City Intelligence.

SENATE BILLS.—The following bills in Senate this morning are left out of report. Mr. Latham, bill to amend sections incorporating Albemarle Steam Navigation Company. Referred.

Mr. Taylor, bill to reimburse counties for support of lunatics and idiots. Referred.

Mr. Jenkins, bill to incorporate town of Shelby. Referred.

Mr. Bell, bill relating to Newbern Academy. Referred.

CHARLOTTE.—From the Observer, and the Democrat, this morning we glean the following news from Charlotte and its vicinity: W. A. Knox, of Providence township, was killed while picking his cotton press. The "sinker" broke loose and fell upon him.—Two thousand bales of cotton were sold in the Charlotte market last week.—The residence of Henry B. Williams was burned in Charlotte Saturday—caught in the kitchen from a stove pipe.—Edwin Adams plays "Enoch Arden" in Charlotte the 12th of next month.—Theo. Ramsay spoke in Charlotte last night.

CONCORD.—We always like to read Harris' paper, the Concord Sun, and we extract the following, this morning: One negro met another riding a mule. The two negroes were Jack Kennedy and Cy Pharr. Jack dared Cy to get off that mule. Cy lit off and proceeded with a long pole to bleed Jack quite freely. Jack nursed his wounds a day or so, and then got a gun and emptied 16 buck shot into Jacks left arm. Jack owes his life to a tickler of liquor he had in his breast pocket.—Here is a personal from the same paper: Col. Jasper Stowe, of Gaston, was in our town this week. Barring the kick of a mule, he is in excellent health and spirits.

WILMINGTON.—We gather the following Wilmington news from the Journal and Star received this morning: Seven negroes died in Wilmington the past week.—The Cantwell indignation meeting is holding protracted session.—A negro drayman collided with another dray, and the shaft of his dray killed the other fellow's horse.—Henry Rody, late of Richmond, is now telegraphing in Wilmington.—The Journal's local is on a visit to Charlotte.—A lady in Wilmington writes good poetry, we give the last verse of her poem in this morning's Journal:

My heart shrinks back from trials which the future may disclose,
Yet, I never had a sorrow but what the dear Lord chose;
So I send the coming tears back with the whispered words, "He knows."

LEFT TO-DAY.—Culver Brothers and their troop who have been for eight or ten months at the National Hotel in this city, left to-day for Richmond, Virginia, where they will establish a foundry such as they have in Covington, Kentucky, for the manufacturing of their stoves. These Richmond stoves will be cheaper than their Covington stoves, because of the difference on transportation and a better knowledge of their business. It is a rare thing to find such a company of intelligent, sober and industrious men together. They make friends and do a large business wherever they go. Nor do they take all out of a country. They are as liberal as hard working. They deposited one hundred dollars for the benefit of the Orphan Society. They carry with them to the Old Dominion the good wishes of the people of the Old North State.

ALL ABOUT.

Blanchard, the Philadelphia publisher, left an estate valued at $1,500,000.

The expense of publishing a daily paper is scarcely guessed by outsiders. The entire cost of the New York Herald, for example, is said to average $9,500 daily, or $912,500 a year. The cost of publishing the Tribune is $1,500; of the Times, $1,200; and of the World, $700 to $800 daily.

The London Society of Arts has had a tablet inserted in the front of the house on Craven Street, where Franklin lodged during his visit to London in 1758, with this inscription:

Lived Here,
Benjamin Franklin,
Printer,
Philosopher, and Statesman.
Born, 1706;
Died, 1790.

It may not be generally known that Orange county contains the birthplace of General Zachary Taylor. Two miles south of Rapidan station, Virginia Midland railroad, is "Hare Forest," now the property of Mrs. Mildred Covell, the birth-place of old "Rough and Ready." Nothing marks the spot where he first saw light but the green sward that usually lingers long after a homestead has passed away. General Dade, many years ago, who then owned "Hare Forest," removed the sills of the dwelling and placed them, as relics, under his immense mill at Peyton's Ford, Rapidan river, but the great freshet of April, 1865, carried the mill as well as the relics away.—Alexandria (Va.) Gazette.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

SENATE.
January 26th, 1875.

Senate was called to order at 11 o'clock.

President Armfield in chair.

Prayer by Rev. Mr. Marshal.

Clerk read Journal of yesterday.

Mr. Taylor stated that the Senator from Jackson was still confined to his room.

Mr. Kerr, a petition to prohibit the sale of liquor near Newton's Cross Roads in Sampson county.

Mr. Waring, memorial from farmers in Mecklenburg county against the dog tax, and to allow one dog to a family. Referred.

Reports were made from the different committees.

THE CHARTER OF WILMINGTON.

Mr. French asked suspension of rules to take up the bill to amend the charter of Wilmington. Mr. Cantwell asked who introduced that bill? Mr. French replied that he did not introduce it, but it had the endorsement of the committee on its back. Mr. Kerr stated that he introduced the bill on yesterday and if the Senator from New Hanover was not here at the time it was not the fault of this Senate.

Mr. Cantwell said he was glad this morning to see the Senator from Mecklenburg and the Senator from Carteret in their seats. He hoped this Senate would leave the legislation in local interests to the local representatives themselves. He had always shown a desire in this Senate to give to Senators the legislation of their own local affairs. This bill had been pushed through, he might say, in his absence, with indecorous haste.

Mr. Kerr asked which had the right to rule the municipal affairs of a city, the tax payers or the wanderers, here to-day and there to-morrow, in that city.

Mr. Cantwell replied that these "wanderers" were citizens of the United States and had their rights as well as others. This bill had been acted on in a single night and now was attempted to be rushed through. He would tell this Senate that the people he represented would next election be in the majority in this house. They might vote a two-thirds vote in this Senate for convention but he would tell them that it would be killed in the house, and that the people, whose voice he was, would come to this legislature and they would call the convention and give the people a relief from the constitution which they so much need and desire. The Senate refused to suspend the rules.

Mr. Standford, bill for additional accommodations for the Insane Asylum. Referred.

Mr. Cantwell moved to recommit the Wilmington charter bill to the committee. He was free to admit that the property holders of Wilmington were not properly represented in the present most unfortunate and most defective charter, and he desired an opportunity for digesting his views and amending the bill. He desired to have a Board for city government composed of the property holders in that city. Hour for special order intervening the motion was ruled aside.

LILLINGTON COUNTY.

This is a new county proposed to be made out of New Hanover. Up for special order. Committee recommend that it pass. Mr. Standford offered amendments making Pender the county site instead of Lillington. He pressed the adoption of the bill. It was sent him by citizens of that section who had no representative of their political faith on this floor, and wanted to get free from the radical and carpetbag element.

Mr. Cantwell: Isn't that very element in the majority in that section.

Mr. Standford replied that at the last election they were only in 23 majority, and if the could get free from the corruption of radical rule in the city of Wilmington, they would roll up the best old democratic majority. Mr. Standford continued that the right of petition was a sacred right, &c., and was in the midst of a very earnest sentence when—

Mr. Cantwell: Will the Senator allow me, sir?

Mr. Standford: Certainly.

Mr. Cantwell: (Mimicking) What was the question the Senator asked me?

Mr. Standford: I didn't ask you any question. I only ask you to be quiet and let me proceed. (Laughter.)

Mr. Cantwell, taking his seat: I beg pardon, I thought the Senator asked me a question.

Mr. Standford resumed his speech and advocated the forming the new county in an able manner, giving among other reasons that this people were peculiarly an agricultural people, and under existing state of affairs had to ride 30 to 40 miles to court, and frequently had to stay there three weeks before they got away.

Mr. Linney, by consent of Mr. Standford, interrupted, declaring when the Senator from Duplin began his remarks that he had a face of flint set against his new county, but if he would answer him whether his new county would not interfere in reducing the representation of some other county, Wilkes county, for instance, as would go for the bill.

Mr. Standford replied that it would not interfere at all, that it would leave New Hanover a voting population of four thousand, more than sufficient for three representatives.

Mr. Waring asked if in 1880 the population of Wilmington had increased to what it is now, how it would be?

Mr. S. said he couldn't well answer for that and continued his speech. Mr. Standford's amendments were adopted.

Mr. LeGrand amended that this act should have no effect unless accepted by the majority of the voters at the election to be provided for this new county section by this legislature.

Mr. Waring opposed the bill. He was for legislating for the whole people and not any particular party, and he knew that the people of this State were opposed to the formation of these new counties, thus increasing the burden of taxation. Start three new counties in the East and here will come the West, demanding her new counties, &c. It would cut down representation in counties of Granville, Guilford, Burke, Caswell, Buncombe, &c. One man had no more right in the East to balance two in the West than he had a right to a man's purse.

Mr. Kerr warmly advocated the bill.

Mr. Kerr regretted Mr. LeGrand's amendment to leave to the vote of the section. He and that Senator had been old playmates together, but this amendment proposed to leave his widowed mother to the oppression of Radical rule in that section.

Mr. LeGrand replied that he intended no such thing, but even if it placed one hundred representatives of his own party on this floor, he would never vote to lose a new county upon a people without leaving it to their own choice at the ballot box.

Mr. Kerr replied that he would vote for the amendment if the Senator would assure him that the darkies who would be run up to vote should be made to show their tax receipts.

Mr. Cantwell said he was surprised at the Senator from Duplin who was wont to associate with good Democrats like himself, but had gone over to the anti-democratic party on the floor in advocating the right of the minority and property holders to rule the majority. Who are his leaders?

Mr. Standford: Gov. Graham, Hon. W. N. H. Smith, Gov. Vance and Judge Battle, and the Senator is welcome to all the Democrats who couldn't get office on our side and went over to his.

Mr. Cantwell: And not one of those leaders a Democrat, Mr. President, except the venerable Senator from Duplin himself. He stated that there were 1800 signatures to the petitions against the new county.

Mr. Parish asked him how many of those petitioners reside in the new county? Mr. C. replied he did not know of his own knowledge, and asked clerk to read one of the petitions.

The reading the petitions showed that there were 1,800, and this with the parties that favored the new county, made an aggregate of three thousand, which Mr. Parish contended was the strongest reason for the new county.

Pending Mr. C's speech, Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.
January 26 1875.

At 11 a. m. Mr. Speaker Robinson called the House to order.

Journal of yesterday was read and approved.

Messrs Mendenhall, Erwin and Thompson, of Beaufort presented petitions.

Messrs Richardson, Gudger, Mebane, McRae, Shackelford and Staples submitted reports from standing committees.

By Mr Reid, a bill to amend section 6, chapter 176, laws of 1873-'4. Referred.

B. M. Mock, a bill in relation to the corporate limits of the town of Thomasville. Referred.

By Mr. Page, a bill to incorporate Cedar Fork Lodge, 346, F. and A. M. Referred.

Newell, col., a bill to allow Bladen county to levy a special tax. Referred.

Mr. Staples moved that the vote by which the Senate resolution in regard to the constitution was laid on the table be reconsidered.

Mr. Barnett moved to lay that motion on the table.

The yeas and nays were called, and the motion to table the motion to reconsider did not prevail.

The motion to reconsider then prevailed.

The question recurred on the amendment of Mr. Boyd to leave the whole matter to the people.

The yeas and nays were called and the amendment was rejected.

The resolution was then adopted by the following ballot:

Ayes: Anderson, Atwater, Barnhardt, of Caldwell; Bernhardt, of Rowan; Bennett, Settle, Bissell, Bryan, Bryson, Candler, Carson, Davis, of Jackson; Davis, of Haywood; Dortch, Eatman, Erwin, Etheridge, Fields, Finger, Freeman, Gaither, Garrison, Gash, Green, Griffin, Gudger, Hanner, Harrison, Haymore, H. H. Hooker, Hurley, Isler, Jessup, Jetton Johnston, Kendall, King, Latta, Martin, McCalop, McCubbins, Melvin, McNeill, MacRae, Means, Mebane, Mitchell, Mock, Mills, Moring, Mosely, Oakamith, Page, Patton, Pinnix, Pressen, Proffitt, Reid, Richardson, Shackleford, Sharpe, Smith, of Anson; Smith, of Hyde; Spears, Staples, Stallion, Stephenson, Stowe, Tate, Thompson, of Beaufort; Thompson, of Lincoln; Tolbert, Walker, of Richmond; Walker, of Tyrrell; Whitley, Woodhouse.

Nays: Barnett, Blythe, Boyd, Brewington, Bunn, Carter, Cary, Crews, Glenn, Godwin, Good, Hill, Hughes, Jones, Lloyd, Moore, Newell, Norment, Parker, Scott, Thorne, Walden, Ward, Whisnant, White, Wood.

The bill to create a laborer's and mechanic's lien law and for other purposes, was next considered. Hughes offered a substitute and proceeded to discuss the same at length.

The bill and substitute was recommitted.

Mr. Boyd introduced a bill to amend Battle's Revisal.

The bill to incorporate the Pamlico Insurance and Banking Company passed its several readings, and on motion of Mr. Staton, was transmitted to the Senate without adjournment.

The bill authorizing the city of Greensboro to issue bonds, was, on motion of Mr. Mendenhall, taken up and passed its several readings.

On motion of Mr. McCubbins the rules were suspended and the bill to authorize the County Commissioners of Rowan county to subscribe to the capital stock of the Yadkin R. R. Co., passed its 3rd reading.

House adjourned until to-morrow at 11 a. m.

DEATH OF COL. JAMES W. HINTON.

This announcement will carry sadness and sorrow to many a heart in North Carolina. It is sad when one so useful and distinguished is cut off in the prime of life with such short notice. But there is comfort in the fact that he was not found unprepared. He was no less a favorite in his adopted than in his native state.

The Norfolk Virginian thus speaks of the death of Col. Hinton:

"Not only Norfolk, but all of Tidewater Virginia and North Carolina, and indeed the whole of both Commonwealths, and large numbers of people of other States will unite with us in mourning the loss of one of our most eminent citizens; a loss which will be felt not only in the home circle, in the profession which he adorned, in the political arena, but wherever his name was known, or his face remembered by those who have listened to the eloquent language of Col. James W. Hinton, whose sad and untimely death we have now to record.

Yesterday morning Colonel Hinton was down town, and in conversation with a friend spoke of feeling unusually well. Between 12 and 1 o'clock he entered the law office of Messrs. Goode & Chaplain, his former partners, on business, and was conversing with Mr. Goode for some time, when, on attempting to leave the room, he was stricken with paralysis. Dr. Wm. Selden, his family physician, was immediately called in, who did all that was possible, and the sufferer was conveyed to his residence on York street as soon as practicable. From this attack Col. Hinton sunk gradually, until about 6 o'clock he breathed his last peacefully in the bosom of his family.

An occasion of this sort is one of those occurrences which demands more than the usual notice. Colonel Hinton was a man among men, and although never having held any high public office, his name is a familiar one from one end of the Union to the other, and we therefore compile a short sketch of his life.

He was born in Pasquotank county, North Carolina, in the year 1827, and in his boyhood received only a common country school education. He was, however, studious and diligent, and at an early age acquired the confidence of those who knew him. In 1855 or 56, he was elected clerk of his native county, having previously taken up his residence in Elizabeth City, the county seat. This office he held to the entire satisfaction of his constituents until the breaking out of the war. During his occupancy of that office he studied law, and obtained a license to practice in 1858, entering at once upon an active practice. In this profession he soon exhibited his remarkable talents, and gave promise of that eminence he afterwards attained in the legal forum.

Early imbued with political principles of the Old Line Whig stamp, he, in the memorable Presidential campaign of 1860, when the name of Bell, and Douglas, and Breckinridge, were before the people, was appointed an elector for Bell and Everett, and not only thoroughly canvassed his own district, but also other portions of the State.

Although, as we have said, he was an Old Line Whig, and also a Union man, he was nevertheless opposed to any attempt at coercion, and when the spring of 1861 opened, he espoused cordially the cause of his State and section, and raised a company in his native county, of which he was elected Captain, and which was attached to the 8th North Carolina regiment. He afterwards was prominent in raising and organizing the 68th North Carolina regiment, of which he was elected the Colonel, continuing in that command until the close of the war. As a soldier he was brave and generous, winning the devotion of his own men, and the respect of his enemies; higher praise in that profession could not be awarded.

With the collapse of the Confederacy, he, with all others, who followed the fortunes of the "Stars and Bars," found himself with shattered fortunes and with a family dependent upon his exertions for a livelihood, and in looking around for an eligible location, settled upon this city as his future residence. He again entered upon the practice of his profession, and at once took that stand to which his attainments and talents entitled him, and has ever since maintained an enviable position in the bar of our city.

In adopting Virginia as his home he at once allied himself to her fortunes, and being an ardent politician, his voice was soon heard in advocacy of the rights of the white race, and it was not long before the well-deserved appellation of the "war-horse" was conferred upon him by his admirers. He was foremost in every campaign since his residence here, and at one time held the position of Conservative superintendent, in which he did great service to the cause. In the Greeley campaign of 1872 Colonel Hinton was an active canvasser, and made a tour of the State of Ohio, uttering a series of speeches which electrified his hearers wherever he appeared. In the late contest between the Hon. John Goode and Col. Platt, his efforts were unceasing and its effects incalculable. To use the words of a gentleman whose voice was heard in nearly every voting place in the district, "To Col. Hinton, more than any one else, was Mr. Goode indebted for his election." His thunder tones woke our people up, and his researches into the records furnished pabulum for all the speakers in the canvass. The effect we have all seen, and there is no necessity of saying anything further; his record is embalmed in the memory of the whole people.

Col. Hinton at an early age embraced religion, and entered the Methodist church, in which denomination he continued up to the time of his death. He was a member of the Granby Street M. E. Church, and was also the President of the Sabbath School Association of Norfolk, Portsmouth and Berkley, and in that peculiar department he was, as in everything else, enthusiastic and persevering. Exciting every effort to bring pupils to the schools under the control of the Association, and making himself almost indispensable to that body.

Our notice has been necessarily brief, but we cannot close it without allusion to the subject of this notice in his family relations. As a husband and father he was devoted in the extreme, and we have never seen any one who was more peculiarly fitted to adorn the home circle, or one was more thoroughly appreciated in all the relations of life.

The Right Rev. Herbert Vaughan, D. He is accompanied by seven priests, who will be stationed a different missions in the South. The party at once proceeded to Baltimore, which is the headquarters of the mission.—Tribune.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Baltimore recently held its annual meeting. The Treasurer reported the receipts for the past year to have been $4,413; the expenditures as $4,408. The number of new members was stated to be 65. A Winter Home, which has lately been established by the Association, has, during the past month, accommodated 991 lodgers; 1,899 free meals have been furnished to destitute men, and it has been decided to sell meal tickets in the future at 5 cents each, on account of the numerous applications received. A Bible Class has been formed at the Home with an average attendance of 50 persons. The President, S. W. T. Hooper, was unanimously re-elected.

Spurgeon thus responds to a request of a Boston lecture Bureau that he visit this country: "It is not possible for me to leave my work except for a short interval to rest. I have no one to occupy my pulpit, preside over my church, look after the college, govern the orphanage, superintend the colporteurs, edit the magazine, &c. I must keep my hand on the oar till I die. I see no hope of my visiting America, much as I would like to greet the brethren there. Compensation is not an item of consideration. Nothing indeed could compensate my conscience if I left my work and any harm came to it. I know, within a little, what I can do, and I feel that I cannot conscientiously attempt a work in America to which I am not called to the injury of that which now engrosses all my time and every facility I possess."

NEW GOODS AGAIN AT Creech's.

SECOND STOCK THIS SEASON.

It affords me more than ordinary pleasure to offer to the trade and consumers of Dry Goods, a second stock bought within the last few days in New York, and will be sold at prices which enables me to ask competition no odds.

My stock of Dress Goods embrace a large and complete line of beautiful shades and colors, from low price to fine fabric. My stock of piece goods, Hats, Boots, Shoes, Carpets, Yankee Notions, &c., is no doubt the largest to be found in the city, and to which I would call the special attention of close buyers, and here allow me to say that I do not propose to close or wind up my business, but on the contrary to extend it. So bear in mind Creech's is the place.

Those who study economy and profitable investment can do no better than to give me a call.

Being truly alive to the demands of the hour, and anxious to secure a large trade, claim to put before the public the largest stock to be found in the city.
