WYCKOFF'S HEN.—Says Col. Whitford in his Agricultural Journal: We were presented this morning with an egg of a dark Bantam hen, by C. H. Wyckoff, Esq., with Messrs. McCallum, Wyckoff & Hope of Raleigh, which measured eight inches one way and six inches the other, and weighs 5 1/2 ounces, thus it will be seen that there are three eggs to the pound.

Dr. Pritchard will preach to-morrow on the obligations on all Christians to work for the Sunday Schools.

SUPREME COURT.—The court was engaged to-day in the case of Robert Norfleet vs. Staten from Edgecombe. It was argued.

SCHOOL NOTICE.—The examination of the students of the Lovejoy Academy, will begin on Tuesday the 15th instant and continue three days.

THEODORE N. RAMSAY.—His arrival in Canada.—Theo. N. Ramsay arrived in Belleville, Canada, and is the guest of Dr. Palmer.

GOOD FISHING.—Mr. J. Fowler of House's Creek Township this county, went fishing yesterday at the poor house pond with a rifle.

WYCKOFF'S HEN.—Says Col. Whitford in his Agricultural Journal: We were presented this morning with an egg of a dark Bantam hen, by C. H. Wyckoff, Esq., with Messrs. McCallum, Wyckoff & Hope of Raleigh, which measured eight inches one way and six inches the other, and weighs 5 1/2 ounces, thus it will be seen that there are three eggs to the pound.

EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION.—The 3rd annual meeting of the Educational Association of North Carolina will be held in the city of Raleigh, commencing Wednesday, July 14th, 1875.

By order of the Executive Committee. JOHN E. DUGGAR, Secretary.

NOTICE OF TOWNSHIP MEETING.—There will be a public meeting of all Democrats of good standing in Raleigh Township, on Saturday, the 19th day of June, 1875, at the Court House at 5 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of sending delegates to the general County Convention to be held in the City of Raleigh, on the 26th day of June, 1875, to nominate candidates to the State Constitutional Convention.

DEATH OF MR. MARSHALL'S CHILD.—We learn the infant child Matthew of Rev. Mr. Marshall of Christ Episcopal Church, this city, died last night at Beaufort. The child was quite sick here and at the urgent advice of medical attendance the parents carried him to the seaside the other day thinking and trusting the salt air and change of place would be of benefit.

THE STORM.—A big pour of rain and an artillery display of thunder and lightning came off last night at midnight hour. The lightning struck in several places but we have heard of neither man or beast being killed.

In casting our eyes over our State for men to take this front rank in the education of our youths, there is one person whose qualifications strike us as eminently fitted for this high and responsible position. A gentleman of the highest type, a scholar of varied acquirements and profound depth, a polished writer and fluent speaker, and above all a Christian of spotless reputation, the Rev. J. M. Atkinson would adorn almost any chair he might be called on to fill, and would give tone and character to any institution to which he might be attached.

DO DOGS HAVE SOULS?—Byron and Solomon say not. When a friend said to Bishop Butler, "Bishop, your argument on the immortality of the soul would prove that dogs have souls."

And yet there are some rotting Republicans who say the "negro hath no soul, or bones in his nose."

BISHOP MARVIN.—This distinguished divine of the M. E. Church, South, is in the city, the guest of Rev. J. E. Fobbit. His reputation as an orator was more than sustained at Trinity College where, by his sermon and address, he produced a most profound and decided impression.

In this connection, we are requested to say that the 3d Quarterly Meeting for Person Street Church, will be held to-morrow, Rev. J. P. Moore presiding. Communion services will be held in the afternoon at 4 o'clock, at which the ordinance of baptism will be administered by Bishop Marvin to several persons.

PERSONAL

The Charlotte Daily Eagle has suspended.

The Rocky Mount Odd Fellows have had a picnic.

Lieut. Governor Armfield attended Triply commencement.

Sinclair & Co., of Charlotte propose publishing at Greensboro a daily paper called the Register to be distributed free.

Jack Mills: If a little rough like the uncut diamond, like it also when put to the test can sparkle in the brightest cluster. Mr. Mills is the real friend of the friendless, and homeless and helpless, and no greater epitaph could be inscribed upon his monument than those words.

Dug his own grave. Thos. Cunningham, an old negro who died here during last year, we are told is lying buried in a grave which he dug himself. An imported schoolmaster (colored) who sickened and died was first buried in the grave, but was afterward disinterred and carried to the North. Tom died more than a year afterwards, and his friends buried him in the same grave, which had been left open after the first body had been taken out.—Milton Chronicle.

RELIGIOUS

The Tarboro Southern recommends Rev. Dr. J. M. Atkinson of this city, the pure man and accomplished divine, for a professorship at Chapel Hill. That paper says:

We feel no disposition to forestall the action of the Board of Trustees of the University in regard to the choice of professors to fill the various chairs. We hope it will be bound by no sectional or denominational bias, that it will allow no narrow minded idea to cripple its efficiency, but that it will soar above all prejudice or favor, and consider the simple quality of merit far beyond local peculiarities and sectarian proclivities.

We therefore hope, without presuming to dictate, that the name of this eminent divine may be brought before the meeting of the Board soon to take place, and he may be tendered one of the vacant chairs of our University.

THE LADIES

The report that the Princess of Wales was "losing her hearing" was only a Cockney perversion. She lost her earring.

The Prussians are endeavoring by moral means to induce the large number of women who regularly abandon their newly born infants in that city to keep and rear them.

Miss Alice M. Singer daughter of the sewing machine inventor, was married on Wednesday in South Devon, England, to W. A. P. Lagrove, formerly of Brooklyn. It is stated the bride's dowry is $1,000,000 in addition to which she received $10,000 worth of diamonds. Her wedding dress cost $1,000, and each of the six bridesmaids received a dress worth $250 from Mr. Singer.

Mrs. Beecher hearing Beach. All alone during the latter part of the day, she sat out the full four hours, pale as her whitened hair, and silent, showing no emotion, but steadily gazing at the face of the full-blooded, fierce, unrelenting, outspoken man who was addressing the jury with all the strength of his lungs, the faculties of brain and the intensest convictions of his soul to convict her husband of adultery.

Gen. Duff Green died at his residence in Dalton, Ga., yesterday at an advanced age. During the administration of Jackson and Van Buren he was editor of the Telegraph, the national democratic organ at Washington, and also figured conspicuously as a lobbyist in securing the passage of various bills through Congress and several State Legislatures.

Edmondson B. Metcalf, recently a reporter on the Brooklyn newspapers, either committed suicide in his room Tuesday, or was accidentally shot. He had a mania for military life, knew Up-ton's tactics by heart, and his room was an armory of a great variety of weapons. He slept nightly with two rifles under his pillow, and his walls were decorated with numerous prints of Napoleon the First, of whom he was an enthusiastic admirer.

The Boston Traveler states that Richmond (commandery, of Richmond, Va.) will leave that city for Boston to participate in the Bunker Hill centennial exercises, via the Richmond, York River and Chesapeake railroad, on Monday evening, June 14. On the arrival of the Commandery in Baltimore it will be received by an escort tendered by M. E. Sir Wm F. Adron, Grand Commander of Templars of Maryland, and march from Light-street wharf to the Calvert-street depot.

At the inquest held in New York, on Wednesday in the case of Capt. W. H. Brown, who committed suicide in that city on Friday Dr. Hoff, the attending physician testified that it was thought that the transfusion of some fresh blood into the veins of the dying man might revive him, and so about two ounces were taken from a gentleman's veins, who volunteered to submit to the operation, and were injected into Brown's veins. The fresh blood did not revive him but brought on slight convulsions, Stimulants were then administered, but the convulsions grew more and more severe until 6:30 p. m., when he died. Dr. Leo testified that he had made a post mortem examination of the remains, and had found that death was caused by hemorrhage from a self-inflicted wound on the neck. The verdict was in accordance with the facts.

The Elmwood colly, with all the edges folded, will sit better, and wear longer than any other. Prove this by trying.

Telegraphic News

FROM VIRGINIA.

NORFOLK, June 11.—Capt. Brown, of the schooner J. C. arrived here to-day in charge of the iron safe of the United States man of war Cumberland, which was run into and sunk on Hampton Roads by Confederate Ram Virginia, 1862. The divers had been at work on the dock ten years, having in view the recovery of this safe. The lucky man had only been at the wreck forty-eight hours when he found the safe buried in three or four feet of mud. The water at that place is 78 feet deep. By the explosion of a torpedo, the safe was cracked and it was hoisted on deck. A few pieces of gold coin dropped out. It is generally believed that the safe contains between sixty and one hundred thousand dollars in gold.

It is estimated that more than one hundred thousand dollars have been lost by different parties in trying to recover this treasure. The safe and treasure belong to Capt. Brown and O. E. Maltby of this city, and Hubert Gonith of Detroit, Mich. When Capt. Brown was searching the wreck he came across a petrified human body in a perfect state. It was smothered by crabs or fish and the flesh was extremely hard.

SENATOR MORTON

WASHINGTON, June 8, 1875. Senator Morton has been somewhat reticent about the President's third term letter until to-day, when, in conversation with a friend who asked him what he thought of the letter, Senator Morton replied:

"Well, it is Grant all over. I believe he wrote every word of it himself, and do not think he read it over after he had written it out. He is a man of such wonderful confidence and reliance that he made up his mind to let it go to the world just as he had written it, without an alteration or correction. But I do not think myself that there was any more reason for writing it now than has existed heretofore, at least for the past six months, though I have no doubt whatever that the action of the Pennsylvania Convention called it out, but did not create a necessity for it. Some of our republican friends pretend to say that it is not a withdrawal, while others again claim that it is a virtual declaration of another nomination."

FRIEND

What do you think of the possibility of President Grant's re-election?

Senator Morton—I think the late Convention in Pennsylvania settled that beyond any question, and I do not suppose it is a question in issue.

FOREIGN

A telegram has announced the death of the Abbe Artru, Cure of the Croix Rousse at Lyons. That venerable ecclesiastic had been decorated by Napoleon III, himself, under the following circumstances: When the Emperor visited the Capital of the Rhone in 1860, he had heard the quarter in question described in such unfavorable terms that he hesitated a little about going there. And as he was speaking on the subject with the Prefect, an old Lyonsese functionary present at the interview, said: "Sire, if you wish to be applauded by the Croix Rousse, nothing is more easy; you have only to decorate, coram populo, M. Artru, the Cure." "Good," replied Napoleon III., and he immediately drove to that parish. An immense crowd had assembled in the large square and occupied the windows and roofs of the houses looking at the clergy waiting for His Majesty. As soon as the Emperor saw M Artru, he alighted and taking off his own cross placed it upon the breast of the worthy ecclesiastic. The effect was immediate, as thunders of applause broke out, followed by cries of "Vive l'Empereur!" "Vive M. Artru!"
