The principal case before the Court is the libel suit of A. G. Moore vs. G. J. Green. It has assumed several phases. An effort was made by Green's lawyers to have the case removed to the Federal Court on the plea of non-residence, and an attempt at habeas corpus before Judge Settle, which was withdrawn, and to-day a motion to dismiss is being argued on ground that the prisoner was arrested on the civil action for damages while attending court in violation of law.

The defendant has given bail in the sum of 2,000; $1,000 for his appearance in this court and $1,000 at A. G. Moore, and $8,000 in the action for damages. This case involves many points of law and will excite a little interest. The best legal talent in the South is employed on it.
The Charlotte Observer, referring to the recent nomination of Chamberlains for Governor, by the republicans of South Carolina says of him:
"Chamberlain is a carpet bagger, and U. S. District Attorney for South Carolina. He figured in '70 and '71 as prosecutor of the Ku Klux. He is one of the Honest John Patterson's men; a member of the Moses, Chamberlain, Neagle, Spott, Cardozo and Parker ring of professional thieves.
"He is a talented, ambitious, unprincipled, and unscrupulous man. He regards a cell in the Penitentiary much more than a seat in the Executive Department of the government.
"He is a more dangerous man than Moses, and as corrupt and vindictive as the infamous Scott.
"South Carolina's going from Moses to Chamberlain, is like jumping from the frying pan into the fire. We pity her!"

The New York Commercial, a few days ago, said: "That Pease had bet victories, as well as War, was grandly illustrated yesterday, when Portsmouth, Portsmouth and Raleigh fire companies quietly marched into Fort Mifflin, and with colors flying, and were reviewed by the commandant of the post."
RAMSAY AND THE LADIES TO THE FRONT.—The indefatigable and illustrious Ramsay has made arrangements for a rare intellectual treat for our cultivated citizens, in securing the services of the beautiful Miss Lillian S. Edgerton to deliver two lectures in this city within a short time. The "N. Y. World" in its criticism of her lectures at Cooper Institute, where Olive Logan has become an often heard name, says of Miss Edgerton:
"She is a young woman of a high order of intellect, and a most accomplished actress. Her lectures were so well received, that she is expected to deliver a third lecture in this city on Monday."

GOLDSMITH MAID'S RECORD.—The extraordinary trotting record made by Goldsmith Maid at Mystic Park, Boston, Wednesday, is worthy of more than passing notice, for it marks an era in the history of the American turf. Thirty years ago, when the trotting record was supposed to denote a trotting horse of more than ordinary speed, and when, in 1845, Lady Suffolk was then supposed to have been reached, seven years later, Mrs. Temple, in the hands of the great American horseman, Hiram Woodruff, reduced the record to 2:24 1/2, made in a race against Theory on the Union Course, September 5, 1856, the latter going under saddle and Flora in harness. For years this record remained unassailed, but Flora Temple herself successively reduced it to 2:23 1/2, 2:23, 2:21 1/2, and 2:19 3/4, the latter time being made at Kalamazoo, on October 14, 1859. Dexter, Robert Dwyer's famous horse, was the first to beat this record, which he did in his memorable match against time, when his then owner, George Alley, backed him to beat 2:19, under saddle with three trials, at the odds of $2,000 to $10,000. The contest took place on October 10, 1868, Dexter winning in 2:18 1/2, in the hands of John Murphy, who rode him. In 1868, at Buffalo, Dexter, trotting against his time of 2:18 1/2, under saddle, placed 2:18 on the record, and two years later, over the same course, on August 14, 1871, in harness, made his fastest and most memorable record of 2:17 1/4. Immediately after this great performance, he passed into Mr. Bonner's possession, who withdrew him from the turf. At the time of his retirement Dexter was only nine years old, but had not attained the full development of his wonderful speed, and if retained in regular training would undoubtedly have reduced the trotting record far below anything that has yet been seen. On his abdication Goldsmith Maid assumed the vacant throne, and has clearly shown her undoubted right to the position, on the Cold Spring Course, Milwaukee, on September 6, 1871, four years after Dexter's record had been made, she trotted a second heat in 2:17, or a quarter of a second faster than the renowned son of Hambletonian. She was then fourteen years old, and it is a striking proof of the fact that trotting horses do not attain the full development of their speed and powers of endurance, that she has since continued to trot faster every year. On June 17, 1872, Goldsmith Maid made the record of 2:16 1/4, driven by W. H. Doble (the father of Budd Doble, the trainer of the mare) at Mystic Park, Boston, in a second heat. Until the California mare, Occident, at Sacramento, on September 17, 1873, repeated this great feat, this remained unequalled. This year, however, this famous mare has surpassed herself, for at Buffalo, on August 7, in trotting against her own best time, in a second heat, she placed 2:15 1/2 on the record; five days later, on August 12, at Rochester, she trotted a second heat against Judge Fallerton and American Girl in 2:14 3/4, and on Wednesday, September 3, at Mystic Park, Boston, for a special purse of $2,500, offered for her to beat her own record of 2:14 3/4, she trotted a second trial of one mile in 2:14, amid the cheers of assembled thousands. How low she is destined to reduce the trotting record it is unsafe to predict, for she accomplishes her consecutive triumphs so easily as to lead to the conviction that she has a power of speed still in reserve to be exhibited whenever occasion requires. It was the intention of her owner, H. N. Smith, of this city, to withdraw her from the turf at the end of this season and place her at the breeding stand, but it is now understood that he has conquered this determination, and that the next year she will reappear on the turf in the hands of Dan Mac.

THE TRAVELERS TO NIGHT.—Tonight, at Tucker Hall, Mr. Geo. Hooper, the Irish Comedian, will appear in his celebrated impersonation of Miles Na Coppleston. He has everywhere been greeted by large audiences, and particularly so in Norfolk, if we may judge from the subjoined notice from the Virginia of Monday.
"The Colleen Bawn.—If anybody thinks there was not a large crowd at the Opera House last night let him or her ask some one who was present. We have seldom seen a better audience to greet a new comedy so early in the season. The performance was very warmly applauded and highly appreciated. Mr. Hooper, though laboring with a severe cold, performed his part splendidly, and frequently brought down the house. The play was well cast and went off smoothly.
"The Landmark says of the performance Wednesday night:
"Another splendid audience greeted the second and last appearance of Mr. Geo. Hooper and his fine company at the Opera House last night. The drama, "Arish Na Pogno, or the Wicklow Wedding," was rendered in elegant style, and called forth the well merited approbation of a discriminating public. Mr. Hooper has established a reputation in this city which will insure him full houses whenever he comes this way. The other members of the company are also well up in their respective parts. We wish them abundant success."

A HALF FARE PASSENGER ON THE AIR LINE.—The Air Line from Charlotte to Atlanta is the rail road of the South. Fish bar track all the way, you ride 30 miles an hour with the greatest ease. The perpendicular cuts to a little fearful, and an occasional trestle makes the head a little wimpy in those who are accustomed to riding fifteen miles an hour and stopping a half an hour at a wood pile on North Carolina roads. Affordable and polite gentlemen conduct their trains. But it was only a week or so ago when Ned Soggs, who used to "panch em" on the N. C., now a conductor on this Air Line, was going through his train that this small incident occurred: Approaching an elderly mother with the stereotyped phrase "tickets, madam," he was met with "You don't think that boy is under ten, hey? You won't pan him for half fare? Look at that, will ye?" And from out the old carpet bag brought the well worn family Bible, and turning to the page reserved for births and deaths, held it triumphantly up under Ned's nose with "Does that look as though I was a liar, my whickered friend?" With such testimony before his eyes, Ned could do no less than pass the boy for half fare amid subdued applause from the passengers who had been amused spectators of the scene. "The train was still and the 'Greenyville' was blowing off at 125, but the holy book continued to, and he slightly telegraphed with his little cord George Berry the engineer in charge to his way, and you bet George did it while the old woman with her family record wiped her weeping eyes—and conductor Ned soliloquized "ate me from fifteen year boys with ten year old eyes teeth."

A MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING.—W. D. McAdoo had considerable difficulty in procuring watchmen around his new hotel who would not go to sleep while on duty. He had about concluded to try no more when application was made for the position by a colored citizen whose name we have forgotten. He swore he would not go to sleep, and agreed if caught asleep Mr. M. might thrash him to his heart's content. Last week Mr. M. returning from the country at a late hour, concluded he would walk around and see how his new man was progressing, when he found him comfortably stretched, and enjoying a delightful snooze, not caring a snap for the civil rights bill not the trouble in Tennessee. His employer proceeded deliberately to remove the sleeper's head from its proximity to the show window and thereupon went for his man in vigorous style with a carriage whip, which brought the sleeping beauty to his feet instant and resulted in some of the best time ever made by a watchman in these parts. He took it good naturedly as part of his contract, and confessed that "Mass. Wall kin handle a whip."—Gr. Patriot.

Be sure and go to Tucker Hall to-night and hear the Great George Hooper.
