The City.

—The weather is battering.

—The week of prayer has not been generally observed this week.

—Dr. Charles E. Johnson is expected back from Charlotte to-morrow.

—Bayil a d Hell's Half Acre, are the suggestive names of Raleigh's worst localities.

—Saturday is the day for the grand excursion from down the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad.

—Gov. Holden and family and Major A. M. Lewis and family returned from the mountains yesterday.

—The types yesterday made us fix the time of the appearance of the lunar rainbow at 6 o'clock, p. m., whereas it was nine.

—The Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina will meet in the Executive chamber in Raleigh on the 31st of August, at 10 o'clock, a. m.

—Gov. Brogden has issued a writ to the sheriff of Orange ordering the election of a delegate to supply the place of ex Gov. Graham. The 16th of Sept. is the day fixed upon.

—St. Mary's School opens its fall session on the 3rd of September. The Calisthenic exercises will be among the improvements introduced. The session will begin with an increased number of pupils.

—The gentlemen spoken of for the Orange vacancy are Major John W. Graham, Major Patterson, Dr. Pride Jones, Henry K. Nash, Esq., Paul C. Cameron, and may be one or two others.

—The young man Davis of Chapel Hill that stabbed his twin brother in that place on Sunday last and has fled the country, was an omnibus driver in this city about 2 years ago.

—It is generally understood that his Excellency Gov. Brogden will select the Raleigh Light Infantry as his guard of honor and escort to the centennial next year. Why don't the Governor prepare to march to Philadelphia at the head of all the military organizations of the State that may desire to attend?

—The Petersburg Star thinks that the friends of Col. Ike Young think that Col. Ike himself thinks that the Republican party of North Carolina may think of him very seriously as a proper person for that party to put forward as presiding officer of the Convention. We think so too if the President is to be a Rad.

—The largest sale of tobacco ever made by one house at one time in North Carolina was effected at the large factory of Messrs. W. T. Blackwell & Co., at Durham yesterday. A cash order from a Philadelphia firm for 2500 cases of tobacco amounting in the aggregate to $60,000 was filled at once. This is the largest tobacco manufacturing establishment south of Baltimore, and in all probability the largest in the United States.

LARGE SALE OF COFFEE, &c.—By reference to our new advertising column it will be seen that on Thursday the 26th of August, Messrs. Davenport & Morris, Auctioneers, Richmond, Va., will dispose of 4,000 bags of choice Rio Coffee, and Groceries at Auction, which will be a good opportunity for country merchants and others to lay in their fall supply. See advertisement.

HELMBOLD IN AN INSANE ASYLUM.—Henry T. Helmbold, the former proprietor of many patent medicines, has been sent to an insane asylum in Philadelphia, to which city he had recently returned from Europe. In conversation with a reporter he told wonderful tales of what he proposed to do in the future, and, for a man whose business has been wrecked, spoke profoundly confident. On Wednesday last two physicians examined him and pronounced him insane. They then made affidavit before an alderman reciting the result of the examination, and on Saturday Mr. Helmbold was removed to Dr. Kirkbride's asylum.

OUR LIVING AND OUR DEAD.—The August number of Our Living and Our Dead lies on our table filled with unusually attractive and interesting articles among them, "Lines on Hearing the Steamboat's Bell Toll, &c.," (Poetry by J. G. B.

"Events in North Carolina in 1765-6, by T. H. Kingsbury.

"Company G. 38th N. C. Troops," by John E. Rhein.

"The Granville Grays."

"Gen. Lane's Report of the Battle of Chancellorsville."

"Evidences of the Mecklenburg Declaration," by Johnstone Jones."

"The Closing Scene," Letter from Gen. Lee.

"Reminiscences of the Granville County Bar over Forty-five Years Ago," by Hon. Abram W. Venable.

A continuation of the novels by Mrs. O. W. Harris and Christian Reid.

"Charles Augustin Sainte-Beuve," by T. B. Kingsbury.

"The Moral Training of Youth," by T. B. K.

The magazine has improved very much inwardly and outwardly. The new dress it has donned being much more attractive, and the increased size of the volume giving us more reading matter. It deserves the patronage of the people of our State. We ought to hold up the hands of the editor by subscription and contribution to the magazine. In the publisher's notice he says:

"The year ending with August, 1876, will decide the continuance of our publication." "If he is not more liberally sustained from this time out, than he has been during the year just ended, he must abandon the enterprise, in which his heart and mind and energies are so much enlisted, and leave to others the great work he had undertaken."

PROBABLE HORRIBLE MURDER.—We have the particulars from a friend of a probable horrible murder in Columbus County. It seems that on Saturday morning about three o'clock, there was shouting heard at a place known as the Gornegan place, together with a light as if a house was on fire. The neighbors soon gathered on the spot, when it was found that the house was in truth on fire and that the cries proceeded from two children, the only surviving members of the family residing at the place, which consisted of a man by the name of Eli Coleman, his son and daughter. When the neighbors reached the place the house was nearly consumed, while in the midst of the flames, and at that time beyond the reach of any earthly assistance, was the body of the unfortunate man Coleman. The two children that escaped, aged respectively 13 and 15 years, succeeded in saving all the furniture, but strange to say their father, who was a young, hearty and vigorous man, was burned to death. Strong suspicion, we understand, is entertained that foul play was used. It appears that on Friday evening, about ten o'clock, deceased left his mother's house to go home, the distance being about one mile. He was not drinking, and it is not likely he could have procured anything intoxicating on the road, as it led through the woods, and there were no cross-paths or houses on the route, while it is known that he reached home in due time and had nothing of the kind about the house.

As before stated, the children saved all of the trunks and furniture around their father, even including the trunk under the bed on which he was lying, but when the flames were extinguished he was not in that portion of the house, our informant states, as reported by the children, and not all of the bones of the skull in that portion of the house with the body.

This tragedy occurred about four miles East of Fair Bluff, and of course has been the cause of no little excitement in the neighborhood.—Wil. Star.

DESCENDED FROM THE CLOUDS.—We were shown yesterday by Mr. J. Reed, druggist, a fish which in the yard of Mr. Paul Furr, during the rainstorm on Sunday last. Mr. Furr lives on Sandy Ridge, in this county, several miles from any water course, and any one who knows him would as soon doubt Moses and the prophets as to question his veracity. Mr. Furr states that he was sitting in his porch and saw the fish descending, and when it struck the ground he immediately picked it up and placed it in water. It did not seem stunned from its fall, but was lively as a cricket. It is now in possession of Mr. Reed. We presume it was carried from Old Ocean by a water spout.—Concord Sun.

THE MURDER OF MRS QUICK.

[Wil. Star.]

Upon the arrest of Henry Calder, under a warrant issued by the Coroner of Marlboro county, S. C., he confessed that some days before the murder heretofore alluded to in our issues of Tuesday and Wednesday last, he had been employed to marry Mrs. Quick, and afterwards to dispose of her, unless he could decoy her off alone and murder her secretly on the way to the residence of the minister selected to perform the marriage service. The plot being thus far successful, and when a little over half way from the residence of the woman to that of the minister, Calder drew a club from his clothing, which he had previously concealed and struck her a terrible blow across the mouth breaking her two jawbones in two places (as shown by post mortem examination.) The murderer then cut her throat and searched her for the large amount of money Charley Quick told him she carried about her person, but he found only a small amount of currency and silver, beside a number of papers, among which was a note against Charles Quick, the accomplice, for eight hundred dollars which was turned over to Quick as per previous agreement. After murdering the woman Calder left her for the purpose of getting a spade with which to bury her, but felt so badly for what he had done that he finally concluded not to go about her again, but went to the banks of a stream near by and after searching the pocket book taken from the murdered lady carefully, he took out the contents and threw the book in the water, after which he left for his home in the lower part of Marion county, S. C., where Quick went to meet him and obtain the note against him, and where he was afterwards taken up and brought to trial, from whence he was carried to the county jail of Marlboro county and confined, with his accomplice Charles Quick, where they will await their trial before the county court for willful murder.

As stated before, Charles Quick married a step daughter of the murdered lady, to whom her property was to descend at her death, which induced Charles Quick to secure her departure from this life. Peter Calder, a near neighbor to the murdered lady, had talked over the murder with these parties and knew their plans. He too has been arrested, but we know nothing of the result of his arrest yet.
