the Sec. Harris' style and have therefore called for another County Convention, to be held at Smithville on the Fourth or July. If there is one thing in which the Republican soul delights, more than another, it is "harmony and concert of action."—Wil Journal.

FUN.—A straggler to the excursion train last night was so unfortunate as to lose his way, and though he was only three blocks from the depot, he might as well have been in the wilderness. The train was tooting occasionally, but he couldn't locate it. It was evident from what happened in a few moments, that the good fellow "had been there before," for he knew how to "do it." He just yelled like a roaring lion, Police! Police! But nary star coming up, he gave them the next best his cranium suggested, and it was fire! fire! fire! We were passing near and would have given him the desired and much wanted information, but the way certain citizens piled out of their houses in answer to his valiant cries was a caution.

We almost died to see a brother editor of one of our christian cotemporaries going for the lost Gideonite. He went on the wings of lightning almost, and when he and others found out that there was no fire, if ever a fellow was shown his destination more promptly we have yet to see it, and he went on his way singing, "Do you belong to Gideon's band? Oh here's my heart and here's my hand, &c."

Terre Haute Express: An adolescent youth at the Union depot was quite admired on account of his new style of whiskers. They were side whiskers, not remarkably long or bushy, and were the size and shape of a silver dollar, and had just been colored. The contrast between them and his light hair was very noticeable.

DEATH BY THE KNIFE.

ARREST OF THE MURDERER

Monday night between 11 and 12 o'clock during a drunken brawl at the Sherwood House, in Baltimore, Benj. Amos, a [illegible] was stabbed in [illegible] and died [illegible] in an hour afterward. Before dying, however, he accused Sam McDonald of having the cutting.

Samuel W. McDonald, also a well known was arrested and taken to the station house, charged with cutting. At the time of the arrest it was not known that the wounds of Amos were so serious, but in twenty minutes' time he died.

The prisoner was brought to the scene of the affray in a hack, and several women in carriages followed the party to the middle district station.

After the stabbing, Amos ran out, and there seems to have been a general scattering when the doors were closed, McDonald remaining on the inside. It is also said that several men were in the fight and that several of them had blood on their clothing, the wounds of Amos spurting freely. The garments of the deceased, which were carried to the station house, were literally clotted with gore and presented a sickening sight.

From statements made it appears that a party of sporting men and women were in one of the rooms of the Sherwood House, when a difficulty occurred. During the melee Amos was badly cut, and was removed, bleeding freely, to the Russel House by officer Crosby before it was known that the wounds were dangerous.

The parties, it seems had had some difficulty in one of the upper rooms, and the cutting occurred down stairs in the main bar room. When the affair culminated the doors of the restaurant were speedily closed, and a large crowd of people and several carriages in which there were women were in the street on Fayette street side. Three or four policemen were on the spot with one or two on the inside.

About ten minutes after McDonald's arrest [illegible] was about 1 o'clock Monday morning. The dead body was carried back to the station-house yard and the clothes which covered his head removed, when it was discovered that he had two very broad wounds, one in the shoulder blade and one in the left breast just above the heart. The wound in the breast was probably the one that killed him. The cuts were clearly indicated, and evidently from a broad double edged dirk knife.

The excitement was intense. Negroes by the among the many congregated were putting men well known.

Berry Amos was a native of Virginia, part of his early life being spent in Petersburg, and later he lived in Richmond, Va. He married a widow lady of Richmond, shortly after the close of the war, but leaves no children. He was in his thirty ninth year.

Amos was well known in this city. During his residency here, he was engaged in several scrapes and it will be remembered that he was seriously wounded a few years since in a scrape in the billiard rooms of the Billiard House, on which occasion he was shot by a young man named Levy.

Young McDonald, accused of the homicide, is a native of Baltimore, and is well known from the wealth of his father, who when living, was known throughout the country as the owner at one time of the celebrated trotter, Flora Temple. He is about thirty years old.
