WEEK OF PRAYER.

The largest audience ever assembled in Raleigh on such an occasion, filled the Presbyterian church last evening at the union prayer-meeting. At least seven hundred persons were present Paws overflowed, and galleries and aisles were filled. The interest was deep and the exercises peculiarly solemn and impressive. Rev. W. R. Atkinson, who is fast becoming a general favorite among our religious people of all denominations, conducted the acrvices, reading as a foundation for his opening remarks the 1st and 3d verses of the 2d chapter of 1st Timothy, and the whole of the 1st chapter of Neho miah. He spoke eloquently and well of will hear with regret of his painful misthe passages read in connection with the subjects of special prayer for the evening-rulers and magistrates; and enforced the duty of Christians to pray for their rulers, by showing their need of being prayed for.

Mr. Pairchild thought the subjects for prayer this evening, of vital importance, and portrayed the glorious time we should have if all our candidates could point to their christian record instead of their political one. Prof. W. C. Kerr, our indefatigable remains of her husband, and a party of state geologist, showed himself no less at home in theologic realms. His address was one of the finest that has been delivered during the week. He spoke of the important relation God sustains in the ruling of nations, and gave as instances the cases of Saul, David and Nebuchadnezzar. He thought God's plaintiff, Gilliam and Pruden for de- people should pray for his guidance in the selection of their rulers. We are too apt to forget the relation we hold, as christians, to civil government. Probably one object of the late war was Attorney-general for state, Walter to impress upon our minds a sense of our utter inability to govern ourselves without the assistance of One all-wise and all-powerful. Civil governments are divine institutions. God selected our government and governors just as he did those of old. He rules over all, and we should pray for rulers who will rule righteously and for the highest good of our country and people.

Rev. W. D. Taylor, of the North Methodist church, delivered a striking and impressive ten minutes discourse, in which he took occasion to repudiate utterly the recent fantastic tricks of Haven. He said Haven did not represent one in ten of his brotherhood, and vet the whole body would be held responsible for his indiscreet and ill-timed utterances. He dwelt on the inconsistency of christians all over the land praying for good and wise and holy rulers, and yet, at the bidding of any political caucus or convention, supporting for high office the basest and most degraded characters.

One of the most affecting incidents of the meeting was when Rev. W. R. Atkinson arose and said that, as one of the special objects of prayer this evening was "for prisoners and captives, for the persecuted and oppressed," he desired to ask the prayers of all christian present, for poor, down-trodden, op pressed South Carolina, his native state.

The subject for prayer this evening is 'Foreign missions: Matthew xxviii: 19." The meeting is to be held in the Swain street Baptist church, and everything indicates an immense crowd. Those who wish seats should go early.

RING. - A ring affair, about which no unpleasa t flavor hangs, came off at the State National bank, New Year's day. E. Burke Haywood, for seven years book-keeper of the institution, turns granger for his health. His associates in the bank presented him anelegant ring, as a testimental of regard. The presentation speech was made by the cashler, Samuel C. White, and was an eloquent little one-minute out-burst of oratory, which abounded with Ploye and friendship, ring-like, without end," and closed with "habitations in a world of light where all is love." DURHAM'S GROWTH.

"The Rapid Growth, of Durham, North Carolina" is the title of an interesting circular issued by H. A. Reams, one of the great tobacco dealers of that flourishing little city. It says : A person w hstopped at Durham, ten years ago, would not know the place if he stopped there now. Blackwell's great factory, and Ream's tobacco warehouse, are two buildings that would do honor to any place, no matter how large.

A few figures will show plainer words the amazing growth of this place In 1865, it had a population of 100, with property valued at $15,000; 1 tobacco | Rea. of Minnes factory, employing 5 hands, and consuming 5,000 pounds of leaf tobacco; active capital, $1,000; 2 sm 11 shops, 1 blacksmith shop, and 1 bar 1 om. Now (January 1, 1876,) it has a population of 2,000, with property valued at $550,000; 16 tobacco factories, employing 500 hands, and consuming 2,500,000 pounds of leaf tobacco; entire 2,500,000 pounds of leaf tobacco; active capital, $500,000 15 stores; 3 drug stores; 4 confectionaries; 6 boarding houses; 1 hotel; 7 restaurants and bar Tooms; 1 tin shop; 2 carriage shops; 2 steam saw mills; machine shop; 5 planing and lumber mills; and 1 newspaper and job office. We have heard people talk about the west, and how rapidly towns spring up there; but we doubt if any place there can show such solid prosperity in the same length of time as this town of Durham. Any man in North Carolina or Virginia, who will work as hard as he would be forced to work if he went west, would have two dollars to show for every one he could make there, and have besides the comfort of living in a country where he would not be compelled to close and stuff with hay all openings in his house on the wind side in winter to keep his family from freez-ing to death. We can make of these two states whatever we will,
