BEST IN THE SHOP .- Randolph county comes into the Convention field with the best she's got. In point of ability, character, and everything that adorus the christian and marks the upright man, there are no representatives of any people better men than Dr. J. M. Worth, a brother of our lamented Gov-ernor, and Dr. B. Craven, President of Trinity College. Good for Randolph, the people feel cheered at such offerings.

INCIDENTS OF A SUICIDE'S DEATH -The New York Tribune states that at the time Capt. W. H. Brown (who committed suicide in that city on Friday) was dying, he spoke of a ring that he had swallowed. This ring was found. It was of plain gold, with raised chaise edges. On the inside of the ring was engraved, "Be satisfied." The story of the ring was not ascertained, but it is believed that the ring had been given revived them. They grew rapidly and to tapt. Brown by the daughter of an army officer. It is said that he had been much attached to the young lady, and it is believed that her recent marriage had upset his mind and had been suicide.

A FARCE IN COURT .- In the good old days it used to be "boys" could have a little "set to" on the hustings, and a good old squire would put on his spectacles and try the case before dinner was ready. But we had no Deputy United States Marshals in those days. The 8th day of last July 1874, Sandy Colvin and Daniel McCan had aquarrel on the hustings at Averysboro in Harnett county, while the candidates were speaking at the other end of the green. It was a kind of free fight quarrel, tho' nobody struck a lick, until the crowd got most too thick, and Ras Bird shinned Tom Hodges over the head with a stick, It was just the time for Burrell Hodges, who was "knockin' around" on the outskirts, and was a deputy United States Marshal, tho' he ought to have rode a big white horse and had a sash on, so the whole neighborhood could have known it, any way, it was just the time for Burrell Hodges to let loose the American Eagle, and he did it with a flourish, just about the very time that deputy sheriff McNeal, who only ob. erved a little neighborhood breeze ng itating Averysboro, and saw Burrell Hodges mixing in amongst the crowd, but didn't know he was exercising the Eagle, stepped up and touched Mr. Hodges, and announced to the boys they must quit that fuss, he wasn't going to have any fighting, and the thing must quiet down, but Burrell Hodges brandshed a pistol and cried to the deputy sheriff to "hands off," or he'd put a bullet through his condemned brain. Everybody saw the Eagle then, and retired to their homes, nobody having been struck but Tom Hodges, who got well in three days, and everybody having swapped a bad word or two against everybody else than the United States Government. But lo to-day is in progress a trial, in the Federal Court against Carol Avery, Sandy Colvin, Elias Stevens, William Fowler, Hinton Stew-Stevens, William Fowler, Hinton Stew-ard, Charlie Steward, George Steward, Ashley Steward, Dr. McNeal, Hugh McClean, John Grady, James Moore, Joel Clifton, and John Jackson, four-teen young farmers, all hard working men, dragged from their crops, potatoes not planted, and forsooth indicted by this man Burrell Hodges for forming a conspiracy against a United States Mar-shall The thing is too ridiculous for a

THE LADIES.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith (Ida Greeley) have taken a house for the season in West End, London. They will make excursions into the country from time to time.

Chimney soot is said to be a valuable stimulant and fertilizer for garden flow ers. A lady who had tried in vain to train a rose and grape vine over her windows was despairing over the stunted plants, when some one recom ed "soot tea." Forthwith she made some "tea," taking a tea-cupful of soot to a quart of water. Two or three doses to both rose and vine effectually luxuriantly.

The other day a lady went to pay he respects to one of the latest arrivals on the list of babyhood, when the following coloquy took place between her and chester, Va. A reception ball will be the little four-year-old sister of the new comer:

"I have come for the baby, now, said the lady.

"You can't have it," was the reply "But I must : I came over on pur pose," urged the visitor.

"We can't spare it at all," persisted the child; "but I'll get you a piece of paper, and you can cut a pattern."

"I shall insist upon a quiet and very mostentatious wedding," said Miss Wriggle to her future mother-in-law. "Ma has ordered 1500 cards for the church and only half as many for our reception at Delmonico's. Tiffany's man will see that the presents are arranged where all can see them, and I think Bernstein's is the best orchestra we can hire. I shall wear white silk, and my six bride-maids white tulle. Pa says a bishop and two clergymen will be ample to perform the ceremony, and-" She paused, for the mother-in-law elect had left the room to search for her son. There is a rumor that an engagement is

Bread and cheese: I met my love in the summer; The breeze blew from the South, Sweet with the breath of the clover I kissed her little mouth. But I told my pet so plainly,
As I gave her hand a squeeze,
"I've lots of love for you darling,
But not much bread and cheese.

But theu she showed her dimples; The blue eyes seemed to shine; Her head was on my shoulder; The little lips sought mine.
She said, "I am not hungry.
And summer And summer time is here, Who cares for bread-and-che I want the kisses, dear."

John Quincy Adams was called a cold man because he was diguified, thoughtful, scholarly. But he had the warmest heart and deepest sympathics for those who knew him outside of his official position, though a cynical air and expression toward those with whom policy or official courtesy had brought him into momentary contact. It is related of him that, when a candidate for the Presidency, he was persuaded, much against his will, to visit the county cattle show. Among the plain and hearty farmers who crowded around him was one impulsive old farmer, who, shaking him by the band, exclaimed: "Mr. Adams, I'm very glad to see you My wife, when she was a gal, used to live of chatham in your father's family. You were then a little boy, and she has often combed your head?" "Aell," said lit, Adams, harshly, "I suppose she combs yours now." This extinguished the old fellow, and undoubtedly lost Mr Adams at least one vote.

A FATAL CHALLENGE, -HAVAN June 5.—A duel took place yesterday between Dr. Algernon Sydney Curtis, of New York, and Salvador Cortere tobacco merchant of Havana and No York. The combatants had been infimate friends for many years, and had lived together in New York. Dr. Curtis arrived here about two weeks ago and was stopping at Cortereal's hous He states that yesterday morning he was awakened by Cortereal slapping his face, and accusing him of corrupting his wife. This Curtis denied and bot word ensued which resulted in a challenge fight and its acceptance. That evenly both men proceeded to Mariana without witnesses, and on arriving there dismissed the carriage. Five shots were fired by each of the contestants, beginning at a distance of twenty feet and firing as they advanced. At the fifth discharge Dr. Curtis was seriously wounded in the hip and fell to the ground, fainting from pain and loss of blood. Upon recovering conscious he says he saw Cortereal reload his revolver, place it at his temple, and fire, killing himself, Cortereal's body has been brought to this city . It is thought he believed his opponent dead when he killed himself. Dr. Curtis is confined to his bed by the severity of his wounds, and is under police surveillance
