time, bringing the Governor with him; and then ensued a scene that beggars de scription. Never before within our rec ollection has a man received such an ova tion from a Richmond sasemblage. Be ing forced upon a chair, he essayed to speak to those in the room, but the surging crowd demanded that he should come into the open air, and he was literally taken up and borne to the door, where he briefly and feelingly expressed his gratitude and pledged himself to be true to the constituency that had so honored him, and to work unceasingly, not only for his district, but the State at large.

At the conclusion of his remarks, Col Berry was called on and made a happy speech, during the delivery of which hundreds, including many colored men crowded around Governor Walker to shake handa with him.

Speeches were also made by Generals Brad'ey T. Johnson and Peyton Wise.

A JOURNAMISTIC MURDER.—The other day a compositor in this office got hold of a part of a page of the chirography of G. M. D. Bloss, of the Cincinnati Enquirer. It isn't writing at all, but Bloss seems to kick the ink bottle at a sheet of plot to deliberately destroy a human life.

The elections yesterday seems to have gone against the Republican party. According to the returns received up to this bour (I a. m.) we have probably lost the next House of Representatives, but the returns are so vague and indefinite that the result in this respect cannot be set down with any degree of certainty. We have secured districts which were considered doubtful, and I at districts which were thought to be certain. We have won where victory seemed impossible; we have lost where defeat appeared to be out of the question. With the returns now before us no ac mate optulos, or opinion even approachng accuracy, can be formed. All around there seems to have been a general barter and dicker of votes. The Republicans have carried Legislatures where Governors and Congressmen have been lost and defeated. In fact, the off year of 1874 has brought with it more of demoralization and uncertainty than any of its predecessors for near # half a generation. Various questions, political, personal and s cial, have entered into the campaign, and in addition the Republicans have had to encounter dissensions and division to their own ranks, brought about mainly by purely personal considerations. full returns are received. But, however the November elections may have gone, honever it may have effected the next Congress, it is not dealed by any one that the depublican party has said the major ity of the county, and that if it shall be led as it sught to be led, its victories in the fature will surpass any that it has won in the past. In the defeats which we fear we have met, we see the omen of future victory. The Republican party is, still the party of the country, and it can-not be defeated, and the Republic live CURRENT ITEMS.
