THE SENTINEL.

JOSIAH TURNER, Editor.

MONDAY, MAY 17, 1875.

ABOUT THE FIGHT.

On Wednesday last Mr. A. G. Moore, of Alamance, a stockholder in the Raleigh News, visited the SENTINEL office in search of the editor who had not returned from Rockingham court. He was not very choice in his language concerning us.

On Thursday morning the editor came and Mr. Moore renewed his visit. After talking for a half or three quarters of an hour, at first in a low and friendly tone and finally in a loud and furious voice, he left to return at three o'clock upon being told that we could give him no more of our time at present.

When he returned in the afternoon we told him we had no disposition to spend the evening in a quarrel as we had the morning, and if he had any cause of complaint it should be stated in writing. He said he could make use of the pen as well as you (us.) We insisted that it required but little skill, and when in writing there could be no misunderstanding. He insisted on using his tongue instead of his pen. And then followed a lengthy conversation, at first in a low and moderate tone of voice. It was a repetition of the morning's conversation, and all about the Stockholder's correspondence. He said it was not agreeable to himself, Col. Tom Holt or their friends. We called his attention to what his paper, the News, had said of us this morning. We told him his paper was foully calumnious of us. He asked us why we did not attack the men who wrote for it. Our answer was that Cameron, Dunham, Woodson and those who wrote for the News could not publish without money from the stockholders. That the News had broken down after spending $25,000 of ring and corporation money. That it failed again recently when its printers quit because they were not paid for their work. He insisted we must attack the men who wrote for the News, while we insisted the stockholders were answerable, and the editors were only writing for their bread, while the original owners or stockholders had set up a paper to break down the SENTINEL. We told him we had three of the stockholders indicted at Rockingham court for libel, and if they repeated their libels upon us we would indict them in every court in the State. He asked why we did not indict him? Our answer was we had personal reasons for leaving out most of them. There were some Stockholders we would not indict or think evil of for the world, but if he desired it, or was hurt at being left out, we would have him indicted in every county where his paper circulates. When we could not convince him of the too plain proposition that the Stockholders were responsible as well as the editors, he grew angry and said we had assailed him. We denied the soft impeachment, and said we could not remember calling his name in the Stockholder's correspondence. He said we lied, and went out to get the proof. He went towards Stockholder Blacknall's where he met Stockholder Clark. He soon returned, when we repeated there had never, as we thought, been mention of his name, and only one allusion made to him, and that was that one of the Alamance Stockholders had complained to the editor of the News and threatened to sever his connection with it if the paper did not come out and denounce the ring men. We felt satisfied that Moore had come for a fight, and after listening to much loud and angry talk, when he said if "we wanted anything out of him, we could have it right now," we drew a pocket pistol and cocked it without getting from our seat. We told him we wanted nothing out of him, but he must keep his distance, and that we would shoot him if he put his hands upon us. He dared us to shoot him but we said no, we did not desire to injure him, and our purpose was to keep the peace and not engage in a fight where he would have all the advantage. Upon a boy entering with proof to be read, Mr. Moore retired to the adjoining room and soon returned making rapid strides into our office. He found us on our feet with pistol cocked. We forbid his moving one step towards us. Tom Turner, our son, a lad belonging to Major Manly's Light Infantry, picked up his musket unloaded and cocked it. Mr. Moore told him if he killed him (Moore) with that gun, he had friends who would kill him in ten minutes, and if we shot him with that gun we would not live ten minutes. We repeated he was in no danger, he should not be hurt unless he provoked the fight. We then told him he must leave our office, which he did, and soon placed himself fifty yards off at the courthouse, where he remained for sometime talking in a loud tone of voice and slapping his hands together. Major Manly, the City Marshal, threatened to arrest him and did carry him over to the Yarboro House. About nine o'clock at night Mr. A. G. Moore stood at the courthouse again talking loud, clapping his hands and threatening, as we learn from others, to take our life. We learn the same fact through a gentleman who heard Colonel Clark say that Mr. Moore had said he would "kill Turner." And this is all we "know about the fight." We had sufficient provocation and indeed lost but little inclination to do so. The Stockholders of the News are the men's name, but they should understand that we claim the right to name and hold all who furnish money to run the paper more responsible than the editors who smell it. They cannot plead "private" after furnishing the money by means of which we are vilely calumniated. We assure all the Stockholders as we did Colonel Clark, none of them shall have reason to complain of a want of justice or truth in what we shall say of them.

The majority party in the next house of representatives will put its foot on the throats of the minority and arbitrarily refuse to enact laws for the protection of human life in the South. When it was in power in the house that party adopted the two-thirds rule, which now prevents the will of the majority from finding expression in the form of completed legislation. The abrogation of this rule is now absolutely necessary, for the reason that the majority party in the present house must enact the legislation, which, as we have said, the next house will arbitrarily refuse to enact. No man who desires recognition as a republican will shrink before this imperative demand to provide against the positive and cruel certainties of the future. Human rights and human life depend upon it.—National Republican.

Bosh! Don't give yourself any trouble. The house will be under the same rules republicans adopted. The change will be in the manners and the men. A white man will be as much thought of in the next Congress as a negro, and it is that which will grieve some editors and publishers.

THE GAUGE QUESTION.

We will publish in a few days that part of Hon. E. F. Moore's opinion on the power of the Legislature over railroad corporations in the State, the change of gauge, &c. The lease of the railroad was an outrage upon the people and the State for which $30,000 is said to have been paid. The change of gauge was an outrage committed by a foreign bribe-giving corporation upon the trade and dignity of the State.

CHARLES LAMB, ESQUIRE, denounced all spirituous liquors as "Wet Damnation." Poor fellow; he knew whereof he spoke, by sad experience, and if living would apply the same to Alcoholic Excitants, advertised as Curealls. But there is one Tonic and Alterative in existence—the best the world has ever known—which contains no alcohol. It is Doctor WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS. ap 23-4w

A mild aperient and gentle purgative, recommended for the cure of all derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. By their timely use such sickness is prevented. The test of many years have proven them to be the safest, surest and best of all the pills ever offered to the public. They purify the blood, remove all corruptions and restore the diseased system to perfect health. As an Antidote to Chills and Fever they have no equal. For Dyspepsia they are a Specific For Sick Headache and Bilious Colic they are a sure cure. For Constipation, Rheumatism Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, Nervousness, a positive remedy. For Female Irregularities, without a rival. "When one does not "feel very well," a single dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and imparts vigor to the system. Sold everywhere. Office 18 Murray Street, New York.

DR. TUTT'S HAIR DYE

is easily applied, imparts a beautiful black or brown, and acts like magic. The best in the world. Sold by all druggists. Price $1.00 a box.

THE ghastly record of deaths that result from pulmonary affections is frightful. There is no disease that is so insidious in its attack as consumption. By the neglect of "slight colds" they soon become deep seated and defy remedies, which, if applied at the outset, would have averted all danger. Dr. Tutt's Expectorant has proven itself the most valuable Lung Balsam ever discovered. A distinguished clergyman of New York, pronounces it the "greatest blessing of the nineteenth century," and says "no family should be without it." It is pleasant to the taste, and a single dose will often remove the most obstinate cough. Office, 18 Murray Street, New York.
