CITY IMPROVEMENTS .- For some time past, our efficient board of aldermen have been talking about water-works and have appointed a committee to consider the matter. Long ago, the Sentinel urged this matter upon the authoritics and published favorable communisations from capable engineers as to the feasibility of procuring a comparatively cheap and abundant supply of water for the city. Now our city dads are caucusing about the propriety of the city having her own gas-works on account of the rates charged by the present company. This may be all right at the proper time, but the matter does not rise to the dignity of a necessity like that of water-works and the paving at least of Fayetteville, Wilmington and portions of Martin and Hargett streets. During many weeks in winter, these thoroughfares are in a condition bad mough to disgrace a rugged monutain village, much less the capital of a great state. Let's have the streets properly fixed, and a supply of water sufficient at least to preserve the city from destruction in case of fire. When these things are done, then it will be time enough to talk about new gas-works,

THE TWO ORPHANS, -- Wholesale and in, discriminate puffery is the curse of American newspaperdom. Beslabbering with fulsome laudations every quack and humbug in politics, medicine, science and religion. Blowing liliputian jackleg lawyers and pot-house politicians into aen who would split the molds in which were cast Demosthenes and Cicero, Cato, Bacon, Burke, Webster, Clay and Calhoun all combined. Making prodigious professors of every wheezy hurdygurdy grinder or cornstalk fiddle scraper. And invishing terms that would be extravagauzas in regard to Booth's theater or the Royal pers, on every miserable, vulgar dogshow and caravaneary of stuffed makes or calves, that comes along. MEBANESVILLE, N. C., Nov. 8, 1875. EDITOR SENTINEL : Last Friday even-ing Gen, W. R. Cox, of Raleigh deliv-ered a very interesting and instructive lecture before the pupils of the Bing-ham school at this place. His subject "The ion of Phys Science to the Use of Man." The effort was an able one, and the theme elabo-rately handled in all its details. The lecture was replete with learning, and pleasantly interspersed with spt and humorous hits at the times. His conclusion was an eloquent appeal to hi young auditors to give a thoughtful con aideration to the duties and responsibili-ties which would devolve upon the from the fact of the high educations advantages they were now enjoying. He urged them to make the most of their when it doesn't, it doesn't, and that's the fortunate present, in order to fit them selves for an honorable future, for th elevated position in life to which their olastic training and a laudable ambition would entitle them to aspire, The lecture was heard with rapt attention and is likely to produce good fruit. Gen. Cox is very popular in this region, and I hear his name frequently men-tioned in connection with our nex next gubernatioual nomination. R. W. B.

How many wretched homes in our hand 1 How many heart-broken five-lids ! Life with many signifies a mere onerous existence. All are subject to discusse, but when health is removed the hope is nearly gone out. Sickness is usually incurred through exposure or carelessness. Especially is this true with those discuss peculiar to woman. Through here own improdence and folly, she is made todrag out a miscrable ex-istence a source of annoyance and anxiety to her friands, and any thing but a comfort and pleasure to herself. Exposure to the cold at times when she should be moot prudent, and evertax-ing her body with laborious amploy-ment are both fruitful causes of many of the maladies from which she suffers. Gradually the bloom leaves her check, her lips grow asky white, her sivacity departs, she coatinnally experiences a feeling of weariness and general languor and altogether presents a gostly appear ance. end of it. Hall's Combination is good-the best traveling troups that has been in Raleigh since we have known the place. Tucker hall was crowded last evening to see its rendering of "The Two Orphans," a new French semational drams ; and the unanimous demand for a return of the roupe showed the estimate our citizens put upon its performance. The cosamery is new and handsome, and the whole play was given in a style that would have done no discredit to a netropolitan stage. Miss Ada Gilman, as the blind, orphan Louise, and Miss Emms Pierce, as the loving foster sister Henriette, were impassionedly tender and touching, and in many scenes melted their andience to tears. Mrs. J. H. Rogers, in the detestable character of La Frochard, was perhaps the most striking figure in the piece ; she made it grimly, losthsomely indicrous ; the perfection of a mother of out-throats and thieves. Louis L. James, as Armand, gave an erellent idea of the brave, dashing French hevalier of the last century, in whose bosom the noble impulses of the true ntleman had not been dwarfed by the glare and glitter and dissipation of Parisian court life. Harry Lee, as Pierre the knife-grinder, crippled, haggard and despised, though occasionally somewhat overstrained, merited the encore he reseived. E. B. Holmes, as Jacques, the adsome, rollicking villain, was only able. F. Chippendale, as the Doctor, looked and acted well. Thomas Whiffin, as Picard, was the fumiy man, and kept the house in a roar ; but if he was true to the character, it was an momaly; the liberties he boldly and publicly took with his superiors would never have been tolerated except in a court fool. All the supporting roles were well maintained, and altogether the performance justifies us in recommend-ing our citizens to attend Friday and Saturday evenings, when by ge request, the troups returns.
